HER FUTURE. "No one, we presume, will deny but Newbern has been sleeping for twenty odd years, and that during that time, by the inaction of her population, she has lost those elements that constituted her former greatness. Ever since the construction of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad, until very recently, Newbern has been wasting away. This gradual decay finally became so alarming that, a few years ago, a few noble spirits, mostly young men, we believe, spirits, mostly young men, we believe, and tioldsboro should move the endorsement of its to the Pacific, and their reputation to day into the class of the victius who were should receive the endorsement of its built upon real ment. Newbern has been wasting away. This the construction of that great work, the for it at once. Atlantic and North Railroad, which now stands and will continue to stand Exchange Charges. a monument more lasting than marble to the energy and indomitable will of inevitable without the greatest of all toiled and labored on, contending and predictions of old fogies, until success crowned their efforts, the last rail was laid and the great work declared so long tended to enrich other localities. has been brought, by over three hundred miles of railroad extending westinterior. Really the prospect before the people of Newbern is a pleasing one. The people of the West are eager to estions with this community, as has been proven by the vast quantities of produce that have been received over our railroad during the last few months and the heavy freights that have been shipped from this point to the interior. The tide is certainly now in our favor. and if our people will only avail themselves of the advantages that surround them the day is not far distant when ber streets and wharves will evince a degree of prosperity never dreamed of by the most sanguine or visionary. The past, with all its sins of omission and commission, is gone from you forever-the long years of slothful indfferon, not willing to be aroused from the trance which was consuming the vital energies of your being, can never be recalled; but the future—the glorious future, with all its privileges and advantages is before you. and you may, by the application of the proper means develop a mechanical and commercial prosperity that will be felt throughout the length and breadth of the State. We are nearer to the inexhaustible productions of the West than any of her neighbors, and we know that our Western friends are most charitably disposed towards us, and energy, liberality and promptness are only necessary, ou the part of our business men, to se-cure for our community a large portion of the trade of theup country. Such were New Berne's hopes and prospects thirty years ago. That her people had a right to be hopeful and exment of a line of steamers to form the proper connection with the road had been consummated, the war came on during the four years which followed, New Berne and the A. & N. C. R. had their share of the misfortunes of the our people failed to seize the opportunity and strike for the building up of the seaport towns of the State. Richmond had so long drawn from North Carolina by the Piedmont road which was completed from Greensboro to Danville during the war, that shrewd men with keen perceptions like Col. Buford, saw a good thing in this traffic for Richmond and they resolved to keep it. About that time the managers of North Carolina's railroads for want of business tact and foresight adopted a policy which played directly into the hands of those who were trying to cut New Berne's throat and prevent Morehead Vice Admiral Rowan, U. S. N., gives City's rising. A case in point will sufficiently illustrates this. While the North Carolina road was still controlled old tower and keeper's dwelling will be informed, visited New Berne on their way North, and were so at their way North, and were so at their way North. their return they purchased several bills of goods here. But when they went to ship their goods they were made to pay local rates, which were much higher than through rates, to Goldsboro and then local from Goldsboro to the comparative infancy in the city, and points of destination. In other words, the managers of the railroad said, you department and through them to the shall not buy goods at New Berne; if city council, the importance of this you do we will make our freight tharges so high that you can't compete with those who get them over the Richmond and Danville line. Well, you do we will make our freight Richmond and Danville line. Well, if some enterprising fellow would finally it was agreed that North Carolina could not manage their rail-roads, so the North Carolina road, run-tuus. Beware of frauds. Chie is an error. An Additional Fire Extinguisher. At both of the fires, which occurred esterday and the day before, the hose yesterday and the day before, the hose baby in daytime. About 700 laps of the from Major Dennison's water works put bedroom floor at night for the happy | on the first stream. This is no discredit father unless he has a bottle of to the fire companies, which are always promptly on hand, but mainly attributable to the fact that the fires were in close proximity to the Major's establishment. It is worthy of consideration. however, because the old saying of "a stitch in time save nine." is never more clearly proven than in the use of water on a fire in the early stages of its procountry. But it was after the war that gress. It is also notably true that his works are contiguous to a large district of valuable property, and where heavy damage would necessarily fall upon the owners in case a fire should get well underway. We are informed that two lengths of hose in addition to what he now has would have saved the gas works a large part of the loss sustained in the fire day before yesterday.

This being the case we think it is well worthy of the attention of the fire department, and an arrangement might be made to have a portion of surplus hose kept at Major Dennison's, where he could use them in case of fire in his neighborhood, or could be taken to any other point when required by the steamers. We understand that the hose now in use at the water works is well worn and hardly reliable, which the county in Kentucky. To say there et, known as Pamlico Point light. > The Kentucky Election a Fair Notice That the Watterson Idea Cannot Prevail.

The election in Kentucky gives the Democracy of the South fair warning. If ever a question had a fair trial, the Kentucky "idea" had in the late election. The Courier-Journal, a paper of wide circulation, edited by Mr. Watter son, whose ability is conceded, fathered it. Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Beck, Joe Black-burn, W. C. P. Breckenridge and Phil Thompson, and one of the most popular men in the State, General Buckner, as the candidate, all turned in and the people gave them barbecues in all parts of the State, and yet the Republicans with an obscure man came within a few thousand votes of carrying the State. About 45,000 was Governor Knott's majority. It is claimed that the gain in seventy-odd counties heard from is 325 votes to the county. It is admitted to be very large, and the ex planation is the Republicans were well organized and the Demograts stayed at home. The answer explains uothing. Let every Democrat in the United States ask what caused a loss of 8:5 votes to is no cause for it or to say the Demo crats stayed at home is childish. If the South means anything it means progress; it means diversified industries. and it means at all hazards and at any cost to have a better system of public schools. The issue made up in the South, between the Kentucky idea and the national democracy of an adjusted revenue tariff is one of life and death to the democracy. We do not propose to be offensive, but we propose to tell the plain truth. The men in Tennesses who believe in the Watterson-Kentucky idea are the drones in progress. there is one of them that is turning his hand over in the way of building up hand over in the way of building up new industries, we cannot put our finger on him. If there is a single live, wide-awake, progressive man, either in Tennessee or Alabama, engaged in making wealth by developing the South's resources, who believes in the Kentucky idea, we do not know him. Believing, as they all do to a man, that the Watterson idea is death to the South, they are not roing in aid in last.
