Closing Exercises of the New Bern Graded School.

The continuation of the closing exercises of New Bern Graded School were held at the theatre yesterday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. The day's exercises began with prayer by Rev. Dr. Theo. Whitfield.

Prof. Neal announced that the reading of compositions was next in order.

Shepard Bryan was the first called for. His subject was "Liberty," and under this head he treated briefly the following subjects: civil, individual, paternal, political, religious liberty, and liberty of the press. He is a good reader, and the subject of his composition was well handled.

Ernest Aiken followed subject "War." We must correct an error which he naturally fell into concerning the most notable Confederate war vessel.

The iron-clad ship that steamed out from Newport News in 1862 and created such excitement in Hampton Roads, was not the "Merrimack," as is commonly reported, but the "Virginia." We do not offer this as a criticism of the composition, which was very creditable, but to correct an error in history.

The old wooden war vessel, Merrimack, was rebuilt by the Confederates, made an iron-clad gunboat, and named the Virginia.

John S. Thomas was the next reader. His composition on "Character" was well written, and certainly well read.

Prof. Neal then came forward and announced the annual honor roll. This includes all who have been on the monthly honor roll for eight months out of the ten, and is based upon scholarship, attendance and deportment. The following is the list:

Second grade—Bertha Kafer and Willie Schiesler.

Third grade—Charlie Schiesler and Laura Suter.

Fourth grade—Louis Suter.

Fifth grade—Rosa Dail.

Sixth grade—Jennie Burrus, Nannie Hill and Robert Crawford.

Seventh grade—Bertha Cutler, Nellie Pearce and Geo. Whitfield.

Eighth grade—Ada Burrus.

Ninth grade—Sam. M. Brinson and John S. Thomas.

The president of the board of trustees being absent on professional business, the duty of presenting the certificates of distinction and diplomas devolved upon John S. Long, Esq. After an appropriate address of a few minutes concerning the work of the school, the following were presented certificates of distinction:

Luther Taylor, Nannie Hill, James Hill, Nettie Tolson, Clara Clark, Rosa Dail, Carrie Simmons, Jennie Burrus, May Henderson, John Mayo, Oswald Kafer, Emma Whitfield, Laura Suter, Emma Wolfenden, Lewis Cox, Charles Schiesler, Louisa Suter, Nellie Pearce, Carrie Arendall, Bertha Cutler, Robert Crawford, Ada Burrus, George Whitfield, Emma Henderson, Willie Pearce, Shepard Bryan, John Thomas, Samuel Brinson, Willie Schiesler and Bertha Kafer.

The following were awarded diplomas: Shepard Bryan, John S. Thomas and Samuel M. Brinson.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Crawford and the audience dismissed.

Evening Exercises.

Promptly at 8 p. m. a large and intelligent audience assembled to witness the presentation of the medals and to hear the address of Clement Manly, Esq.

Prof. Neal announced that the scholarship medal had been awarded to Mr. John S. Thomas, and that E. R. Bryan, Esq., would present the same. Mr. Thomas ascended the platform, and Mr. Bryan, in a short and appropriate address in which he urged the recipient to climb high and rest assured that there is room at the top of the ladder, presented the medal.

W. W. Clark, Esq., on the part of the judges on declamation, announced that it was the unanimous opinion of the same that the declamations were above the average, and that the judges had great difficulty in deciding between two of the declaimers, the compositions of the places being totally different and both well delivered. These were Mr. John S. Thomas and Mr. Shepard Bryan. But they were compelled to decide between the two and Mr. Thomas ascended the platform, and Mr. Bryan, in a beautiful and appropriate address, presented the medal.

These declaimers both began with 14 carat gold, and were prepared by Mr. Sam. K. Eaton. The scholarship medal was offered by the law firm of Galt & Pritchard, and the declamation medal by Mr. T. A. Green.

Prof. Neal announced that this closed the exercises of the month of 1887, tendered his thanks to the audience for their attention and expressed the wish that they would like to meet here on many similar occasions. Superior Court.

Chas. F. Jones Sentenced to be Hanged. His Counsel Appeals to Supreme Court for a New Trial.

Upon the assembling of the Superior Court on Wednesday morning Chas. F. Jones, who had been convicted of murder, and Cyrus Westbrook, and Dempsey Bell, who had been convicted of larceny, were brought into Court.

His Honor announced his readiness to hear the motion for a new trial in the Jones case. The prisoner's counsel, W. W. Clark, Esq., stated that they asked for a new trial upon the ground that His Honor charged the jury that the evidence showed murder or nothing, thus taking from the jury the question of malice. His Honor overruled the motion for a new trial, stating that he had delayed the matter for several days and given it considerable thought, and could find no reason for granting a new trial. The prisoner's counsel gave notice of an appeal.

Solicitor White then asked the judgment of the Court. There was a death-like stillness in the court room while His Honor proceeded to pass the solemn sentence. He said he would express no opinion about the matter, but would simply do what the law required of him—to pronounce the sentence of death, which was that the sheriff should take the prisoner and hang him by the neck until he was dead. The prisoner, who appeared a little bit agitated from the time he was brought in did not appear to be affected by the sentence. His Honor told him that if he had not thought seriously of his condition it was time for him to do so; that he had better consult persons more capable of advising him as to the future than he.

The sentence, of course is suspended, until the Supreme Court passes upon the motion for a new trial. If it is granted, the prisoner will stand for trial at the next term of the Court; if a new trial is not granted, then it becomes the duty of the Governor to name the day for the execution.

Cyrus Westbrook, white, and Dempsey Bell, col., having been convicted of larceny, the Solicitor asked the judgment of the Court. Westbrook's attorneys made an earnest appeal for him. Bell's attorney also appealed to His Honor for mercy. His Honor stated that they had been convicted and he saw no mitigating circumstances in their favor. The sentence was that Westbrook go to the penitentiary for three years and Bell for two years. Westbrook's counsel gave notice of an appeal.

The civil docket was taken up and the case of Price vs. Price, suit for divorce in which the husband appeared as plaintiff was begun.

This case was hotly contested and consumed the entire day. Messrs. W. E. Clarke and M. D. W. Stevenson represented the plaintiff and J. J. Moore and Simmons & Manly the defendant. The arguments of counsel were able and earnest. Verdict for defendant. The plaintiff was immediately arrested upon a writ from Nash county for abandonment and lodged in jail.

All jury cases remaining on the docket were called and the jury discharged for the term.

Thanks.
