we do not know whether or not any such steps were taken-is based upon section 29 of the city charter which donations or other sources shall be paid to the treasurer of the city, and no appropriation thereof shall be made except for the necessary expenses of the strued as to give three members out of eight of the board of bonneil power to absolutely prevent the appropriation of any moneys for necessary expenses. And if they have such power they surely will not allow their prejudices to put them in the attitude of characterists. Even if appropriations are made that do not entirely meet their approval, it would be better, if it is a small amount, to let it pass than to mour the expense of an injunction and suit. They may be wrong in their judgment as to Miss Maria Comwhether such appropriations are necessary. It certainly is not an act of patrictism or economy to incur two or three hundred dollars cost in order to save seventy five or one hundred that might probably have been well spent.

Men may have their differences during a campaign but after they are elected and sworn into office, their rela tions to the people change. It becomes shelf duty then to look to the welfare of the whole people whom they represept, and not use their offices to gratify little petty spites that may have been engendered during the empaign.
