Read new advertisement of the O. D. S. S. Co.

The mail train was delayed about an hour last night.

R. B. Lehman offers valuable real estate for sale. See "ad."

Auction sale today at S. F. Teiser's store at the corner of Broad and Hancock streets. See "ad."

The special train for Rev. Mr. Pearson's meetings brought in about forty from up the road yesterday.

Quite a number of oyster boats were at the Moore & Brady's wharf yesterday and a large number of hands were engaged in shucking.

Passengers and freights will make close connection with Wednesday's ships for New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore by sailing on Tuesday on the steamer Newberne.

Peter Williams (col.), was sent to jail yesterday as crazy. On Thursday night he seized an old colored woman up town named Tempa Jones and came near choking her to death.

It is now highly probable that a good number of the Union soldiers who were with Burnside in the capture of New Berne in 1862 will be present at our Fair. Let them come and be welcome.

Mr. J. O. Harvey announces his readiness for renovating and cleaning and drying feather beds. He did work in this city last summer that gave entire satisfaction. His agent will canvass the city for work and those who have feather beds can rest assured that he will greatly improve them.

We need many more names to mail the Fair issue of the WEEKLY JOURNAL. Parties will please hand them in fast as they can as they all should be sent out right away. We also request that those names be written plain enough so that not more than three good readers will be required to interpret them.

The Messenger says that the Y. M. C. A. of Wilmington is having a thousand maps printed showing the location of the churches of the city, to be placed in hotels and boarding houses where strangers may see them. These Associations can be made worthy institutions. The one in New Berne is now taking a most active part in rendering aid to the Pearson meetings.

Sunday Train.
A special train will leave Goldsboro on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock and one from Morehead City at 9 o'clock for New Berne to give people along the line an opportunity of coming to hear the evangelist, Mr. Pearson. The trains will arrive in time for the morning services and will not return until after the evening services. Very low rates are offered.

Bureau of Information.
Mr. Edward Bull has been appointed by the Finance Committee of the Fair as keeper of the Bureau of Information. It will be established on the southeast corner of Broad and Middle streets which is about the central portion of the city and on a line from the depot down town. The selection of Mr. Bull is a good one. He is an earnest worker and will no doubt get the full capacity of the city for accommodating strangers during the Fair.

Arrived by steamer.
Mrs. William's Steamer Strick should always be used for children testing. It soothes the child, soothes the gums, always all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for New Berne. Tuesday, Jan. 25, 1888.

We were pleased to receive a call from W. B. Harlow, Esq., of the Kingston Free Press yesterday.

Mr. James King, Miss Mary McDaniel and Miss Harlow came down on the excursion train yesterday to attend Rev. Mr. Pearson's meetings.

Rev. Mr. Pearson's Meetings.

"Put on your overshoes, your rubber coats, your wraps, and take your umbrellas and come along, no matter if it is raining," said Mr. Pearson last Sunday night. Last night night was a severe test upon this injunction of the preacher. It rained and rained but the people went.

The morning services were exceedingly interesting to the Christian workers about two hundred of whom went forward and gave the preacher their hands in token of their faith in the work and their determination to continue in the same.

The preliminary services at night were conducted by Rev. Dr. Vass. A large number of requests taken from the request box were read, in which the prayers of all Christians were asked for the conversion of their friends and relatives.

While the town clock was striking eight Mr. Pearson, who had arrived a minute before and taken a seat while Rev. Mr. Crawford was making a statement, arose and before beginning his sermon made an announcement that there would be no services this morning nor tonight; that it was absolutely necessary that he should have one day's rest during the week. On Sunday morning there would be services at all the churches where the pastors would open the doors of the church for the reception of those who had professed faith in Christ during the week. He would give no advice as to what church they should join, and would not tell them how they should be baptized. He did not consider it essential as to how one was baptized, but it is important that it be done. They could read their Bible and judge for themselves whether they should be sprinkled, poured or immersed.

The text for the sermon was from the 12th verse, 4th chapter of Amos, "Prepare to meet thy God." Preparation to meet God was the chosen subject and was discussed under three heads:

1st. Why should we prepare to meet God?

2nd. How shall we prepare to meet God?

3rd. When should we prepare to meet God?

