County Expenditures.

We publish today the claims allowed by the board of county commissioners at the August meeting. The law requires these itemized expenditures to be published that the people may see and know that their money is being properly expended. We notice one commendable reform the commissioners have made, and that is in the matter of allowances made to tax list takers. The total expenditures for the nine months ending Sept. 1st 1887 foot up $7,065.55. This is a little reduction on last year and it would seem that the expenditures this year will fall under $10,000.

Another Suggestion.

The county stock in the A. & N. C. R. or the prospect of holding a market for a fair price has caused the people to begin to think about it and some money for burning is to the county's good in some way or other. It is now suggested that it be given as a subscription to send a railroad to Onslow county. This is so bad. If Craven would give her stock in the A. & N. C. R. for the same amount of stock in the East Carolina Land & Railway Co., it would have the building of a road to Onslow. The people of Craven ought to consent to let their county stock aid them in getting rid of their debt. Perhaps it is well to state that this suggestion did not come from a stockholder in the East Carolina Land & Railway Co. nor any one interested in the same.

THE KNOWNOTHINGS

Propose to Enter the Presidential Campaign of 1888.

The old war cry of the know-nothing party, "America for Americans," will again be raised in the presidential campaign of 1888 by a new American party, come forth, like Lazarus, from the tomb of the old. The projectors of the renewed movement say, however, that the know-nothing movement never was dead, and that, with its objectionable features lopped off, it still lives.

During the celebration of the constitutional centennial in this city a preparatory convention will be held, at which delegates from thirty-eight States will be present. The call for this convention has already been drafted by a body known as the "American National Committee," composed of some twenty or thirty men. Although this committee has been working very quietly, they have been for over a year in active correspondence with more or less prominent people throughout the country, and have laid the foundation for a solid party of organization. The claim among their numbers over 1,500,000 persons, members of societies whose purpose is to inculcate purely American ideas, some of which are a survival of the know-nothing organizations of 1844. General Master Workman Powderly is a prominent member of this new party, and has given utterances more than once to the principle this new party propose to stand on. These principles all emanate from one central idea, the restriction of immigration. "The September convention will devote itself to formulating a scheme to effects thorough organization of State, county and township committees, and will call a convention to be held next July, probably in this city, when candidates for President and Vice President and State tickets will be put in the field."—Philadelphia Express.

TO AND AT NAGS HEAD.

We arrived at this pleasant resort and historic locality on the 17th inst. per steamer Pamlico, Capt. Southgate commanding. We had intended writing the JOURNAL earlier, but our attention being so much attracted delay was caused, and had not the great storm occurred (which we wish we were able to describe the fourth of its awfulness and grandeur) it may have been even later.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock was the hour of sailing. The weather was fine, the passengers in live spirits, and together with good fare, necessarily made the trip an enjoyable one.

The waters traversed are pretty well known to most Eastern North Carolinians, hence we will have but little to say of them. On leaving the "City of Elms," a feeling of melancholy is produced that we find somewhat difficult to reconcile. The run on the river to Pamlico sound is about forty miles, then by those lonely looking sound light-houses.

At twilight we are against dreaded Hatteras that has lured so many ships to destruction. Having previously expressed a desire to see this wonderful tower light-house, Capt. Southgate points it out (a small glimmering light that comes and goes at regular intervals) away over to our right at the remarkable distance of thirty miles. It is the eight-second flash light, by which peculiarity it makes itself known to mariners. In its construction it consists of stone and masonry in a cylindrical form with winding stair on the inside and almost as slim as a stack pole. It stands 190 feet high and on a clear night can be seen at a distance of probably fifty miles. The strangest feature of this light-house is a continual motion that it has. Whether stormy or during a perfect calm this way is kept up. Only one other tower light is passed—that of Body's Island. It is similar to the Hatteras light though not quite so tall, nor does it have that elastic movement.

AT NAGS HEAD.

