THE JOURNAL.

LETTERS HOME.

Far away from the world her heart throbs are stealing
 Over field, over mountains, over river and rill.
 She heeds not the charm of their silent appealing.
 She's wrapped in her musings, and it's peace to be still.

Where is her lover, and what path does he follow?
 Does he ever look back to think of her pain?
 Does he ever look back from mountain or hollow,
 With a sigh that he never shall meet her again?

Let her dream of him now in the light wind that passes
 Over lilac and myrtle, where lingers his shade;
 Let her dream of him now in the pain that harasses
 The shadow and the shadow, which kiss as they fade.

Ah, proud was the glance that unkindly estranged them,
 And secret the torture both hearts had to bear.
 Was either to blame that a light word had changed them,
 And pride was the mask weeping love had to wear?

Love's chain may be severed, and its bloom seem declining,
 As steps full of sorrow, proceed their own way;
 But the links and the bloom will live on repeating,
 Till the hearts of both lovers are wrapped in the clay.

—HUGH FARAS, McDermott, in New York Sun.

Hints on Swimming.

As the season of swimming is at hand a few hints to learners may be useful. The first essential is to know how to use the hands aright, with the view to keeping the head well out of water, and the next is to keep one foot on the bottom until sufficient confidence is acquired to raise it at intervals. After a few trials the learner will be able to raise it altogether.

Then, be not in a hurry to use the hands, as if life depended on striking out, but try and acquire deliberation. Let every stroke have a full sweep of the arms, and let the feet take care of themselves. It is not necessary that the feet should be raised to the surface of the water. The body, from the shoulders downward, should be kept at an angle of 30 degrees to the plane of the horizon. This inclination, with every forward movement, will tend to throw the head out. Sperm whales, when frightened, sink their flukes and throw their heads out of water, to obtain their highest speed. The head of a sperm whale is flat at the front, and is one-third the size of the body; the head of a finback is pointed; the one throws his head out, the other rushes through the water horizontally.

The learner who wishes to acquire the art of swimming for recreation and not for professional purposes ought to pay little attention to the movements of the feet, until he has perfect control of his hands; then the feet will instinctively come into play and perform their part without much thought. Who think of their feet when walking? In the early stages of learning a swimmer does not seem to be satisfied until he brings his feet to the surface. This has a tendency to strain the body just above the hips, and to bury the head. Swimming in a seaway the body will take many positions, according to the waves encountered. Sometimes it will be vertical, and at other times more or less inclined to keep the head out.

It is well for a beginner to have a person with him to keep his hand under his chin at first, while the use of the hands is being acquired. These hints apply only to common horizontal swimming; that having been acquired and confidence obtained there will be no difficulty in learning all the other movements, such as swimming on the side or on the back, diving or turning heels over head, forward or backward.

Remember this, too, that if a person taken with cramps will throw himself upon his back he will float without effort, even if his legs should be drawn up. Never neglect to stuff the ears with cotton-wool. Many persons have attributed deafness to taking water through the ears when swimming.

As well as the most effective means of dispelling Headaches, Colds and Fevers, or clearing the Respiration, and giving a few doses of the pleasant California Liquid Laxative, Syrup of Senna.

R. W. Duff, agent, New Bern, N. C.

It is much easier to reconcile an enemy than to conquer him. Victory despises him of his power, but reconciliation of his will, and there is less danger in a will which will not hurt than in power which cannot. The power is not so apt as the will, as the will is studious to find out means.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

TORPID LIVER

Is known by these marked peculiarities:

1. A feeling of weakness and pain in the loins.
2. Bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, and furred tongue.
3. Constipation, with occasional attacks of diarrhoea.
4. Headache, in the front of the head, behind the eyes, and yellowness of skin.
5. Heartburn, loss of appetite.
6. Weakness of the stomach and bowels by wind.
7. Depression of spirits, and great melancholy, with lassitude and a disposition to give up everything for tomorrow.

A natural flow of bile from the Liver is essential to good health. When this is obstructed it results in Biliousness, which, if neglected, soon leads to serious disease. Simmons' Liver Regulator starts a most salutary influence over every kind of Biliousness. It restores the Liver to proper working order, regulates the secretions of the stomach, and the digestive organs in such condition that they can do their best work. After taking this medicine no one will say "I am bilious."

"I have been subject to severe spells of Constipation of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been using Simmons' Liver Regulator which gave me relief without any interruption to business."—J. HOGG, Middleport, Ohio.

AN Important Announcement

About six weeks ago, while at business, I was suddenly attacked with excruciating pains in my feet, knees and hands. The attack was so severe that I was unable to walk. I was in bed for three days, and my condition was so bad that I almost doubted my natural size, and sleep was driven from me. After suffering the most excruciating pain for a week, using liniments and various other remedies, I read who sympathized with my remedial condition, and to me.

"Why don't you get Swift's Specific and use it?" I will guarantee a cure, and if it does not the medicine shall cost you nothing.

I at once secured the S. S. S., and after using it the first day, had a quiet night and refreshing sleep. In a week I felt greatly benefited. In three weeks I could sit up and walk about the room, and after using six bottles I was out and able to go to business. Since then I have been regularly at my post of duty, and stand on my feet from nine to ten hours a day, and am entirely free from pain. These are the plain and simple facts in my case, and I will cheerfully answer all inquiries relative thereto, either in person or by mail.

11 W. 18th street, New York City.

NAHVILLE, TENN.—I have warranted off a severe attack of rheumatism by a timely resort to Swift's Specific. In all cases with permanent relief is sought this medicine commands the highest testimonials, and has been thoroughly eradicated the seeds of disease from the system.

Rev. W. P. HARRISON, D. D.

NEW YORK, 51 7th Ave.—After spending $200 to be relieved of Blood Poison without any benefit, a few bottles of Swift's Specific worked a perfect cure.

VIENNA, O.—My little girl, aged six, and boy, aged four years, had scrofula in the worst aggravated stage. They became stout and sickly. To day they are healthy and robust, all the result of taking S. S. S.

LADY LARK SWINER Co., Fla.—Your S. S. S. has proved a wonderful success in my case. I had cancer on my face, four large tumors would have soon buried me in my grave. I do think it wonderful, and has no equal.
