Remember the Fourth of July meeting at the city hall tomorrow night.

A good old-fashioned Fourth of July is what we want. Let us have a grand one and invite the people to come and see us.

Rye over six feet high from E. F. Arnold Spring, Garden, Craven county, was brought in yesterday. More small grain would increase prosperity.

The question of whitewashing trees has been referred to the Lime Kiln Club, and it is hoped Bro. Gardner will satisfactorily decide the matter.

The Vesper carried out one hundred barrels of pork yesterday for New York. A new wrinkle for New Berne—exporting meat to the metropolis.

An article in the Scientific American of May 28th, headed "The Protection Shade Trees Against Insects," states that while lime is sometimes scattered around the roots of trees, or the trunk scraped and whitewashed, and has proved of value, it is far from complete.

The Saturday night freight train leaves at 8 p. m. and gives everybody ample time to transact business in New Berne and get home to spend Sunday. Truckers can finish up their week's work and rest content in the full knowledge that another market day has been afforded them, and by reason thereof better prices, possibly.

The death of Capt. Samuel W. Chadwick, which occurred at his home in this city on yesterday, takes away one more of the oldest and most respected citizens of the place. Mr. Chadwick was for many years sheriff of the county and represented the county in the General Assembly on several occasions, always filling the positions to which he was called with ability and unblemished integrity. He leaves one daughter and some grand children to mourn his death. The funeral will take place from the M. E. Church this morning at 11 o'clock.

Tiger Wildcat.
A most ferocious looking animal pronounced a tiger wildcat, was brought to the city yesterday from Grantsboro by Mr. W. H. Rawls, who shot him near his house Sunday morning. The body of the animal is dark brown, with black and white stripes on the neck and small spots on the face. He is three feet long and is the size of an ordinary dog.

Stomach Movements.
The Vesper of the E. O. D. has arrived yesterday with an exceptionally large freight and sailed yesterday with provisions and truck, there being two hundred barrels of new potatoes among the latter.

The Newberns of the O. D. line left on schedule time yesterday evening for Norfolk with a cargo of 700 boxes of beans and a number of packages of other truck, and passengers.

Educational.
What can be done for the educational interests of the children of New Berne? The school bill, which would have given us good and efficient schools for both sexes, was voted down. Some effort should be made to secure an efficient and permanent High School for the city. The New Berne Academy Trustees have two fine buildings, capable of accommodating all the children of school age, but they have not sufficient funds to pay the teachers.

We learn that the Board of Trustees, at their last meeting, appointed a committee to take the matter in consideration and to see what steps should be taken for the conduct of the school in the future.
This committee is composed of Hon. O. C. Clark, T. A. Green, Geo. Allen, J. S. Long, W. Hollister and W. G. Brinson. We trust that whatever is done may be for the best interest of the school children, and that this action of the trustees may be such as to secure the partial means and co-operation of our citizens. Now is the time to aid this committee. It is a matter of vital importance to parents, and children, and indeed to every citizen.

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Trial of Charles F. Jones for the Murder of his Wife, Tempa S. Jones.

On the 1st of May, 1887, the body of Tempa S. Jones, a white woman, was found in Neuse river, near Maple Cypress. An inquest was held, which resulted in the arrest and imprisonment of her husband, Charles F. Jones. On the first day of the court, at the spring term, 1887, the grand jury returned a true bill of indictment for murder. The prisoner was arraigned, and not being able to employ counsel, His Honor Judge Shipp, assigned as counsel, Hon. F. M. Simmons, Messrs. L. J. Moore, P. H. Pelletier and W. W. Clark. Solicitor Geo. H. White appeared alone for the State. The trial was set for Wednesday, June 1st, and a special venire of one hundred ordered.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock court was called, a considerable crowd in addition to the special venire being present.

The prisoner, a man about five feet ten inches, dark complexion, jet black hair, brown eyes, short thin whiskers and mustache, head of rather an idiotic shape, of stout build, weighs perhaps about one hundred and sixty pounds, and is about twenty five to thirty years old. He was brought in and seated near his counsel, who during the preliminary arrangements for beginning the trial held close consultations with him.

The special venire being called, Solicitor White called the witnesses for the State and announced his readiness for trial. The prisoner's counsel, after some delay to ascertain if witnesses were present, announced that they were ready to proceed.

The following gentlemen of the regular panel were sworn as jurors: Oliver Mitchell, col., W. R. Dunn, Noah Powers, col., W. L. Gaskins and W. N. Tingle. From the special venire, Redding McIlwain, col., W. H. Fenderson, col., E. E. Tucker, col., S. S. Staten, col., W. H. S. Turner, Samuel Blackledge, col., and F. Boesser.

The solicitor read the bill of indictment, the prisoner standing during the reading.

The following witnesses were sworn for the State: Susan Westbrook, Gaston Westbrook, Pearce Ransom, Mary Hays, Charity Daly, Joe Manly, Shade Kirkman, Henry Brown, W. H. Adams, L. W. Smith, Israel Roach, Lafayette Kirkman, Dr. R. G. Cobb.