The questions were answered by applying the word God. The manner in which the Word was cited and connected carried conviction. It is inevitable that we must all meet God, and as it is inevitable it is but reasonable to say that we should be prepared to meet Him. Our names must be upon the Lamb's Book of Life, said the preacher, and among other things to do in preparing to meet God men should make restitution. He dwelt at length upon this point and insisted that no man who had not restored to his fellow man that which he had cheated, wronged and defrauded him of was prepared to meet his God. It was all bosh to talk about a dishonest man entering into the kingdom of God. Whitewashed sinners, sometimes called pillars of the Church, who would not pay their debts or restore to their fellow men that which he had wronged him of was not prepared to meet his God and never would be until he had made the restitution. His remarks on this point were clean cut, powerful, and withering. He knew nothing of the condition of this community in that respect, but if what he had said hit any man that was the man he wanted to preached to. He closed in answer to the third question with an earnest appeal to make preparation now.

At the after-meeting the M. E. Church was filled. There was quite a number of professions.

Steamer Movements.
The Vesper of the E. C. D. line sailed yesterday afternoon with a cargo of cotton, shingles and merchandise. The Eagle of this line will arrive today.

Steamer Mantoo sails at usual at 9 a. m. Friday to make her usual connections at Norfolk on Saturday. Steamer Newberne will sail Tuesday at 9 a. m., and steamer Mantoo will sail Fridays at 9 a. m.

Bureau of Information.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

At the meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee held in Raleigh on the 23d inst., the 30th of May was selected as the time for holding the State Convention and Raleigh the place.

One of the Solutions.
EDITOR JOURNAL.—On the 11th day of January last I received the following bill for 65 gallons gasoline shipped to Mr. J. B. Carr, Durham, N. C., viz:

By 65 gallons gasoline, 17c.....$11.05
Less freights.....5.72
Net sale.....5.33

More than 50 per cent taken for freight! Is not this one of the solutions to North Carolina's non-progressive condition, and the impoverished state of her producing classes? Can any country grow and prosper with such tariff rates of transportation? And is it not true that citizens of the State have to pay higher freight rates on merchandise to North Carolina towns than points outside of her borders? Don't we need a State Commerce Commission or something of the kind to interpose in behalf of the goose that's been laying the golden eggs and who is about to be murdered by the rapacity of our public carriers? Please answer.

Yours, J. W. SANDERS.
Sanders Store, N. C., Feb. 22, '88.

The above simply confirms what the JOURNAL has often charged, viz: that the policy of the railroad combinations in the State is to prevent traffic between the people of the East and other sections of the State.

Dr. Sanders is probably mistaken in one view of the matter. Railroads do not make their charges with reference to the value of the article, but upon the quality, weight, bulk and amount of cars required in shipping. But we venture the assertion that this same sixty-five gallons of gasoline could have been shipped from New Berne to Baltimore or New York, thence by rail to Durham for less than half the charges in this bill. If a railroad commission can remedy such injustice we ought to have one.

Now when the editor of the State Chronicle publishes his replies about the condition of the party, etc., in the State let him say that many in the East are disaffected because they have been placed at the mercy of the consolidated railways, and their efforts for relief in the extension of the A. & N. C. R. to the C. F. & Y. V. have been thwarted, their trade being diverted and their business stabbed in its vital parts.

Other Industries.
We call attention to the advertisement of W. T. Hill & Co. of "The World" type writer. This firm is general agent for the State. The machine is cheap, simple, durable and meritorious.

This reminds us that in the "write up" of New Berne several industries were overlooked. The thing had to be done in short time, and it was but natural that where there are so many industries some would be overlooked. Among them were the various printing offices in the city. W. T. Hill & Co. have a new outfit for job work; they have a neat office on South Front street. N. S. Richardson & Son is an old establishment. They have several presses and do a wide range of work, and as neatly as it can be done in any office. The Free Will Baptist also has a job office in connection with the paper. The JOURNAL employs about a dozen hands in its job and newspaper office. So it will be seen that the printing business is not the smallest of industries in New Berne.

But there are still others that were unintentionally overlooked. Randolph on Broad street employs quite a number of hands in the manufacture and repairing of buggies. His home-made buggy has a wide reputation, and it deserves it.

George Bishop has a box factory on Hancock street that is kept busy during the trucking season. James Redmond employs a good number of hands in the manufacture of ale, lemon soda, sarsaparilla, beer and other light drinks.

Mr. John Dunn manufactures a superior quality of candy. But we must stop before we show too many omissions. Some of the omissions were discovered in time to be supplied in the WEEKLY. When we "write up" again we will begin in time and get all.

