Swine Cholera.

A good thing concerning swine cholera is well said on page 230 of ! the June Cultivator: That by giving swine a variety of wholesome food, ters, and keeping as near to nature's treatment as the conditions of domestication will permit, we may hearly or altogether prevent the appearance of swine cholera, is supported by so much evidence that it cannot be denied with reason. My father indulged in the expensive luxury of frequent out breaks of cholera among his swine for years; then, becoming convinced that rational, careful treatment of the animals would prevent this disease, he stopped J. H. Zoltin & Co. Philandelphia Pahis search for a remedy and gave all his attention to sanitation and hygiene in the swine lot. That was almost twenty years ago, and there has been but one outbreak of disease among his swine since, and that only carried off five or six pigs. He has always been known as an extensive grower of the best hogs. He has reared nothing but pure bred swine for a quarter of a century at least: hence he has further demonstrated that pure bred swine may be protected from the disease. There is no reason why disease should prevail among swine more than other animals, except that swine are kept under conditions which are very unfavorable to health. Swine plague is produced Muddy branch poessin on the north quite common, and it is well known road, a lot of harness, a clock spoons.

Bill Nye Talks to Young Men. Young man, what are you living fort Have you an object dear to Celebrated Prison Boots and you as life, and without the attainment of which you feel that your life would have been a wide, shore of dead ambition? You can take your choice in the great battle of life, whether you bristle up and win a deathless name, or be satisfied with scabs and mediocrity. Many of those wha now stand at the head of the nation as statesmen and logicians were once unknown, unhonored and unsung. Now they saw the air of the halls of Congress, and their names are plastered on the temple of fame.

You can win some laurels too, if you will brace up and secure them when they are ripe. Live temperately ond $9 a month. That's the way we got our start. Get some true, nobleminded young lady of your acquaintance to assist you. Tell her of your troubles and she will gladly advise you. Then you can marry her, and she will advise you some more. You needn't be out of advice at all unles you want to. She, too, will tell you when you have made a mistake. She will come to you frankly and acknowlege that you have made a jackass of yourself. As she gets more acquainted with you she will be more candid with you, and in her unstudied. girlish way, she will point errors, and gradually convince you with an old chair leg and other arguments, ageb time, and wear good clothes, and notted.