Court took a recess to one o'clock. Court commenced at two o'clock.

The testimony was voluminous and entirely circumstantial. The evidence was that the prisoner married in October, 1885, Tempa S. Westbrook, that they lived together for a few months with his wife's father and mother, that they did not live in peace the whole of the time; that their trouble led to a demand by Jones in May, 1886, for a divorce, and that he said if she did not agree to it, he would have one anyhow; that there was a child born in August after the marriage in October, and that Jones did not live with her after that time; that he went to the north side of Neuse river and was working on the farm of a Mr. Kirkman and staying at night at a Mrs. Haddock's in the neighborhood, and that he asked Kirkman if he could not get a divorce for him from his wife and license to marry a Miss Haddock, and he was informed that it could not be done; that he went to the house of his wife's father on the last day of April, 1877, staid with his wife that night, was very restless and slept with a knife under his pillow, and also appeared to be on good terms with his wife and wanted her to go with him to the north side of the river where he was at work; that she left her father's house on Sunday with her baby and a sack of clothes with her husband; that they were seen on the same day about twelve o'clock about one mile from the river where she was said to have been drowned, and that he was abusive to her at that time and told her she would repent her bargain before she got to the place she was going; that he was seen on the north side of the river the same day between three and four o'clock in the afternoon with the child and sack of clothes; that he told that his wife had been drowned by the sinking of the boat in the middle of the river, and that she told him to take the child and save it and himself; that he said he swam ashore with the child, and it was also proved that he had to wade across a slough in going from the river and that he was not wet above the waist nor was the child wet; that the boat which he crossed the river in was not sunk but was safely landed on the north side, and that it belonged to one Pearce Ransom who found in the plank which he saw Jones with on the day of the alleged drowning; that the track of a man and woman were seen where the boat landed and followed up to an abandoned house a few hundred yards below the river and back to the river below where the boat was landed; that signs of a violent scuffle were to be seen on the banks of the river; that Jones when asked to give the particulars of the drowning stated that his boat began to sink on the opposite side of the river and 80 or 100 yards below where this scuffle occurred; that the body was found about twenty-five or thirty yards below where the scuffle was and on the same side of the river; that there were thirteen imprints of a thumb nail on her throat. It was also proven by Dr. R. G. Cobb, who made the post mortem examination, that, in his opinion, death was produced by choking, and that the body was in an unconscious state before being thrown into the river.

The above is a synopsis of the evidence upon which the State rested its case when the court adjourned yesterday evening to nine o'clock this morning.

Personal.

We had a call from Mr. Albert Grady, Tuesday, who now is teaching at Harlowe. He reports the prospects of his school as bright, and that the Sunday school there still continues to flourish.

W. T. Cabo, Esq., of Pamlico, is in the city and goes to La Grange this morning to attend the commencement exercises of Kinney's School. Several other parties from Pamlico went up yesterday morning.

Dr. P. P. Gates of Bayboro is in the city, and goes to his old home near Kinston, this morning on a visit to his sick mother.

HANLAN BEATEN.

GAUDAUR DEFEATS HIM BY FOUR LENGTHS AT THE CALUMET COURSE.

CHICAGO, May 30.—The great three-mile race between Hanlan and Gaudaur occurred at the Calumet course today for the championship of America and $5,000 to stakes. A slight roughness of the water had no deterring influence, and the start was made with promptness. Hanlan was at once a trifle in the lead, pulling a short quick stroke, 42 to the minute. Gaudaur kept close to him with a long, steady sweep, about 36 to the minute. Gradually Hanlan forged ahead, and at the end of the first mile was fully a boat length in advance. It had been the gossip that if Hanlan could lead to the turn he was nearly a certain winner, but if Gaudaur reached the buoy first Hanlan would never catch up on a stern chase. Great, therefore, were the expectations of Hanlan's friends to see him nearing the turn clearly ahead of Gaudaur and gaining all the time. The rain now began to fall. The lake was soon lumpy from end to end, and the downpour was almost blinding. Hanlan turned first, two lengths ahead; time, 10.02. He was pulling about 35 strokes a minute at this point, and rounding to Gaudaur struck about the same gait. Hanlan stopped an instant here for some purpose, but did not lose the lead. He kept well to the front from the start until entering the third mile. There Hanlan commenced to flag. So uneven did his stroke become, and so great an effort did it seem to require, that many believed his boat was leaking or had shipped one of the choppy seas. Gaudaur was rowing magnificently. He showed the long, steady sweep he had taken at the outset, but faster. With machine-like precision he passed the struggling Hanlan. A boat's length of water between them could be seen, then another, and at last one more. "Hanlan's beaten," murmured the crowd. "No, no," shouted others. "See him spurt; see him spurt." And spurt Hanlan did with vengeance. The multitudes on shore and aloft held their breath, then, regardless of rain, tossed hats and umbrellas in the air and started to yell like Comanches. The cheers died on their lips. Hanlan could not stand the pace, and again Gaudaur's great sweep began to tell. It was then that Hanlan lay back just an instant, and turning his face from the rain, shot a glance over his shoulder at Gaudaur. The single glance was enough. Hanlan saw himself irrevocably beaten. Gaudaur was six lengths to the fore. Seeing Hanlan surrender all hope, Gaudaur magnanimously slackened the speed and passed the stand an easy winner by four lengths time, 10.30. It was a fine performance under the adverse conditions.

