GREEN MANURING. NUMBER 2. The fact that land can be cheaply and profitably improved by growing a crop of clover peas, eye mullet or even grass and weeds for the purpose of plowing under has been proven beyond a doubt by many experiments. The question with the farmer is, how shall he obtain the best results with the least outlay of time and money? It is best to let the land rest alternate years and to permit the growth of weeds and grass or it is better to break the land and to sow clover peas or other crop for the purpose of plowing under for manure? Is it best to plow the crop under during the summer or fall or winter, or wait until ready to plant in the spring in order to obtain the latest results? Or shall it be better to let the breaking the land. This plan is followed by many farmers because it is troublesome to plow it. These farmers should burn up their stubble manure also for the same reason. It is easier to haul and spread the stubble than to haul the manure. Has any farmer tried the experiment of breaking a part of his soil in the fall and a part in the next spring and watched the results? What is the value of a crop of peas sown to the land? What is the best disposition to make of them? Shall hogs be permitted to gather the pods and trample the vines or should all be returned to the land? Should a pea crop be turned under in the green state or when? Does the sun, wind and rain during the six months from October to March damage soil or plowed land more? Is a covering and shade protection during these months of any value to the land in the country, where there is no snow to cover it? What is the most profitable crop to grow for manuring purposes? What is the value of an out-of-millet stubble to the land as compared with a growth of weeds? When should rain or sowing land be broken in order to obtain the best results? Can a money or forage crop be taken from the land and a manuring crop be made during the same year? These are questions of very great importance to the practical farmer, for on just such matters the question of profit or loss in farming depends. One farmer makes four hundred pounds of cotton per acre, another never obtains over three hundred pounds. What is the reason? Is it not because the latter does not work properly? The Armed Fued at Morehead, Ky. CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The Times Lexington, Ky., special says: A letter just received from Morehead, gives the following particulars about the seizure of guns yesterday. The insecurity and lawlessness which have been felt since the departure of Andy and Willye Toliver and their friends, received a fresh impetus yesterday afternoon, when Adjutant Williams, with a squad of men filled into the depot and seized a case of rifles and 2,000 rounds of ammunition that had just been taken off the train and hurried them into camp. These are the same guns that were shipped to Z. T. Young, Mr. Sterling, from Lexington, some weeks ago. Major McKee, fearing a collision between the factions, immediately sent out a half dozen squads of men searching suspected houses for arms, and must have captured several weapons hidden. From houses alone they recovered ten Winchester rifles, three shotguns, two muskets, and several more of varying rifles. The raid created quite a stir in the town, and it is the general belief that if Major McKee had not taken these steps a night would have taken place.

Kinston Items. Dr. J. P. Bryan, who has been suffering with diabetes for some time, died at twelve o'clock Sunday night. He was conscious up to the last minute. His two daughters, Misses Helen and Laura Bryan, who had been on a visit to friends in Tarboro, reached here just one hour before he died. A desperate character was arrested here on Sunday night, Aug. 14th. Geo. Pearson, charged with committing rape on a negro woman in Onslow county, was discovered in Kinston on the above named night, and Sheriff Sutton with two others arrested him after considerable difficulty. The negro drew a pistol and tried to shoot the Sheriff, who wrenched the pistol from his hands, and in the scuffle the negro was shot, inflicting only a scalp wound. He was then placed in jail to await further orders. From Austin, Tex., Statesman. The effect of Hawkes' Crystallized Lenses upon the organs of vision is simply wonderful, as there are several prominent gentlemen in the Land Office whose sight has been restored by their use, and hundreds of similar cases throughout the United States can be referred to.

THE DAILY JOURNAL has commenced the very thing, green manuring that is of interest to our readers in that direction and are desirous of all the light they can get. We would be glad for someone who understands thoroughly the subject of drainage, to give the readers of the JOURNAL their ideas on this important subject as we are confident that there are thousands of dollars wasted in attempting to construct drains that are not put in their proper places.

Jones County Items.

We had a good shower of rain accompanied with thunder on Saturday last.

The health of our community is good but very few seem to be getting nearly safe.

We learn that Mrs. Bennett the daughter of the late A. B. Betts died a few days ago at Beaufort, N. C.

A protracted meeting is being held at Beaufort, N. C., by the Rev. Mr. Washburn and others.

Somewhere in the good book it is written that when the wicked turn the people mourn. Well, we are proud to point to our little county and say all our country men with one exception are worthy members of churches.

While during the past week and a half a great many of our agricultural friends are preparing for a wide planting timber and machinery. I was pleased with the fact that a good locality has been secured for the planting of a saw plant and other machinery at Beaufort, N. C.

Our community is now busily engaged planting the past week in the S. E. corner of ... We learn that several of our friends are waiting their turn to get planted.

Our churches in our county have been having a good time of it. We learn that the Rev. Mr. Johnson at Washington has been holding a series of meetings and have had 17 conversions to the church. The Rev. Mr. Washburn of Jones county has had an accession of 40 members, at Shady Grove. The Rev. Mr. Davis, Disciple, have been holding meetings at Deep Springs, with an accession of two members.

Mr. J. N. ... my remedy for hog cholera was a failure with his hogs. Says he, you recommended salt and lime, I was building and had plenty of lime. I gave it to them. I also had plenty of peas. I boiled them, added soda, lime and sulphur and gave it to them all had it, but one died. I fear friend Fescue used too much lime. I fear he entertained the idea of a certain old worthy citizen of our county that where a little was useful much was better and by these means gave his hogs too much lime.
