A PRINCE.

When a distinguished representative of royalty goes abroad the people whom he honors with his presence extend to him every consideration to which birth, station and character entitle him.

A Prince in the Empire of Mind is visiting North Carolina, and it is creditable to the Old North State that he is everywhere received as an illustrious member of the royal family of Letters.

Mr. Lewis—"M. Quad," of the Detroit Free Press—is no ordinary man, loosely built and thrown at random on the world. From the soles of his feet to the crown of his head he looks the man he is—a son of Genius and of Fame.

He has come among us to see who we are and what we are. He is looking to ascertain whether we exhibit the characteristics of Rip Van Winkle, or give evidence that we are the worthy successors of Stanley, Speight, Gaston and Manly. He has come to test by his own unerring measurement the vastness of our resources and the progress we have made in material development. Above all, he has come to make the heart test, and see if men of the North can find here friends and brothers worthy of their confidence and love.

We have no fear of the result of the visit of Mr. Lewis to North Carolina. He has found here a realm rich in resources and boundless in hospitality, with health in the breeze, beauty in the landscape and patriotism and virtue in the hearts of the people. He will return to his home in the great West with his whole being thrilling with pleasant recollections, and the Detroit Free Press will speak to the nation of North Carolina—her honorable past, her present prospects and her future glory.

WHAT MORE IS NEEDED!

The Legislature has adjourned. A majority of the members have returned home to find their acts approved by their constituents and enjoy in the retirement of domestic life the rest to which their labors entitle them.

Many of us in this section of the State deeply regret the failure to create a wise and judicious Railroad Commission, but we find much consolation in the passage of a bill to prevent discriminations against the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad, and in the grating of a charter to the East Carolina Railway Company.

What more is needed? We answer, a fixed determination to use all the means the God of Nature has placed in our power for the achievement of a glorious destiny. Action, action, resolute action, is the demand of the hour. Wilmington—our ever generous sister—is ready to join hands with us and connect the cities of the seaboard with bands of iron.

The importance of this enterprise to this section of the State cannot be overestimated. It opens wide the gates of commerce and bids the wilderness blossom as the rose. The Wilmington Messenger is giving its powerful aid to this work. In its issue of last Tuesday it says: "It was understood that the building of the road from Wilmington to Onslow awaited the movements of the East Carolina people, and it those are now ready to go forward, the interested parties here should be on the alert to move with them, and not allow this necessary work to longer linger as a sleeping enterprise."

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.
The Last Day of the Session.

CLOSING UP THE LEGISLATIVE WORK—PLEASANT INCIDENTS.

SENATE.

At 10 o'clock Lt. Gov. Holt called the Senate to order for the last time during the session of 1898. Mr. Little, from the committee on enrolled bills, reported as properly enrolled and the President placed his signature upon and thus ratified three hundred and twenty-one bills. For nearly two hours the President was engaged in this work.

There have been passed, enrolled and ratified at this session of the General Assembly eight hundred and seventy-eight acts—three hundred and sixty more than at the last session. The best of these at this session was one which changed a turnpike road in Watauga county into a public highway. The President was signing the enrolled bills when he was bidding good-bye to another and expressing words of kindness in parting. Frequently the President was interrupted to shake the hand of some departing legislator. Even the members of the House came over to bid good-bye to Lt. Gov. Holt and Bob Furman, two men whom every member of the Legislature seems to love.

The first act ratified was one changing the time of holding the terms of the Superior Courts of Beaufort county, the last one was an act to preserve and complete the Governor's Mansion.

Mr. Holton sent up his individual protest against the election law. He had not signed the Lusk protest. Mr. Lusk made a few remarks to the effect that in his protest he did not intend to do or say a word which should be construed by any Senator as an injustice to the Senate or any member thereof, and rather than place himself in such a light he asked leave to withdraw his protest, which he did.

Mr. Holton's protest was read. It was in language free from any objectionable language. It was simply a general objection to the election law taken from a Republican standpoint.

The colored Senator from Warren put in his little protest against the same law.

Mr. Green submitted a resolution of thanks of the Senate to Robert M. Furman, principal clerk of this body.

The resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Mr. Pou, in the chair, recognized Mr. Stubbs, who in a most elegant manner, presented Lt. Gov. Holt with a handsome gold headed cane.

Mr. Lusk, for the minority side of the Senate, sent forward some beautifully prepared remarks, stating that he could not control his feelings sufficiently to enable him to read or speak them himself.

Mr. Lucas, as only W. H. Lucas could, paid a handsome tribute of respect to the great worth of so true, noble, just and fair an officer as was the presiding officer of the Senate of 1898. He spoke very feelingly to each member of the Senate and really made the parting hour one of sadness. His words were from the deepest recesses of his heart and there was many a dampened eye when he took his seat bidding all a kind farewell.

Lt. Gov. Holt, resuming the chair, responded in a feeling manner and closed with these words: "May the Great Sovereign Ruler of the world bless you with his choicest blessing in your various avocations of life, and at the end bring you to Himself."

I now declare the Senate adjourned without day.

to be ratified and by the Speaker in signing them.

Mr. Walker, in a few happy remarks, on behalf of the pages and employees of the House, presented Mr. D. R. Julian, principal door-keeper, with a handsome gold headed cane. Mr. Julian, through Mr. C. C. Lyon, responded, accepting the present in grateful terms.

There were 350 bills signed by the Speaker today; 378 bills in all were enrolled during the session, making 965 more than were enrolled last session.

The joint committee to investigate the railroads which refuse or fail to pay their taxes was announced as follows: From the Senate, B. F. Aycock and E. W. Kerr; from the House, M. E. Carter, T. H. Sutton and J. B. Holman.

The committee to investigate and examine the books of the State Auditor and Treasurer is as follows: Senate branch, H. W. Stubbs and V. S. Lusk; House branch, R. A. Doughton, C. C. Lyon and R. H. Temple.

Mr. Baird arose and offered a farewell address, which was read by Mr. W. G. Burkhead in his usual almost perfect style.

The hour 12 o'clock m. having arrived the Speaker let the gavel fall and declared the House of Representatives, session of 1898, adjourned sine die.

Studying Latin and Manual Labor.

President John Adams used to tell the following story of his boyhood: "When I was a boy I had to study Latin grammar, but it was dull, and I hated it. My father was anxious to send me to college, and therefore I studied the grammar till I could bear with it no longer; and, going to my father, I told him I did not like study, and asked for some other employment. It was opposing his wishes, and he was quick in his answer.

"Well, John," said he, "if Latin grammar does not suit you, you may try ditching; perhaps that will. My meadow yonder needs a ditch, and you may put by Latin and try that."

"This seemed a delightful change, and to the meadow I went. But I soon found ditching harder than Latin, and the first forenoon was the longest I ever experienced. That day I ate the bread of labor, and glad was I when night came on. That night I made some comparison between Latin grammar and ditching, but said not a word about it. I dug the next forenoon, and wanted to return to Latin at dinner, but it was humiliating, and I could not do it. At night toil conquered pride, and I told my father (one of the severest trials of my life) that, if he chose, I would go back to Latin grammar. He was glad of it; and if I have since gained any distinction, it has been owing to the two days' labor in that abominable ditch."
