COMBINATION

In this age of the world, especially in the United States, the tendency is towards combination. Here where men talk most of personal liberty and individual responsibility no one thinks of accomplishing anything by himself.

But Eastern North Carolina is loved o'er all the world besides. Here nature has been most prodigal of her beauties; soil, climate and production contributing to health, prosperity and enjoyment.

There is no want of able and influential men who have made for themselves honorable reputations and ample fortunes, but they have not united in a zealous and concerted effort to secure for Eastern North Carolina the consideration to which it is entitled by virtue of its present attitude, and the high position to which nature and nature's God have destined it.

Combination of influence and effort must be delayed no longer. There must be an outlet for the marvelous productions of this section.

The extension of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad to some point in the interior is imperatively demanded, and it is upon this work that influence must center and effort combine.

The Board of Trade of the city of New Berne, at a late meeting appointed a committee to wait on Governor Fowle, the private stockholders, and the people along the line of the A. & N. C. R., and the country through which it is proposed to extend it and endeavor to secure their aid in extending said road into the interior of the State.

The committee is composed largely of the best business men of New Berne, and we bespeak for them the respectful consideration of such communities as they may visit.

Let it be remembered that the road will be of inestimable value to every section it enters, developing their resources, stimulating their energies, bringing to their doors the products of the best trucking region in the world, and placing them in direct communication with the seaboard.

We trust that meetings will be held along the line of the projected railway and that there will be such combined action as will insure success.

This is a State enterprise of no small moment and commands itself to the favor of the Governor and the General Assembly. The continuation of the A. & N. C. R. to Charlotte will unite the East and the West and make the interests of North Carolina one, and indivisible.

We call upon the Governor, the Legislature and the people to make this grand enterprise a magnificent success.

THE MOB

The sanguinary affair that occurred at Birmingham, Alabama last Saturday night is a sad but impressive lesson.

A man had been charged with the murder of his wife and daughter, and was incarcerated in the Jefferson county jail, in Birmingham. A number of persons having threatened to lynch the prisoner, the sheriff assembled his posse at the jail to guard it and protect its inmates.

A little after midnight a large multitude of people advanced upon the jail. The sheriff hailed the mob, and urged them to retire, but they would not. He then called out, "I will count three slowly. If, after I have counted, and paused a moment, you do not retire I will fire." The crowd moved forward.

The sheriff shouted, "One, two, three!" The crowd stood still. The sheriff did not fire, and the mob moved forward with threats. The sheriff again called out, "I will now count five, and if you do not retire, I will certainly fire. This is the third and last warning!"

The madened mass passed forward, and the sheriff rang out the command, "Fire!" and instantly the Winchester rifles of the guard did their deadly work. Ten fell dead and many more were wounded. The affair is absolutely shocking. But who is to blame? The sheriff is now blamed because some of the best men in Birmingham were killed, but the judgment of mankind will be in favor of the sheriff who resolutely did his duty.

The great fault is in the restlessness of our people in awaiting the ordinary course of justice, and the repeated failure of the courts to meet the just expectations of the people. Law and order demand fearless and impartial judicial tribunals, and a firm reliance upon the courts to deal with all kinds of crimes with justice to all and malice towards none.

He Was Excused. We had met to determine when and where we should pitch our tent this fall. One member suggested that we start either before or after Circuit Court met, for some of us would surely be summoned on the jury.

Then H. C. S., the genial captain of our party, said, "Did you ever hear how I was excused from serving some time ago? While Judge Buckner presided over this district some time ago, I was summoned, and after Court was called I went to the Judge and asked to be excused, as I had urgent business to attend to at home which required my presence."

The Judge replied, "There are no doubt twenty-five men here who would want to be excused for similar reasons. I cannot excuse you."

"Your Honor, I have served as juror in this court for three consecutive terms, and you ought to excuse me this time for these reasons."

"That," answered the Judge, "only proves your value to the county as a juror. I cannot excuse you."

"Your Honor, I have still other reasons. You ought to excuse me for old acquaintance's sake. When I was quite a small boy you used to camp on my father's farm every spring to keep from serving on the jury in the adjoining county, and I need to supply you with fishing worms."

"You are excused," cried the Judge, amid the roar of laughter that followed from the officers of the Court.—Forest and Stream.

Prevention of all Infectious Diseases. The science and practice of medicine and surgery are undergoing a revolution of such magnitude and importance that its limits can hardly be conceived. Looking into the future, in the light of recent discoveries, it does not seem impossible that a time may come when the cause of every infectious disease will be preventable or easily curable; when protection can be afforded against all diseases, such as scarlet fever, measles, yellow fever, whooping cough, etc., in which one attack accures immunity from subsequent contagion; when, in short, no constitutional disease will be incurable, and such scourges as epidemics will be unknown. These, indeed, may be but a part of what will follow discoveries in bacteriology. The higher the plane of actual knowledge, the more extended is the horizon. What has been accomplished within the past few years, in regards knowledge of the causes, prevention and treatment of disease, far transcends what would have been regarded a quarter of a century ago, as the wildest and most impossible speculations.—Dr. Am's Flint.

The river at Trenton is getting very low.

A new fence is being built around the Methodist Church at Trenton. Mr. Brogden has a visitor at his hotel that has come to stay. It is a girl.

We learn that Capt. Page's fat boys have been dying with cholera. Lost three last week.

Ottom picking is nearly over, cotton nearly all sold and the most of the money spent.

We learn that Mr. William Willis, who resides near Trenton, had the misfortune to lose his little son a few days ago with the dropsy.

Mrs. Nancy Robinson, an inmate of our county poor house, who is 75 years old, fell over a chair and hurt herself so badly that she has been confined to her bed for several days.

Seed cotton was offered plentifully at Trenton on Saturday last, brought there in wagons, carts, baskets and sacks. Money appeared plentiful and trade was brisk.

There is a little 9 year old chap that resides near the public road who watches every bag of cotton that is carried along and whenever one is covered with jute he says, "Pa, that man don't belong to the Alliance, if he did his cotton would be covered with Dundee."

Mr. A. Andrews, jr., shot and killed three others at one shot a few days ago. Four were out sleeping on a large stump and one of them slipped off into the water and escaped. The three hides measured 16 feet.

Married, at the home of the bride, at Trenton, on Sunday evening, December 9th, Mrs. Sarah Elias Wilson and Mr. Adolphus Taylor Brown, Mr. E. E. Page officiating. May prosperity and happiness attend them through all the changing seasons and vicissitudes of life.

Died, near Trenton, on Wednesday, the 5th of December with dropsy, Mr. Adam Andrews, sr., aged 83 years. Mr. Andrews was an estimable citizen, honored and respected by all that knew him. Mr. Andrews was don't suppose ever had a lawsuit during his whole life. Courts and courthouses would not be needed had all men been like him. A good man has gone to his reward.
