The Education of the Hand.

The introduction of drawing as a branch of study in the New Berne High School is a step in the right direction. Miss Mace of this city will also instruct a private class in this industrial art, and it is to be heped that our citizens will give it that consideration it deserves. The committee on Industrial Education appointed by the American Institute of Instruction in their report to the joint meeting of the Institute and for eight days, and with palm branches, National Educational Association, held citron, the myrtle and the willow rep at Saratoga, July 15th, 1889, recommended the teaching of drawing, "not as an accomplishment, but as Hard Times to his store to be married a language for the graphic ered upon them and on the earth. Octo Low Prices. He has a large and at presentation of the facts of form tober 11 is the festival of rejoicing in and of matter; for the presentation of vative and orthodox congregations finthe appearance of objects, and also as a lish the reading of the weekly lessons of means of developing taste in industrial the Pentateuch. On October 19 and 28 tax list for the year 1887 is in his hands, design." In other words, it is simply and he respectfully invites those manual training for the girls. It is charged with taxes to come forward neccessary that they should be taught habits of industry; that their hands should be trained, a skilled hand being on the fourth page of this issue. He about as important as a filled head. We hope to see the teaching of this useful art brought into requisition and receive such an impetus in New Berne this year that every high school will necessarily have to embrace it.