Hanlan was seen by an Associated Press reporter immediately after the race and asked what he thought of the result. "I do not think the best man won," said Hanlan, "though I acknowledge I was fairly beaten." Questioned how that could be, the champion grew taciturn and would only say that he did not wish to make any excuses. Persistent queries, however, brought out the statement from Hanlan that he had not been suffering from a cold. "I have not been suffering from a cold," he said, "and it told on me, exactly, what I said. I wanted to say 'no.' In sharp contrast to the glum appearance of Hanlan, was the bright, unclouded face of Gaudaur. "That was the hardest race I ever rowed," said he. "I just had to do my level best," he said, "and I did it." The reference of the race was Hanlan's choice—Hamilton Bay, of New York. Hanlan gets forty per cent. of $5,000, the total gate receipts.

The time (10:30) was this evening declared official. Gaudaur, therefore, broke the record, the best previous time being his own against Teemer, over the same course—10:54.
Hanlan, though beaten, not only forced Gaudaur to break all records, but also broke them himself. Hanlan's time, according to the official record, was 10:24. His brother, Peter Duryea, taking command of the boat, rowed tonight that he would send Hanlan to Australia to beat Beach and then return to again attempt the defeat of Gaudaur.

Mr. Duryea attributes Hanlan's defeat mainly to the fact that his boat was unfitted for rough water, while Gaudaur's was peculiarly adapted to it. Hanlan also inclined to this view later, and brightened up noticeably after it was announced as certain that he had surpassed the world's best previous record.

Kinston Items.

W. D. Pollock is reading law under Scholter Allen.

Mr. Oliver Ellis will be glad to be glad to learn of improving.

Kinston for the first time today had a lot in town. Nevertheless, we saw a little too much occasionally.

The Goldsboro Messenger, which has a very large patronage at this place, moves to Wilmington in June.

Mr. Chas. B. Aycock, of Goldsboro, delivered an address before the United Academy, this county, last week.

Saline, the little daughter of Mr. W. O. Moseley, died Wednesday last. We also learn his little boy is sick.

Both the prohibitionists and the anti-claim about forty magistrates. How worry, we can all tell Monday night.

The last school of the year at Simmons' school Monday. Six boys and six girls barely appeared in appearance of six hungry men.

It was reported in town Monday that a certain widower had taken to himself a better half. It is with regret that we make the correction.

Mr. J. W. Bryan of Goldsboro spent a few days in town last week. He addressed the people on prohibition Sunday in the court house.

School days are about over for the present. Our children were generally scattered notwithstanding excellent school facilities.

Prohibition log rollings are expected for Monday, election day, at which the immense wages of $2 50 are offered with plenty of water thrown in.

E. J. Pittman lost his small boy Tuesday evening. It had been confined for several weeks with dysentery. It seems to prove fatal in nearly every case.

The protracted meetings at the Methodist Church have been closed, but not without much good. Nine additions to the church. Dr. Rosser left Tuesday for other fields.

M. A. Gray delivers a literary address to Mrs. Lizzie C. Davis at school at Seven Springs, June 15. Mr. Gray is a natural orator, and we bespeak for the citizens of that place a rich treat.

The commencement exercises of Kinston College began Tuesday and will close today, Thursday, with the annual concert. This ends another successful year of this institution. We hope that each succeeding year it will continue to grow as in the past.

Mr. Jno. H. Avery is the lowest bidder for carrying a daily mail from Kinston to Bell's Ferry. He proposes carrying it for $350.00 per year. If people would not do such work for really less than they can afford it would allow some one to at least make expenses.

T. L. Williamson, who for the last three years has been cashier for Loftin's Bank, left Friday for Mount Airy where he will go in business for himself. Tom has made himself quite popular during his stay in Kinston, and we regret much to see him leave. We wish him much success in his new calling.

The people of Pink Hill township are taking steps to have a postoffice established at Stroud's store, near Nobles' mill. Many of them get their mail now at Kinston, fourteen miles distant. They need the office, and we hope that Hon. F. M. Simmons will aid them in getting it. Pink Hill is a Simmons stronghold.

The judiciary of Woodington township was well exhausted the other day when Esquire James Herring roped a calf and undertook to hold him while the milker held the "pap." The calf was of the opinion that it was not government "pap" and nobody had so good a right to it as himself. So he went for the court, shoved his head between his legs and leveled the judiciary with earthly things. After the calf had laid the Esquire out it belted over him and gave him such fright as to force a surrender of the "pap."

Good Results in Every Case.
D. A. Bradford, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes that he was seriously afflicted with a severe cold that settled on his lungs; had tried many remedies without benefit. Being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, did so, and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all Coughs and Colds with best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this Wonderful Discovery. Trial bottles free at R. N. Duffy's drug store.
