WAIT.

THE WILLING SOURCE WAS OVER
Some snowflakes tarried yet
When in a garden corner
A little root let
The friend who sent it promised
That it would surely bring
To me some fragrant treasure
Before the night of spring
And patiently I waited
As April came and went
And May taught all the song birds
A song of sweet content
But bonny Spring departed,
And June the roses brought,
And save two slender green leaves
The rootlet gave me naught.

And so my memory let it
And summer also passed,
When in the garden corner
One day I found at last
A very pearl of lilies
And snow-white flower gem
With conscious beauty trembling
Upon a graceful stem.

Oh weary hearts, take courage
With Faith and Patience wait
Though slow to blossom early,
Full many joys bloom late
The blessing due in spring time
May linger on the way
And like my pearl of lilies
Make sweet an autumn day

Social and Civil Duties.

Every person of common reflection must be aware that he owes to others, and to society, certain social and civil duties, in regard to the kind offices and protection which he receives and enjoys from the community of which he is a member, and he should know for such we consider to be the indisputable fact, that upon the manner in which these duties are performed will materially depend his reputation with good men, and the measure of his pure enjoyments in life. Hence it is of the greatest importance that he should fix upon a scale of morals in early life, which shall govern in his business transactions, and in his intercourse with society.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1888.

The holiday issue, now ready, is complete in itself, containing no serial matter. The cover is enriched by an ornamental border printed in gold. The price is as usual 25 cents. It contains the most delightful stories, poems, and essays by distinguished writers, and superb illustrations.

Among the important articles to appear during the year 1888 are the following:—Send for prospectus.

Robert Louis Stevenson will contribute regularly to each number during the year. He will write of many topics, old and new, and in a familiar and personal way, which will form new bonds of friendship between the author and his thousands of readers. In the first paper, entitled "A Chapter on Dreams," appearing in the January number, he relates incidentally, in connection with the general subject, some interesting facts concerning the origin of the famous story "Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Railway Accidents, by W. S. Chaplain, will be the first of an especially important and interesting series of papers on railways, their administrations and construction, including great engineering feats, famous tunnels and passes, and indeed, those branches of the subject which in this day engage the attention of the whole country. The illustrations which will accompany this series will be very elaborate original, and beautiful. The authors and the titles of the future articles will be announced later.

Dr. D. A. Sargent's papers on Physical Proportions and Physical Training will be continued by several of increasing interest, with as rich and as unique illustrations as those which have already appeared.

Illustrated Articles of special interest will be those on the Campaign of Waterloo, by John C. Ropes; on "The Man at Arms," by E. H. Blishfield; two papers by Edward L. Wilson, illustrating results of recent Egyptian research; a further article by William F. Athorp, on a subject connected with his recent contribution on Wagner, and many others of equal interest. Professor Shaler's articles on the Surface of the Earth will be continued, and articles upon two of the most interesting groups of contemporary European writers will be accompanied by rich and novel portrait illustrations.

Illustrations. The Magazine will show increased excellence in its illustrations. They will be more abundant and elaborate than ever. It is the intention of the publishers to represent the best work of the leading artists, and to promote and foster the most skillful methods of wood engraving.

Special notice.—To enable readers to possess the Magazine from the first number (January, 1887) the following inducements are offered:

A year's subscription and the numbers for 1887, $4.50

A Horrible Inheritance

The law is the rule of the day. The lawyer is the king of the hour. The physician is the master of the morrow. The merchant is the master of the world.

Every man of business must be aware that he owes to others, and to society, certain social and civil duties, in regard to the kind offices and protection which he receives and enjoys from the community of which he is a member, and he should know for such we consider to be the indisputable fact, that upon the manner in which these duties are performed will materially depend his reputation with good men, and the measure of his pure enjoyments in life.

Every class in society seems to have a scale of morals peculiar to itself in its business affairs, none of which are exactly fitted for general adoption. The importing merchant, for instance, thinks it justifiable to use deceptive invoices, by which he defrauds the revenue of a part of the duties due upon merchandise; while the salesman is valued and rewarded according to his tact in extolling his wares to the buyer, in giving them a fictitious value. Those who subsist on the spoils of office, consider that "all is fair in politics," that "the end justifies the means." The lawyer encourages litigation because it is his vocation; his dependence for the wants and the superfluities of life. The physician knows when he gets hold of a rich patient, and deems it no breach of morals to make him pay well to pay something for his poor neighbor. The parson, even, feels no compunction in abandoning his flock to the wolves, and accepting a higher salary, when he is persuaded he can be more eminently useful to the cause of vital piety. And the farmer practices a thousand little devices to multiply his pence which he would hardly applaud in his neighbor.

We do not mean to charge these practices upon the whole of the different professions—for there are many honorable exceptions in all—we would merely intimate that they are besetting sins, human propensities which it requires fixed principles and inflexible fortitude to resist and overcome. If once successfully indulged in, they are apt to obtain an ascendancy, and to become more and more difficult of restraint.

But there is a percept, of the highest authority, applicable to all classes and conditions of life, which all commend, though few practice it. It is to "do unto others what you would that they should do unto you." This constitutes the highest rule of moral conduct, and its observance confers the highest honor—the purest happiness. Adopt it as a rule of life. It will insure you the respect and love of all who cherish virtue—it will do more—it will inspire self approbation and self-respect.

THEIR BUSINESS BOOMING.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at R. N. Duffy's drug store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted. For sale, wholesale and retail, at R. N. Duffy's drug store.

Our guides, we pretend, must be sinless—as if those were not often the best teachers who only yesterday got corrected for their mistakes!

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. WILSON'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children's teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.
