The last two days of warm sunshine have caused the lime dust on the shelled streets to rise where hydrants were not convenient to keep it down.

Remember the meeting of the Fair committee at the Graded School building tomorrow (Monday) evening at three o'clock, as called by the President.

Steamer Movements.

The Newberne of the O. D. line will sail for Norfolk Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Personal.

Rev. Mr. Pearson arrived in the city Friday night and will preach his opening sermon today at the Presbyterian Church. He is of small stature and bears a youthful appearance.

Mr. J. D. LaRoque, of Havelock, was in to see us yesterday. He says the people in his section are all coming to the Fair.

Tidings From the Schooner Melvin.

News was received in the city yesterday of the arrival of the schooner Melvin at Beaufort in distress. She had been out twenty-eight days on her return trip from the West Indies and had experienced much heavy weather. Her cargo is reported greatly damaged.

The Canning Factory.

The appearance of things about the oyster canning factory of Messrs. Moore & Brady was somewhat lively during a part of yesterday. The doors were thrown open, the machinery was put in order, and everything was being arranged for business operations. About two hundred and fifty hands reported for duty. The colored population always hail with delight the starting up of this factory, and our merchants also welcome the "change" that is brought to their counters through this industry. It is hoped the oyster supply will be sufficient to keep it running through the season.

Fancy Work and Art.

The committee on fancy work and fine art are meeting with good success and they expect to be able to make a fine display. They have been promised a dress 99 years old—a number of samples, worked by the grandmothers and great-grandmothers of the exhibitors, a dress that once belonged to the celebrated Governor Tryon, a number of valuable old brass suitors and many other articles of interest and value.

The display of drawing and painting, the work of New Berne artists, promises to be very good.

Descriptive New Berne.

With this issue the DAILY JOURNAL completes the series of articles on New Berne and her industries. The whole of them combined will be printed in our special Winter edition of 5,000 copies for the Fair to be distributed through the adjoining counties and sent North to parties whom it is thought may have an interest in the South, or might be induced to visit us during our Fair the 15th, 16th and 19th of March. The articles have been furnished us by Rev. Edward Bull who has taken considerable pains in compiling and embodying the various industries and business pursuits carried on in New Berne and its vicinity. A great deal of valuable information can be gleaned from them and a copy of the WEEKLY containing them in full will be well worth procuring. Extra numbers will be printed and sent to subscribers at this time after next Wednesday.

Union Services.

Rev. R. G. Pearson will preach, as elsewhere announced, in the Presbyterian Church this morning and tonight. This church has been selected for these meetings because it has the largest seating capacity. These meetings will be continued every day at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. It is very desirable and important that the congregations should assemble promptly. Mr. Pearson will always begin the worship at the exact hour indicated. The daily morning meetings will be largely given to close addresses to professing Christians. After the evening worship there will be after-meetings in the Methodist Church, where Christian workers, and all anxious for their soul's salvation, will assemble for consultation, instruction and prayer. The preliminary services in the evening meetings will be in charge of the city pastors for thirty minutes. Mr. Pearson will begin his sermon at precisely 8 o'clock, and he desires every person who wishes to attend to be in their seats at that hour, so that no confusion may occur during his discourse.

Church Services Today.

Methodist Church.—In the Methodist Church a youngmen's prayer meeting will be held at 9:15 a. m., conducted by W. R. Barrington. At 11 a. m. a service will be held for the overflow congregation, conducted by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Crawford. At 3 p. m. Sunday school, J. K. Willis, Supt. At 4 p. m. a service will be held for men—all are invited to attend. At 7:30 services will be conducted by Rev. H. W. Battle. It is hoped both churches will be filled.

Christ Church.—V. W. Shields, Rector. 1st Sunday in Lent. 8 a. m. Holy Communion; 11 a. m. morning prayer; 4 p. m. Sunday school; 7 p. m. evening prayer. All people will be welcomed to the services of this church. Users at the door.

Presbyterian Church.—Union services at 11 a. m., conducted by Rev. R. G. Pearson, of Mississippi. Union services at 7:30 p. m. The preliminary exercises will be conducted by Rev. L. W. Crawford. Sermon by Rev. R. G. Pearson at 8 p. m., exactly. Sabbath School and Bible Class at 8:30 p. m. The public are heartily invited to attend the services. Seats free. Users at the doors.

Baptist Church.—No services in this church except Sunday school at 3 p. m. and prayer meeting at 4 p. m. to which all the members are earnestly requested to attend.

Y. M. C. A.—Devotional meeting at the Presbyterian Church at 5 o'clock p. m., conducted by George L. Wadsworth. Subject: Love, Repentance and Faith. Second Adventist Church—Elder Eugene Scott, Pastor. Services at 11 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. The public are cordially invited.