Portraits.
In oil or crayon from life or small pictures done by Miss Aurora Mack, who is teaching drawing and painting by latest methods, at her residence on Johnston street. (Jan 11th).

Scarlet Fever.
Darby's Prophylactic Fluid is unequalled in the treatment of Scarlet Fever. Used as a gargle it prevents the throat from becoming diseased, allays the inflammation and relieves the patient. To preserve the body healthy the healing inflammation of the skin and destroys infection.

Exposure to the sick room will prevent the spread of contagion, and keep the atmosphere wholesome.

How the Fair is Progressing.

That our people may know what interest the people abroad are taking in the Fair, to be held on the 18th, 14th and 15th of March, we clip the following from the New York Tribune:

An informal meeting of the Union soldiers who participated in the capture of New Berne, N. C., was held yesterday in the office of General E. S. Greeley, No. 7 Day st. There were representatives present of the veteran associations of the 51st New York 5th Rhode Island and 10th Connecticut Volunteers. The particular object of the meeting was to ascertain if a sufficiently large party of the survivors of what is known as the Burnside expedition wished to visit New Berne on the anniversary of the battle, which was fought on March 14, 1862. It began in the morning, and in the evening the Northern troops occupied the town.

Many of the best known business men of New Berne are either Union or Confederate veterans. From the 12th to the 16th of March inclusive there will be a fish, oyster and game exhibition there for the purpose of illustrating the value and extent of the natural products of the sounds and tributaries of Eastern North Carolina. The exhibition will be at its height on March 14, the anniversary of the battle, and the citizens have invited the Union veterans to be present. The invitation was formally presented by Captain N. W. Schenck, who during the war was in charge of the Confederate commissary depot at Wilmington, N. C. It was heartily received, and it is probable that if suitable transportation arrangements can be made with the railroad companies many Northern veterans will attend. All wishing further information in regard to the arrangement can obtain it by addressing Captain Schenck at No. 229 Broadway.

THE LATEST NEWS.
Condensed from our Exchanges.

Mr. Corcoran, the Washington politician, is slowly sinking.

An explosion of dynamite in Duluth, Minn., killed and injured eighteen workmen.

Speaker Carlisle and his wife have been summoned to the bedside of a sick son in Kansas.

The condition of the Crown Prince has somewhat improved, and has symptoms that are encouraging.

The Virginia Legislature has granted a charter for the erection of a Masonic temple in Fredericksburg, as a memorial of George Washington.

An eloping couple from Michigan, uncle and niece, committed suicide in the jail at Alliance, Ohio, rather than return to their home with officers who had come after them.

The Canadian press, in commenting on the fisheries treaty, express the opinion that the Americans have won their case, and that all the United States has ever asked has been substantially secured.

No business was transacted in Congress Wednesday, it being George Washington's birthday. The House was not in session. In the Senate Washington's farewell address was read by Mr. Ingalls.

The Presidential party reached Savannah at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, and were accorded a most hearty welcome. An hour was spent in a drive through the principal streets of the city, which were covered with hunting. At one o'clock Jacksonville was reached, where a grand procession was formed and the distinguished guests escorted to the Exposition building, where an address of welcome was made and was responded to by the President. The streets were gaily decorated, and it is estimated that one hundred thousand persons witnessed the procession.

The Austro German Army.

A somewhat extraordinary statement reached me the other day from a quarter generally to be relied upon. My informant, an officer of high rank, mentioned that in the event of war the chief command of the combined Austrian and German armies would nominally devolve upon the Emperor of Austria, but that the general staff, under whose direction the operations would have to be carried out, would be composed principally of German staff officers under the command of the great Moltke himself. This arrangement is alleged to have been devised with a view to avoid disjoined action and petty quarrels about precedence and etiquette which might likely ensue if the German great general staff were to usurp the command of the Austrians too—without sugaring the pill.

Moltke's plans for a campaign with Russia were laid before a council of war a few days ago. At first, I am told, everybody was startled by the boldness of the "schedule," and opinions were whispered to the effect that old Moltke had taken leave of his senses, but after a minute investigation of every wonderful detail they quickly had to acknowledge their shortcomings. I have not been able to get at the exact working of this interesting document, but I understand that a flying corps, gigantic in proportions, and composed entirely of cavalry and horse artillery will cross the Russian frontier the moment war is declared, break through the widely spread corps of the enemy, and operate at his back until the body of the army has had time to come up—before the times.

Newspaper Comments on the Fisheries Treaty.
