BUSINESS LOCALS.

MOLASSES and Syrup, Choice articles. C. E. SLOVER.

HAY, BRAN, DOUBT, CORN AND OATS, at S. W. & E. W. SMALLWOOD'S.

GIN SAWS filed promptly and satisfactorily by A. R. DENTON.

TO ARRIVE TODAY by steamer "Sloop," 100 bbls. BUILDING LIME, and for sale low by J. C. WHITTY.

Craven St., 2 doors below South Front.

YELLOW FEVER QUARANTINE. Although poor old New Berns has received ridicule and abuse from her 21-1/2 towns, she is still prepared to say there is not nor has there been one case of yellow fever this season, and with the present prevention of the physicians and city council, with the assistance of the proprietor of the Only Cash Store in North Carolina, at Humphrey & Howard's old stand in New Bern, there will not be. Hence the proprietor, Hill Humphrey, wishes to say to the people of Eastern North Carolina they need not hesitate to visit New Bern, that his quarantine against high prices is a protection for all. no 23 d 2 w

THE "Jarmen Ice Factory" has opened a depot for the sale of ice at E. M. Womble's store, Middle street, near Broad. ONE HALF CENT PER POUND. no 23 d 2 w

ON draught, Bergner & Engel's celebrated Beer, ice cold, at J. H. HOLTON'S.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO CONSUMERS Having put my delivery wagon on the street, I am now in a position to furnish all my customers with FIRST CLASS Groceries at a very small profit. I defy competition, warrant my goods, and only ask a trial to convince the most doubtful. Now some of my friends say that my advertising and my wagon don't pay me (with my small profit), and that I will soon break. Let me be the best judge of that. I am still paying 100 cents on the dollar, my property is in my own name, and I am determined to sell good groceries cheap. Very respectfully, THE GROCER, E. B. HACKBURN.

PHIL'S BUTTER, the best in the market, on ice at Dunn's, only 30 cents per lb.

BOTTLED BEER, ice cold, and all other cool drinks at A. H. HOLTON'S.

CALL at the Broad St. Store where you can buy all kinds of Fresh Groceries low for cash only. G. F. M. DALL, Ag't.

Do you like hash? Morgan made enough hash of Edmunds and Sherman to last all summer.

No gentleman will tarnish a woman's name. It is no less base to assail the character of a community.

FROM all quarters of the country and from all shades of political opinion come endorsements of the President's Fisheries message.

It is wise to listen attentively and talk cautiously. The man who tells all he knows is often as culpable as he who speaks falsely of his neighbor.

We are not in favor of going back on the St. Louis platform; but if it were an open question, we would plant ourselves on the two messages, and defy "the world, the flesh and the devil."

"It is a bad wind that blows nobody any good." We thought the Democracy was in bad luck when the Senate rejected the treaty; but it gave Cleveland the opportunity of his life, and he improved it with the wisdom of Thomas Jefferson, and the courage of Andrew Jackson.

THERE is a speak of war across "the pond." Italy and Austria are on one side, and France on the other. We don't know that there will be a fight, nor do we care so long as there is any prospect of a brush of our own. We never was a Grant man, but we confess to a conversion to the sentiment, "let us have peace."

JUDG THURMAN has "woken up" the West. A larger multitude met him at an Illinois town than greeted Blaine in New York. But for that last message the old man would have got away with Cleveland, but they are neck and neck and everybody is happy except the Republicans, and they look like bad boys who have been eating green apples.

The story of the Three Blind Mice is repeated every now and then. A met B and said "neighbor B, have you seen neighbor C?" "No I have not." "Well, he has thrown up three black crows." "Impossible." "Oh, but it is true. Neighbor Jenkins told me so." Off B goes to Jenkins, and asks him "Is it true that C has thrown up three black crows?" "Yes, I heard it from so and so; but in number it is not exact, it was two black crows." The story traced, from here and there, and it, at length, appears that C was sick, and threw up something "as black as a crow."

ARE we to be involved in war because of the Fisheries? We trust not. Mr. Jones says: "It would be very foolish to go to war about a few fish, when fish are so plentiful." That is true; really, we don't care a copper about Canadian fish, but we do care for the rights of our fishermen. The American revolution was not brought because our fathers could not pay the tax on tea. They denied the right of England to tax America. So it is now. We trust that the rights of our fishermen will be respected, by Canada of her own accord; but, Cleveland has thrown the American flag over them, and that pledges every American dollar and every American soldier for their protection and defense.

