It has been a matter of great interest to me in the last few years to watch the progress being made in the develop-ment of the Southern States. There is competition among States, counties cities, towns, even townships and neighborhoods, as much as there is among manufacturing, merchandising farming and other industries. The farmer who tills the soil in the old way. who neglects to use the latest improved implements or machinery cannot keep up with his neighbor who has all of these modern appliances or labor-saving machinery, or as it is the custom in your city to deliver free of cartage any goodpurchased from your merchants, the merchants who refuse to do this or to adopt any other modern or improved idea introduced by his more enterprising neighbor which materially aid and facilitate the transaction of busi pleaded not guilty to the charge of F. & ness matters, will soon find his business falling off and his customers trading elsewhere. Likewise the State, county or city who fails to give to its people equal transportation facilities, with other competing States, counties or cities, will soon find their population decreasing, capital being withdrawn, a general depression of trade among the merchants, the sons and daughters of wealthy parents moving away and carrying with them the money which is the trading medium of their sections to other more prosperous and enterprising places for investment. The old house begine to decline, number of old fashioned but of repair houses are offered for rent in various parts of the city, the class of tenants who rent cannot pay much because the duliness of crade and the depression of his own. every class of business in the city, does not justify fair wages being paid to the tenante, therefore the house rent must be in accordance with the measure of business done by the place. Larger Crops Needed,

101-122 or 36 i bill playsbang afterior area benefit dipage

To enable the farmers of the older settled States to compete with the cheap lands of the Northwest, it is necessary to grow larger grops per acre. Take wheat as an be example. On land worth one hundred dollars per acre and wheat at eighty cents per bushel, a crop of ten bushels per acre is a dead loss; a crop of twenty bushels per acre may be grown for the purpose of seeding down the land, but there is no profit in the crop; while a crop of thirty five, or forty bushels per acre, taking the value of a half of straw per acre into consideration, enables us to hold our own with the cheap lands and average small yields of the Northwest.

We are using enormous quanti ties of commercial manures, composed principally of superphos phate, potash-salts, and a small quantity of nitrogon in the form nostly of fish, flesh and dried blood. The average well-managed facins on which these fertilizers are used contain all the ingredients of planfoot, except nitrogen, to produce large crops per acre. All the facts of experience and science point to the necesity of a more iberal supply of available nitrogen a the soil to enable it to produce arge crops per acre. There is no lack of nitrogen, We can develop it from the soil, or we can make more manure on the farm, or buy stable manure from the cities, or purchase from the manufacturers of commercial fertiiizers, the nitrogen we so much need. But-and here is where the shoe pinches-at the present prices of wheat, corn, oats, barley and bay, we cannot afford to buy nitrogen. The price of the nitrogen is too high, or the price of the staple crops too low .- American Agriculturist.
