THE JOURNAL.

Editor, H. S. HARRIS.
Business Manager, J. W. BERNE, N. C., APRIL 24, 1887.

WHAT IT WAS INTENDED FOR.

The Inter-state Commerce law it seems is about to work a revolution in trade and commerce in the great commercial centres, and for this reason there is a disposition to have the commissioners to indefinitely suspend the long and short haul clause.

Now we understand that the law was passed for the purpose of working a revolution in some matters concerning railroads, and we understood also that a commission was appointed to create and not suspend, indefinitely, its important features. The law should be executed. If it is a bad one the people will demand its repeal; if it is a good one it will not be repealed.

SHELL-FISH COMMISSION.

The State board of agriculture has elected, under the law passed by the General Assembly for the encouragement of oyster culture, W. J. Griffin, of Pasquotank; W. T. Cahoon, of Pamlico, and I. B. Watson, of Hyde, as the shell-fish commission. We had hoped to see Mr. Geo. N. Ives of this city, selected as one of the commission on account of the great interest he takes in oyster culture, but the board thought it better not to have one directly interested in cultivating oysters on the commission. The gentlemen selected, while not actively engaged in the business, have sufficient knowledge of its character to carry out the purposes of the act creating the commission and will doubtless do their duty to all concerned.

AID FROM HEAVEN.

Rev. Dr. Burchard, who alliterated the Republicans into defeat in 1856, by his famous expression of "Rum, Romanism, Rebellion," is preaching in Washington city. Before the sermon on Sunday night last, in explaining the lesson taught from the chapter read, he related a thrilling personal experience, when he was supposed to be dead and was prepared for burial, but his wife refused to believe he was dead, saying, "His work was not done." Our spiritual adviser has informed us that it is no harm to wish good to another; we therefore devoutly wish the Rev. Dr. Burchard had proceeded on his journey to Heaven when he was prepared for the trip. Blaine would then have been elected because we have never heard of the Democratic party receiving aid from Heaven.—Raleigh Signal.

There is evidence in this very item that the Democratic party did receive aid from Heaven. Had the devil been permitted to have his way he would willingly have consented, for the sake of having Blaine elected, to let Dr. Burchard go on to Heaven. For had Blaine been elected Satan would have had a grand jubilee on earth. But the omniscient plans were thwarted; Dr. Burchard was preserved for the occasion, and the right triumphed over wrong; honesty defeated corruption and fraud, and the devil has been grieving about ever since.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Wesley's Soothing Syrup will always be used for children's ailments. It soothes the child, softens the bowels, cures colic, cures wind, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. It is a five-cent bottle, and is sold everywhere.

Board of Agriculture.

MORNING SESSION.
The Board met yesterday morning at the office of the Department of Agriculture. Attorney General Davidson appeared before the Board in reference to the fertilizer license law. He gave some explanations as regards the difference between the license law of this State and that of Tennessee, dwelling upon the policing regulations of the law of this State, in that the license imposed upon fertilizer companies was a protective agent, relieving farmers from the imposition of worthless and spurious fertilizers made by weak and unreliable parties. He said that no decision made by the Supreme court of the United States in regard to the license law of other States affected the North Carolina law, and it must be enforced as it stood on the statute books until a direct decision concerning it should be made.

The geological report of Prof. J. A. Holmes, of the State University, was laid before the Board and was received as presented.

This report is edited by Prof. Holmes from notes and observations of the late Prof. W. C. Kerr, State geologist, which cover a period of twenty years of close observation. Prof. Kerr began the work in 1865, and collected a vast amount of information of the resources of the State. Prof. Holmes has been engaged for two years in editing the notes from which he has compiled a most valuable work. The report will make a book of about 600 pages, and contains full information of the mineral resources and mining interests of the State, climate and water power, agricultural resources and other miscellaneous information of value with illustrations, maps, etc. Owing to the limited finances of the department the book will probably not be distributed free, but will be sold at cost of printing.

The election of a Shell Fish Commission under the law passed by last General Assembly was held, and Messrs. W. J. Griffin, of Pasquotank county, I. B. Watson, of Hyde, and W. T. Cahoon, of Pamlico, were elected.

An order was issued for the sale and disposition of all the property formerly belonging to the Fish Commission at the different hatcheries in the State.

The president, secretary and a member of the executive committee of the State agricultural society appeared before the board with an application for the usual annual appropriation of $1,500 to the society. The matter was placed under consideration.

J. S. Leary and J. H. Williamson, from the industrial association, colored, applied for the regular annual appropriation of $500 to the association. To be considered.

The board, with Messrs. W. S. Primrose, H. E. Fries, Elias Carr and Gen. Rufus Barringer will resolve this morning into a board of trustees to consider plans and buildings for the college of agriculture and mechanic arts.

Chicago and the Anarchists.

Mr. John A. Roche, who succeeds Mr. Carter Harrison as mayor of Chicago, makes some good points in his inaugural address. In allusion to the workmen, whose candidate for the mayoralty was defeated, not as a rebuke to the workmen, but because of the anarchist who had rallied to his support, Mayor Roche reminded them that the city of Chicago was the work of their hands; that their demand for just treatment and fair wages ought to be respected; that arbitration was a better way of settling disputes than strikes or boycotts, and that for the men who, under the guise of socialism and anarchy, seek to undermine liberty and law and the blessings of free government, America is not the soil for the growth of their un-American doctrines. There is no class of citizens which has suffered more than that of workmen from the bare suspicion of association with anarchists, and their indignant repudiation of any connection with or even tolerance of such subversive doctrines is a warning to the anarchists and socialists who have claimed them as their allies. Since Mr. Powderly's denunciation of them, as the representative of the Knights of Labor, and the pronounced detestation of them by the workmen of Chicago, the association of anarchists in that city has been in process of disintegration, and if the latest reports are to be believed, they have passed resolutions dissolving their organization. Considering the general condemnation of their lawless teachings and conduct; and the utter disrepute into which they have fallen, it was the wisest thing to do. So long as they continued to uphold theories never sanctioned in practice by our laws, and declared themselves opposed to the government that sheltered and protected them in common with all other citizens, they were an excrescence on our body politic which it became necessary to deal with sharply and sternly. Of foreign birth and foreign in their habits and opinions, they fled from the restraints imposed upon them abroad, bringing with them to this country the disorganizing ideas they risked imprisonment for promulgating in the countries from whence they came. Of liberty founded on law, of the rights of property, and of orderly government, they knew nothing. The only liberty they seem to have had any conception of was that of unbounded license. A free country meant to them a country where they were at liberty to attack all existing institutions and resolve all society into its original elements. Whatever reasons they may have had at home to feel oppressed by the restrictive laws imposed upon them, they had none such with us. They might have mixed with our people on equal terms, have shared with them such work as they were capable of performing, and become reputable citizens. In defying the authorities and holding opinions that would be ruinous to society and would have made good government impossible, they have brought down upon themselves the penalty they deserved, and in dissolving their organization they have evidently come at last to the conclusion of Mayor Koebel that "America is not the soil for the growth of an American doctrine."—Baltimore Sun.