LOCAL NEWS.

A slight change in the freight schedule goes into effect today. It will leave here at 12 m. going west, making close connection with the R. & D. and the A. C. Line.

A full delegation of the Kinston Club were on the train last night for Morehead. They were Messrs. Geo. Rountree, M. A. Gray, Sol Oettinger, J. F. Taylor and Frank Rountree, jr.

So the Goldsboro Lumber Co. has boycotted New Bern, and Mr. Hymag says the people generally of Goldsboro endorse the sentiment. Go ahead gentlemen; if you can stand it we will try to.

Steamer Movements.
The Newberne of the O. D. line sailed yesterday carrying on a large cargo of freights, and passengers. The Manteo arrived last night with a good cargo of general merchandise.

Delegates Elected.
At a meeting of the Young Men's Democratic Club held at their room yesterday, the following delegates were elected to attend the State Convention of Clubs which meets at Morehead City today: Jas. W. Moore, E. R. Bryan, Clement Manly, Washington Bryan and H. S. Nunn.

Personal.
Miss Emma Beeton has returned from a visit to friends and relatives in Carteret county, accompanied by Miss Belle Taylor of Wintrop who will spend a few days in the city.

Mr. J. F. Cowell and wife of Bayboro, were in the city yesterday and took passage on the steamer Newberne for a pleasure trip North.

Mr. W. T. Cahoon, Misses May Cahoon and Mabel Miller of Bayboro, and Miss Katie Drew of Southport, were in the city yesterday.

An Explanation.
The Goldsboro Argus asks for an explanation for the following paragraph which appeared in last Saturday's issue of the JOURNAL:

"The Argus will live to regret some of the unkind things said of our people. We know that a communication has already been written retracting the insulting telegram sent in the name of Mr. Baird and withdrawing the article over the signature of J. B. B., and it will be sent to the Argus for publication."

It is the last sentence in the above paragraph that the Argus wants explained. The question of "Repentance" has always been a hard one for some people to understand, especially those who are incorrigible and lay claim to perfection, although it is clearly taught in the Holy Scriptures. The object of the sentence in question was to show the ground of hope in the one that preceded. The sender of the insulting telegram and the supposed author of the communication having "repented," there was hope that the Argus would at last realize its folly in attempting to stir, belittle and ridicule as noble, generous, patriotic, warm hearted people as can be found in any town in North Carolina, and would make an open confession of its sins and receive the pardon which awaits the truly penitent. We are half inclined to forgive the sprightly editor since we have learned of the attraction that awaited him at Morehead City. It is indeed annoying to be thwarted by quarantine under such circumstances.

Rev. E. L. Abernethy's Card.
EDITOR JOURNAL.—The noble utterance of this scholarly and conscientious gentleman should be heeded by every man who believes in white supremacy in a white man's country. Nine-tenths of the Democratic voters of the State will heartily endorse the statement that "this present third party movement will not imperil the white man's supremacy in the South, but it will damage the cause of prohibition almost incalculably." As for this humble scribe, he is a life long prohibitionist, who would vote for prohibition of the whiskey curse, if he had to be taken from a sick bed and hauled to the polls, but he feels it his duty as well as that of every other good man, to vote with the Democratic party in the approaching election. GOSHEN.

An Open Letter.
GOLDSBORO, Aug. 25, 1888.

Hon. E. H. Meadows, Mayor, etc., New Bern, N. C.

DEAR SIR—I regret exceedingly that a telegram dated at Goldsboro, N. C., 18th instant, and signed with my name should place me in a hostile and threatening attitude to the citizens and especially the physicians of your city on account of recent quarantine measures.

My sole motive and intention in telegraphing to you at that time was to procure information necessary to enable me to obtain advice relative to my own individual difficulties in joining my family beyond New Bern, or having them come to me. This telegram is very differently worded and I desire to repudiate utterly and absolutely the sentiments and threats which it contains. It was doubtless sent as written but was written different from what I desired or meant.

