The Glorious Fourth.
This is the fourth of July, a day that ought to be celebrated with bonfires and illuminations all over the Union. The fact that a terrible civil war has swept over the land affords no reason why we should not hold in grateful remembrance the achievements of our forefathers, and the glorious results that have followed to America and the civilized world.

If indeed it was pardonable to allow our national birthday to pass uncelebrated during the existence of sectional strife within our borders, now, that we are a united and prosperous people once more, it would be becoming and appropriate for us to lift high our banners and with willing hearts and ardent spirits salute the national flag as it floats in pride and beauty from the frozen lakes of the North to the orange groves of the South, and from the billows of the Atlantic to the sleeping waters of the Pacific.

It being a national holiday, and one of the few given our printers for rest and recreation, there will be no issue of the JOURNAL tomorrow.

The Bergner & Engel Brewing Co.

In this issue will be found the advertisement of the Bergner & Engel Brewing Co., of Philadelphia. As a tonic, and for purity, cleanliness and care in manufacturing, the beer put up by this Company is taking the lead. Dr. H. A. Hare of the University of Pennsylvania, in an article published in the Medical News on the influence of beer on salivary and gastric digestion, gives experiments with twenty-four varieties of beer, showing its influence on gastric digestion. He says:

To sum up the results of these experiments, we find that the beers examined varied in the action as much as fifty-nine minutes, and that while most beers do not retard digestion in all probability in the stomach, that others, such as those mentioned in the first part of the table, aid digestion very materially. Thus, in the case of the Bergner & Engel Brewing Co.'s, it will be noted that even in the test-tube the average delay in gastric digestion equalled but one minute and thirty seconds.

This beer is bottled in this city by Mr. James Redmond who receives it direct in barrels, in an ice vault arranged on the steamer, from F. W. Adams, the manager of the distributing house at Norfolk.

Steamer Movements.
The Newberne of the O. D. line sailed yesterday for Norfolk with good cargo of freight. The Mantoo arrived last night and will sail Friday at 12 m.

No Further Developments.
Nothing has transpired in the last day or two to show whether the man supposed to be Scott Partin in Paris, but Solicitor Argo informs us that he is continuing his investigations unfruitfully. Several persons from Partin's own neighborhood were here yesterday and looked at the prisoner but none threw any light of any consequence on the matter.
The impression which seems to prevail more than any other is that the man is not Partin but that he deems it safe to keep his identity concealed for some other cause. Possibly he is wanted for some other crime.
A curious fact in connection with the prisoner's story was related by a gentleman yesterday. The former said he landed in this country on Sunday morning, July 13, 1873. The gentleman referred to took the trouble to look up the matter and found that July 13, 1873, actually fell on Sunday.—News and Observer.

A Home Return.

"Sighs" lay the thief's bed for many cases of consumption and other chills. They should not be neglected for an hour. A remedy that will check them promptly is one that should be kept in a place of honor in every household. Edward I. Wilson the distinguished traveler and lecturer, 1125 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., recently wrote to Dr. Staker & Folen, 1529 Arch Street, in that city: "Compound Oxygen has made me well but I always keep it in my family. I rely on it in case of sudden cold. I found it invaluable last winter in New Orleans for such use." Home treatments are sent to all parts of the country. More than thirty thousand have found peace in as many households. The efficacy of this treatment in curing Consumption, Diphtheria, Asthma, Neurogic and Rheumatism, is fully established. It is recommended by many practitioners. Send for a pamphlet on the subject. It is sent free.

TO MRS. C. P. DAVIS

A kiss, a hurried parting,
I turned from home away
A still more rapid starting,
But the heart beat light and gay
Into a land of strangers hurried,
Just what I most did dread,
Into the wide, wide world,
But by a dear hand led
Among the sea of faces,
That here would meet me,
Each took their custom place,
Where business held the way
A sigh, a wistful longing,
For the hearts still warm and true
A wish, for a voice belonging
To some dear face I knew
Then tears, dear little comforts,
Came winding down my cheek,
And lifted out the burden,
That made the heart so weak.
Then sleep in balmy dreamland,
In which, unto me came,
A voice, a tender sister's hand,
And touched, and called my name
Ah, home is where the heart bides,
And back in dreams it glides,
Till earth will hold no dreamland,
And hearts control its tides.
NONIE SCARBOROUGH.
