

My Poor Back!

That "poor back" is held responsible for more than its share of the sufferings of mankind. If your dog bites a man who kicks it, do you blame the dog? On the same principle the kidneys after their protest resulting constipation. These forces then system of the poisons which are the blood. Then the sufferer says the dazed. "Not yet," but they will the blood purified, and the constipation of kidney troubles, and Paine's Celery Compound removes them quickly. With its tonic, purifying, and laxative effect, it also strengthens the weak kidneys, making it almost infallible in curing all diseases of the nerves and kidneys. If your hopes of cure have not been realized, try Paine's Celery Compound; it gives perfect health to all who complain of "their poor backs." Price $1.00.

THE JOURNAL.

GERMOUR LAND.

DAKKEE DASSIDGE.

Oh, dim, dim! Glimour-land!
On whose coast I stand, Longing for home that shall be home no more!

There stood my palace grand, Back aches, the kidneys are dis-
The fiery swords of seraphs guard the door.

There once I roamed to cull Dear hopes more beautiful Than e'en thoughts that musing monks revel:

Nothing too far or fair But its mirage was there, Pictured upon the valley's rosy mist

There each sweet day I heard Songs of a brooding bird, Telling of purer pleasures yet to be There, by the singing streams, Faint forms of darling dreams Loitered and lingered hand in hand with me.

Oh, dim, dear Fancy-land!
Thy welkin, rainbow-spanned, The softened light of halcyon hours o'er past,
Fading away, away,
All the expanse is gray—As fades the summer moon, too fair to last.

A RARE OLD WEAVER.

CLARA J. DENTON

A busy old weaver is Time at best, Ceaselessly working at Life's behest, And, though his web may be thin and fine

And he fashions it slowly, line by line, He will cover well, whatever your care,
With his dingy veil your treasures rare.

Busy old weaver, within his den Covertly watching the children of men, Winding about with his threads of gray The hopes and passions with which we play.

King of weavers is he, I ween,
For, never a flaw in his work is seen.
Wonderful web! It absorbs our tears, Covers our woes and smothers our fears Tenderly falls on the quivering heart And wipes the poison from treachery's dart.

Strange old weaver, taking no rest,
And we love him most who know him best.

Carrying a Feather Duster in Place of Her Parasol.

"I had a curious experience not long ago," says the superintendent of one of the departments of an up-town dry goods establishment.

"A fashionable dressed lady came in early, and in the course of her bargaining put her parasol on the counter near a large feather duster which one of the clerks had been using. After making some purchases the lady caught up the feather duster instead of her parasol, and went out hurriedly. As soon as I discovered the mistake I sent a boy after her with the parasol, but he did not overtake her until she had made quite a journey. "In fact, she doubtless that duster along the street, dourished it about as she went into another store, and put it down on the counter, still under the impression that it was her parasol.
When her purchases in the second store were made, she turned to pick up her parasol, and seeing the duster, asked for her parasol. The clerk explained that she had not brought any parasol in, but had come in carrying that duster. She was supremely indignant at such an intimation, and was delivering the young man a sharp lecture on the subject, when in came our boy with her parasol and an explanation. She was so overcome that she had to be sent home in a carriage."

Fat Spartans.

The ancient Spartans paid as much attention to the rearing of men, as the cattle breeders in modern England do to the breeding of cattle. They charge of the firmness and looseness of men's flesh, and regulated the degree of fatness to which it was lawful, in a free state, for any citizen to extend his body. Those who dared to grow too soft or too fat for military exercise and the service of Sparta were soundly whipped. In one particular instance, that of Nauclicus, the son of Polybius, the offender was brought before the Ephori and a meeting of the whole people of Sparta, at which his unlawful fatness was publicly exposed; and he was threatened with perpetual banishment if he did not bring his body within the regular Spartan compass, and give up his culpable mode of living, which was declared to be worthy of an Ionian than of a son of Lacedaemon—Erohaage.

As the old man grows more and more blundering, if he will grow more careful, it will go far to counterbalance that infirmity.

WOMEN KNOWING.

Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake City, Fla., was taken with a severe cold attended with a distressing cough and running into consumption in its first stages. He tried many so-called popular cough remedies and steadily grew worse. Was reduced in flesh, had difficulty in breathing and was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found immediate relief, and after using about a half dozen bottles found himself well and had no return of the disease. No other remedy can show so grand a record of cures as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, guaranteed to do just what is claimed for it. Trial bottle free at B. N. Duffy's drug store.
