Hall, who with the crew was street, were surprised at the published supposed lost, has been picked up at statement this morning that $12,000 worth of funds held by him as Treas urer of the Protestant Episcopal Church Missionary Society for seamen, cannot be found. It was ascertained today that the funds of St. George's church and of the estate of which he was truetee, are also missing, to the extent of nearly $40,000 additional, and besides this, it is stated that the funds entrusted to him by individuals for investment annot be accounted for.

Nothing is wrong with his bank accounts, which were examined when the new cashier was appointed after Marshall's death, in November, and again when the regular half yearly report was being prepared. No discovery was made until a need arose for some of such funds in Marshall's charge. Search for these disclosed the fact that the securities in which they had been full value with a Trust Company, along with other securities by Marshall. As the affair gains publicity, additions are made to the amount for which Marshall is responsible. The aggregate is now placed at about $75,000. No explanation whatever has been advanced for the disappearance of these funds. Marshall was about 75 years old and had been a prominent church man for a great many years, having for twenty years or more had charge of the finances of half a dozen societies connected with church work.