Resching here at 11 o'clock at night we get off at the long pier extending out in the sound and have to walk up to the hotel with gripsacks in hand, no porter being there to relieve us of that burden. We have neglected to mention that we are in company with Mr. W. G. Lang, a most worthy and pleasant gentleman from Pitt county. Though quite late, dancing is still in progress. The crowd is larger than we had anticipated, but the clerk informs us that many of them were excursionists from Elizabeth City, and that he was sorry he would be unable to furnish us a room in the hotel on account of the excursionists remaining over that night and having engaged them ahead of us. He kindly offered to do the best he could for us, that was to take us over to one of the cottages for that night. The next day he would give us a good room. A servant took our baggage, and in company with friend L. we were escorted to a rude looking house with steps running up on the outside reminding us of going up into a hay loft. There was not a light to be seen at first, but a lantern was finally found and we were led down a passageway by the rooms. The first one had no door and the second, opposite the first, had scarcely anything in it. The third we concluded to take. It had two beds, or rather bedsteads, the mattresses on which seemed to be filled with seaweed, pinebark or something worse. The pillows were of the same material. But with all that a tired and sleepy person can find repose. About one o'clock found us dropping off to sleep in that state of happiness that only tired manhood can properly appreciate. In less than one hour a heavy knocking and pounding was heard. A heavy wind and rain was raging. L. was standing on the floor trying to prop and wedge a window sash that had blown out and was turning in the rain. He had drawn his bed across the room to prevent a drenching from the rain which penetrated that whole side of the building. I found that myself had been given a shower bath unsoiled and unbeknowning. All this kept us awake fully an hour longer, still we thought it possible to get four or five hours sleep by late breakfast, but fate was against us. Our eyes were just closing in sleep when some half a dozen boys who had been indulging rather much came up and wanted sleeping quarters with somebody they didn't care who, but nobody wanted them. They tried our door but found it strongly fastened and the knob taken off. They then proceeded to where a poor fellow who was so unfortunate as to get the room with no door at all and made a raid on him. He reasoned, pleaded and did every thing he could to get them to desist, but no go. He then tried rash measures, but instead of improving, matters were made worse. They set up a general serenade until about day when they went down to the boat that brought them there to the delight of many annoyed persons. The next day we got a pleasant room in the hotel and made up for lost sleep.

HOW THE GUEST AMUSE THEMSELVES.

There are between 75 and one hundred here now, and many of them are leaving every time a boat touches. On the other hand a few new ones come in. The first thing in the morning after breakfast is to sit around and gossip until 10 o'clock when the big bell out doors is rung as a signal to go over to the beach for a surf bath. A horse is attached to a car and you have an opportunity of riding by paying five cents each way. The surf here is the best that we have ever experienced. Also we have never seen a beach equal to this for driving. It is much regretted that the excellent livery that was here last year is not here now, though most of the cottagers have their private teams and some of the hotel patrons have brought their turnouts with them. Beyond a doubt the bathing and driving at Nags Head can hardly be surpassed. Most of those who try the water have brought along their own suits and not only are they pretty and tastefully made up but they have some decency about them which is generally lacking in those furnished at watering places. The scenery along the beach for seven miles adjacent Nags Head is magnificent. The contrast between the mountainous hills of bleak sand and others clothed entirely in a coat of green presents a scene of exquisite beauty and loveliness. The lakes are admirable places to visit. They contain quantities of fish and offer rare sport to catchers of the fluky tribe.

After dinner sleeping which the coast calls for so much of is engaged in until 4 o'clock when the big bell again sounds to repair to the surf. After supper comes the dancing to sweet music rendered by a string band. There are many pretty young ladies here, among which New Berne has a fair representative. As to children there is no end to them here, there and everywhere.

The most severe storm that we have ever witnessed raged here Saturday the 20th, which we may speak of later.

NEWS NOTES.

A Hartford dispatch states that the amount of deposits in Connecticut Savings banks which have remained without claimants for twenty years is over $75,000. A number of the largest depositors were soldiers, who went to the war in 1861 and 1862, and were not heard from afterward.

A real estate syndicate in Chicago has just purchased several thousand acres in the neighboring town of Lynde for a new cemetery for Chicago's dead, at a cost of about one million and a quarter dollars. Most of the tract was bought up quietly at $15 to $20 per acre, but the deal being discovered, the rest of the property brought up to $50 an acre.

The tax digests in Georgia complete with the exception of fourteen counties, show an increase of $7,000,000 compared with last year. The remaining counties, with three railroads yet to be heard from, will swell the aggregate increase of wealth to something over $12,000,000 for the year. Fulton county, including Atlanta which was asserted would be injured by prohibition shows an increase in value of $1,447,525 over last year.

The Pacific railroad commission has been compelled to ask the United States Circuit Court at San Francisco to issue an order requiring Leland Stanford to tell why he ought not to be compelled to disclose the use he made of some $734,000 of the money of the Central Pacific Railroad between 1870 and 1880. The Senator presented vouchers that did not show where the money went. It went for "expenses," and that was enough for the commission to know, in Mr. Stanford's opinion. The whole sum the Senator is asked to tell about is about $2,000,000. It went, it is believed, "to influence legislation."

A recent issue of the Rome (Ga.) Courier tells of a marvelous "mountain of marble" which is being developed nine miles from that city. The existence of the quarry has been known for many years, but it was never worked with profit until it was bought by an Atlanta company for the small sum of $2,700. The purchasers introduced new machinery and having applied a diamond drill bored 200 feet perpendicularly and horizontally without ascertaining the full extent of the magnitude of the quarry. The marble is of superior quality. The Courier says that a fine block is now being taken out 20 by 124 feet, worth $5,000, and that there are a million blocks like it in the quarry.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Beecher's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.
