We were forced to this position because Republicans in their campaign sought to arouse the bitterest prejudices of the colored race against the Democrats and followed up their efforts with bull-dozers at the polls whose threats and intimidations made a fair election impossible. We received letters from different parts of the State heartily endorsing the position, and the Democrate of this county almost with one accord agreed to a before them, it was a far engior task to declare these offices vacant than it was to fill them to the entire satisfaction of everybody. Therefore, we ask our friends not to judge too harshly. Our commissioners are as truly reprecentative of the wealth, intelligence and honor of the county as, perhaps, can be found; and for the interest of the county, for the benefit of the taxpayers, let us overlook their faults in small things, and hold up their hands ister the affairs of the county and take care of its finances.

The Festival at Stanly Hall.

Is would be difficult to do complete justice to the excellent entertainment given by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, under the supervision and direction of the ladies of Christ Church, at Stanty Hall on Wednesday evening. That capacious room has been the scene of many ornate feativities, but none ever gave more pleasure than this. Bright colors tastefully intermingled greeted the eye everywhere. Flags and evergreens brought out the display with striking effect. Gayly dressed ladies made themselves at once ornamental and useful. And what was of more importance than anything else, the patronage of the festival was fully up to the expectation of its friends. One of the most interesting features of the occasion was the presence of many delightful little children. As the chief purpose of the entertainment was to raise funds for the friendless little joring comfort and home happiness covered with beautiful cake and other | 16 confections, and was a continual charm entirely to the success of the festival, it would be strange indeed if every ment and incident of the occasion