Literary.

There will appear in the Forum for March a curious study of the leading American newspapers, wherein it is shown what proportions of their space are given to religion, to crime, to literature, to art, to sport, to the markets, and to editorial matter by the large dailies of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis. This comparison has been prepared by Henry R. Elliott, a New York journalist.

It is the New South we hear about most of the time nowadays, and the bit of the old Old South sketched in Harper's Magazine for March is therefore an agreeable variety. The title of the article, written by Frederick S. Daniel, is "A Visit to a Colonial Estate." The plantation described lies between Richmond, Va., and the sea. It is owned by the Lee family, and abounds in reminiscences of Washington and the Custises. Every patriot loves to read of these things—or ought to—especially at this time, when Washington's birthday is so recently passed. The description of Washington's marriage festivities is charming, and has a touch of poetry about it. The numerous illustrations are of the best quality.

An earnest and vigorous exposition, in a cheap, handy form, of the moral aspects of the international copyright question, is something that has been much needed. Such a paper has been published by Charles Scribner's Sons, of New York, in the well known paper covered series of this house, at a price which ought to insure for it a circulation of hundreds of thousands throughout the country. The title of the pamphlet is "The National Sin of Literary Piracy," and the author is the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke. Dr. Van Dyke considers the subject under three phases: (1) The Nature of the National Sin of Literary Piracy, (2) Its Punishment, and (3) Its Cure. His paper is well worth reading, and ought to reach the public conscience and have its effect upon public opinion. The publishers will send any one a copy upon receipt of five cents.

THE JEWELS.

The frazzled end of a straggling blizzard came along the other morning, and the fire-place of the Exchange was soon clock-faced by the toes of the Jewels.

The Panel was nearly full—in other words they were numerically strong and intellectually no pigmies. The bracing atmosphere toned up their wits and discussions were in order.

No little agitation among the members was displayed when it was stated on "information and belief" that the Craven County Gun Club were in the habit of going over the river and shooting at "glass bottles" as a pastime and test of marksmanship, and were breaking them at such a rate as to cause alarm at the wanton destruction of this universally recognized article of convenience. Propositions were about to be made to move as a body to put a stopper to the proceedings, but all alarm was allayed when assurance was given that the club shot at glass balls and were proverbially kind to the article before mentioned, and as careful of them as were the Panel or "any other man."

The Oyster, Fish and Game Fair was considered, and the Panel will offer a special premium on the best bushel of the bivalvular mollusks—placed by the side of the Exchange fire place between this and the closing of the Fair. A correct statement of the results of experiments with various lots submitted will be kept, and the premium awarded to the deserving one upon the principles of even-handed justice. Exhibitors will be allowed to enter without charge for space or anything else. It is under consideration whether to give to the successful competitor as a premium the shells from his own exhibition only, or the shells also from those of unsuccessful contestants. This will be determined at an early day, and somewhat governed by the alacrity with which the opportunity is seized by the oystermen.

Sunday-school picnics are now in the no distant future, and the Panel wish at this early day to express their entire approval of these moralizing enterprises, and to suggest to superintendents and Sunday-school workers generally the great importance of putting upon the children the wholesome restraint of the presence of a goodly number of strangers as invited guests on such occasions. The effect generally is to prevent the over-eating, so common among Sunday-school children when enjoying the balmy air of spring and rambling over the fields and woods before this never failing remedy was discovered.

The Panel would further say—parenthetically however—that they enjoy the personal acquaintance of but few, very few children in this city.

The Jewels are impressed that experience has taught these managers the importance of taking along the necessary constituents of lemonade in no scant quantities, and an abundance of lunch in case the boat should get aground or any other unforeseen misfortune delay the party's return.

The thirst for knowledge in many cases among these little buds of promise meets its counterpart in a thirst for lemonade, and while there is an injunction to quench not the spirit there is no inhibition on quenching the thirst for good lemonade.

The Panel will at the proper time take hold of political matters, but at the present are too busy to advert to these.

In Conference With Mr. Pearson.

The pastors of the Associated Churches met Mr. Pearson, the Evangelist, on yesterday morning and freely discussed the best interest of the Union meetings now in progress. It was unanimously agreed that it would be necessary to have two churches open today, both morning and night. Mr. Pearson will preach at the Presbyterian Church at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. An overflow meeting will be held at the Methodist Church at 11 a. m. conducted by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Crawford, and at 7 p. m. by Rev. H. W. Battle, pastor of the Baptist Church. This arrangement it is thought will give every one who desires to do so an opportunity to worship without discomfort.
