The detectives say half of the citizens of the town are implicated in the steal.

FAST CAROLINA IMPROVEMENT.

A Coast Line of Railway.

EDITOR JOURNAL. Here comes some thing from the Pacific slope.

The property of the State of California during the past year was more market than any twelve months within its history. Some three hundred million of new railroad have been laid. The assessed value of property has increased one hundred and thirty-two million ($122,000,000) dollars.

It is such statements of fact as these that make one a head swim.

Just think of California adding $132,000,000 to her taxable value the past year. It is more than half the entire assessed valuation of the State of North Carolina, yes, about two thirds, for the assessed value of real and personal property in our State is put down at $209,569,096.

As great gain for California in one year as for North Carolina in a hundred years.

And what does this for California? Railroads, of course.

It might be thought that minerals and gold mines were the basis of this attracted and developed wealth, but they were not.

The products of her soil, the attractions of her climate and the facilities of water and transit continental communication, constitute the basis of California's rapidly increasing wealth and population.

We read further: "The wine and brandy product was very large, and to be put in fifty million pounds of canned goods, and over thirty-five million pounds of green fruit were shipped. It was also the busiest year for immigration and tourists."

We have an excellent climate and soil here in Eastern Carolina for fruit growing, and can produce in abundance all the fruits and vegetables used in eating. Our climate along the coast may not be quite as equable as that of Southern California, but it approaches very near to it, and with the facilities for traveling our coast section, and the means of making it known, which railroads would give us, we should attract our share of the immigrants and tourists that are making Florida and California.

There are not many places in California or Florida possessing superior climatic advantages to the Cedar Point section of New River, Brown and Stump Sounds.

Indeed take the coast or sound shore from the northern end of Carteret county to the mouth of the Cape Fear River, and a finer climate, winter or summer, is not found in the United States.

This entire coast region, and extending back into the interior covering the territory comprising Eastern Carolina, constitutes, in many of its parts, one of the finest trucking regions in the whole country. In general agriculture it is naturally one of the finest countries in the world, and only needs the facilities of ample railway communication to make it one of the most prosperous and progressive regions in the Atlantic States.

Given proper railroad facilities and I would select Onslow county as about the most advantageous region in all respects in Eastern Carolina. I regard the lower New River region as a perfect El Dorado.

The climate there is one of the finest I have ever seen, in all respects, and the possibilities of that section are beyond computation.

Professor Kerr, our former State Geologist, and one of the most eminent men in his specialty, always maintained that at the mouth of the Cape Fear the climate was identical with that of Florida. Of course there is little difference between the mouth of the Cape Fear and the mouth of New River. Both are directly and powerfully affected by the Gulf Stream, which in that locality trends near in shore, forever insuring the permanency of a most excellent, soft and equable climate.

With the climatic advantages we possess in Eastern Carolina, the richness of our soil, our abundance of waste and cheap lands, we ought to be securing the cream of that immigration from the North and the cold Northwest, that is setting in toward the South, and as we see flocking to California.

We can secure it if we make a proper effort. But we must have railroads running through our eastern country. We can offer no taking inducements with out railroad facilities.

Make the county subscriptions, secure the building of the railroads, and the people will come in to pay the taxes.

If the people of Craven, Jones and Onslow were to unite and secure the building of their railroads, their surplus lands would come immediately into market; intelligent, industrious and moneyed people would flock down here from the North and West, and in ten years the wealth of these localities would double. There would be no longer complaint of taxes.
