Messrs. Watson & Street announce s fact in another column in regard to a building and loan association, which we can offer no excuse for our ignorance. Really we did know that they had been soliciting subscriptions to an enterprise of this sort, but we did not have this in sened the ball by giving to the public an argument in favor of such an association. But we hope no harm is done by this oversight on our part. The suggestion of Messrs. Watson & Street that a meeting of those who have subscribed to stock, and others who desire to do so, should be held at an early day is a good one, and we hope the time will soon be announced.
