The Patrons of Husbandry.

Mr. J. T. Eaton, General Deputy of the State Gradge, P. of H., has announced appointments to meet the farmers in this and adjoining counties of talk to them about organization. Throughout Central North Carolina. Gol. L. Polk, editor of the Progressive Farmer at Winston, has been urging the farmers to organize clubs and he has succeeded admirably. A great many clubs have been organized within the last year, and from these a State organization that been effected which promises of the State. We suppose there is no conflict between these clubs and the Carolina and the Carolina. The soldiers there are set used to the agricultural interests of the State.