In this connection I wish to disavow most heartily and all opinions or sentiments unfriendly to the people of New Bern, its physicians or its action; especially as contained in an article which appeared in the Goldsboro Argus of the 18th inst., signed J. B. B. I desire expressly to withdraw and repudiate anything of an offensive character that I may have said or written to anybody, in this connection, or which may be attributed to me by anybody.

While the quarantine regulations have caused me some loss and inconvenience, as they may have done to others, that cannot be reasonably considered in contravention of the public good or safety.

I have never been in your city, but from my knowledge of the high character of its people in all respects, I should dislike exceedingly to incur their ill-will especially on mistaken grounds, and I beg that you will hasten to communicate to all concerned the assurance of my esteem and my sincere regrets at this mortifying misapprehension.

Very respectfully,
JNO. B. BAIRD.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.
MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle. mar17distributors.com

Stonewall Items.
Benj. McCotter is the happy recipient of a fine little girl on last Thursday evening.

The Democratic convention for the purpose of nominating county officers and a Representative in the lower House, convenes in Bayboro on the first day of September. No scarcity of aspirants.

Wm. H. Sawyer and Jno. F. Cowell of Bayboro, and S. W. Ferebee and C. H. Fowler of this place, anticipate leaving on Thursday next for the North to purchase their fall and winter supply of merchandise.

At this writing we are having a nice and invigorating rain that is much needed. Cotton and late corn has been suffering for want of water, but cotton has suffered materially from the cold nights, which have given it a serious set back. The damage it has sustained is quite serious. The prospects for an excellent yield were very flattering until this set back. There never was a better fodder-saving time than this and it has been taken advantage of. Still there is a large portion yet to save. A good corn crop is assured. I have heard of no cotton worm yet.

Rob't T. and Jno. Y. Bonner of Aurora, Beaufort county, a pair of Prohibitionists, had an exhibition in Bayboro a night or two ago for the advancement of the third party. If we can judge from what can be learned from those present, their efforts did not amount to much. I can assure them that the Democrats of Pamlico are not of such material as to be caught napping as such times as this, for they will know that there is no prospect of electing the Prohibition ticket, but to strengthen the Radicals. They will have to come again.

A Woman's Discovery.
"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its several tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lee. Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Ellettsville, N. C. Get a bottle free at R. N. Duffy's drug store.

Memoirs of a Great Southerner:— Bishop Harris of Michigan.
GENERAL BATTLE—Tell me something of the brilliant Harris, the dead bishop of Michigan, whom you knew. That a young Southern man, scarcely twenty-five years of age at the close of the war, and then passing from the conflict of arms to the pulpit, should have so quickly been elected bishop of an extreme Republican State, winning honors and love from the opponents of his own Southland, and should have so gloriously closed his wonderful career in the midst of nobles and commoners in the great cathedral of Winchester, strikes the writer as the most extraordinary history of modern times. Respectfully,
JOHN S. LONG.

HON JOHN S. LONG.—You honor me, dear sir, in asking me to tell you something of the brilliant Harris. If I felt that I could do justice to the lamented Bishop of Michigan, the task would be a delightful one. As it is I hesitate. You will please remember that, in attempting to comply with your request, I must rely entirely upon the memory of events that are separated from the present by many years of almost bewildering vicissitudes.

I first knew Sam. Harris as a law student in Montgomery, Alabama, and a little while afterwards as a soldier in my regiment. In the early spring of 1861 the Third Alabama Regiment left Montgomery for Virginia, and was mustered into the provisional army of the Confederate States on the 4th of May, at Lynchburg by Col. E. Kirby Smith. Samuel S. Harris, then about twenty years old, was a private soldier in the Montgomery True Blues, Company G, Third Alabama Reg't. He was a very Apollo in arms. After little more than a year the Blues were transferred from the infantry to the artillery arm of the service, and I saw no more of Harris during the war.

Soon after the war Sam. Harris made his appearance at the Montgomery bar. It was no small venture. That bar had no superior in the South.

It is remarkable that Alabama had four Sam. Harrises who were distinguished men. Sam N. Harris, who was usually called Nat. Harris, and who was at the head of the bar about the year 1850. Sampson W. Harris, for many years a member of Congress, and his son, S. W. Harris, jr., and Samuel S. Harris, the subject of this notice.

