FAIRS.

Fairs are modern institutions. Our fathers knew nothing about them, and many among those we revere, would have opposed their introduction. But they came with the progressive developments of the times, and now they are found in every State of the Union. Everywhere their beneficial influence is seen in their life giving and energizing power.

It is not usual for fairs to take place in winter. In most cases open air displays are essential to success, and in most places the weather is too cold in winter to admit of out door exhibitions, but, in this delightful climate, no such difficulty is encountered.

Next month, the good winter month of February, New Berne will have an exposition that will surpass in beauty, variety and excellence all that have gone before.

While the success of the exposition is assured, it is desirable that every member of the community contribute to that success. Whatever advances the interests of the city tends to the upbuilding of every citizen.

In every community, however progressive, there are always some people who are fast asleep. In this neighborhood the Fair will awake every one, and enthrall the most phlegmatic. It will unite citizens in a common purpose. It will produce competition and induce a desire to excel in all industrial pursuits. Indeed, its object is to stimulate business activities, and attract capital to the best field on this continent. Its purpose is to bring into social relations the people of all sections of the State, and make North Carolina thrill in anticipation of the coming glory.

CHARLOTTE AND NEW BERNE.

There was an election in the good county of Mecklenburg last Thursday at which the question of subscribing to the four new railroads to Charlotte was submitted to the people. We learn that not enough votes in the affirmative were polled to secure the subscription.

We sympathize with those who were disappointed, for we too have felt the keen anguish of disappointment.

When men are defeated in cherished plans it is not always wise to suggest other enterprises; but, knowing the good sense of our friends in the West, we delicately intimate to them that the extension of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad to Charlotte would be of great advantage to their beautiful city.

The territory through which the extension will go is rich in all that contributes to the wealth and general prosperity of a progressive community. All along the line there are virgin fields ready to empty their untouched treasures into the lap that is ready to receive them. Why may not Charlotte be the happy recipient of this wealth and these treasures?

New Berne, too, will be greatly benefited by railroad connection with Charlotte; but she will reciprocate favors and give to Charlotte and all the intermediate country abundance of the luxuries that abound in this vicinity.

SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. Moore's resolution of instruction to our members of Congress requesting the immediate and total abolition of all the revenue taxes was taken up.

Mr. Payne offered as a substitute for the resolutions and amendments pending a resolution as follows:

Whereas, The present system of tariff is unjust, unfair and burdensome to the people of North Carolina and has proven a heavy embargo laid upon labor and industry; and whereas this system has been declared by the Supreme Court of the United States to be robbery under the forms of law; and

Whereas, It has been clearly demonstrated that the present tariff supports and fosters monopolies, trusts and combines; and

Whereas, The present system of internal revenue laws is oppressive, inequitable and contrary to the spirit and genius of our institutions, therefore

Resolved, By the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, that our Senators in Congress be instructed and our Representatives be requested to secure such a sound, healthy and substantial reduction of the tariff as will make the taxation upon articles that are intended to be consumed as luxuries higher than the necessities of life and those materials, implements and machinery which are consumed or used in agriculture and manufacturing.

2. That our Senators be instructed and our Representatives in Congress be requested to secure (as far as the same may be in accord with said tariff reduction) an early repeal of the entire internal revenue system and all taxation thereunder.

The above was amended by striking out the words in brackets.

Mr. Payne's substitute, after a lengthy discussion, adopted, put upon its second reading as an original bill and passed, and under a suspension of the rules, put on its third reading and passed.

Mr. Lucas called up the bill changing the time of holding the Superior Courts in Beaufort county, and under a suspension of the rules it passed its several readings.