It is not pretended that S. S. Harris ever stood at the head of the bar, but it is claimed that, by diligent study, gentlemanly deportment, courtly bearing and undeviating devotion to honor, virtue and truth, he laid the foundation for the highest distinction in the legal profession. But Harris was destined to a higher calling. Well do I remember how diligently he studied the path of duty, and how bravely he followed it when Providence pointed out the way. God had given him great powers, and he gave himself to God.

You ask me what made him such a man. Many elements blend in successful manhood. From a boy Sam. Harris accustomed himself to listen for the call of duty, and instantly obey its behests. He had ambition, but it was so linked to virtue that they walked together as twin giants. His was the sweetest of tempers and bravest of spirits. No one could be with him without seeing that while the lambs gambled on the hills a lion slept in the valley.

His popularity was unbounded. When he was to speak, the simple announcement was enough to fill court house, theatre or capitol. And when it was noised abroad that he had left the bar for THE CHURCH, all hearts sent up a grand anthem and all voices shouted, "Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised, in the eye of our God, in the mountain of his holiness."

Sam. Harris left Alabama, and at New Orleans became Dr. Samuel S. Harris. The personal qualities of the late Bishop, as already intimated, were of the highest order. His brain was broad as human thought, and his heart took in all the world. Nevertheless, no man lived to himself. Dr. Harris owed very much to the beloved Bishop Wilmer, while he was in New Orleans. Wilmer was no ordinary man, and he loved Harris as father loveth his first born son. He helped him to the front and helped to sustain him there. It was the eagle bearing up the eagle on eagle's wings, and it is no wonder he soared above the clouds to his native heaven.

Thanking you, sir, for your courteous note, and regretting that I have none of your gifts for the better accomplishment of my task.

I am yours most truly,
COLLEN A. BATTLE.

Its Delicacy of Flavor.
And the efficacy of its action have rendered the famous California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, immensely popular. It cleanses and tones up the clogged and feverish system, and dispels Headache, Colds and Fevers. B. N. Duffy, agent, New Bern, N. C. aug13d4w

STATE NEWS CONDENSED.

Raleigh Visitor: Ice and frost at Blowing Rock, Watauga county, last Friday.—A good deal of new machinery is being placed in the Raleigh cotton seed oil mills.—The caterpillar has made its appearance in the splendid cotton farm of Mr. Wm. G. Upchurch.—An entirely new plant has been ordered for the Raleigh ice factory.

Wilmington Review: The Grand Lodge of Masons of North Carolina will convene at Southport on Tuesday the 4th of September, for the purpose of laying the corner stone of the new Methodist Church at that place. The ladies of the M. E. Church there, after the exercises are over, will have a festival for the benefit of their church building fund.

Charlotte Chronicle: The Cabarrus county fair is to be held at Concord, beginning Oct. 9th. Everything is in readiness for a first-class fair.—When the convention to organize the Third Party in Stanly county met in Albemarle last week, only one man was present, and he elected himself president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and executive committee.—The stable of Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, at Linwood, were burned last Friday night. A horse and two mules perished in the flames, and all of Mr. Fitzgerald's farming tools and implements and forges were destroyed. The loss will amount to $1,000.

Cotton Bagging.
In dealing with the cotton bagging difficulty, our farmers must, if possible, do nothing to injure themselves.

If cotton is put up in barrels it cannot be compressed, and therefore could not be shipped abroad. If put up in tight cotton casks, this, of course, is liable to be torn and the cotton exposed. There is but one remedy that suggests itself that will cause no loss to the farmer, and at the same time accomplish their desired object, that is to use gunny bagging. Gunny bagging is made in India. It comes in bales of about 1,000 yards, it weighs about 2 1/2 lbs. to the yard, and until about 20 years past was used almost exclusively by the cotton farmers for baling their cotton. When the manufacture of bagging was commenced in the United States, a duty was placed on this gunny bagging, thereby giving an advantage to the American manufacturer, and the demand for gunny bagging was thereby cut off. If the farmers use this bagging they lose nothing in weight, as it is as heavy if not heavier than the American, and the price (even with the duty on it) is doubtless less than the advanced price charged by the American manufacturers. Our watchful member of Congress, Mr. Simmons, has already introduced a bill to take off the tax, and should he succeed, there would be a reduction in its price.

There is also another bagging, viz. the Dundee (which is also imported) which would answer, but it is much lighter in weight than the gunny.

The use of either of these kinds of bagging would accomplish the object desired.
