U. S. SENATOR CHASE has forwarded his resignation to the Governor of Rhode Island. It is not often that a United States Senator resigns. Among the most notable resignations are those of Conkling and Platt of New York, and Gordon of Georgia.

It is reported that Pamlico county is making an effort to repudiate the debt she owes Craven county. The mother has dealt gently and kindly with the daughter and hopes to keep in friendly relations with her. The people of Craven are sure want nothing but right, and they will contend for the right, now, henceforth and forever.

Personal. Hon. C. C. Clark and Councilman R. P. Williams left for Raleigh yesterday morning.

Mrs. A. J. Scarborough has returned from Baltimore having completed the course of instruction in the millinery department of Armstrong, Cator & Co.

Mrs. Clement Manly returned last night from a visit to Richmond and Baltimore.

The Stockholders Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the East Carolina Fish, Game, Oyster and Industrial Association was held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms last night. The meeting was largely attended and the reports of the President, Secretary and Treasurer were satisfactory. The old officers and directors were unanimously re-elected. The full proceedings will appear shortly.

The Association is in good condition and will take steps early to make the next exhibit still more interesting than the last. Indeed the Association is only approaching what it intends to be. Each year will be an improvement on the former until the vast resources and products of Eastern Carolina will be shown to thousands of visitors in a most attractive manner.

Shipping News.

John S. Long, Esq., in Baltimore. Before the decadence of Letters, incident to the war between the States, New Berne was everywhere recognized as "the classic city by the sea." She has felt the shock of revolution, but so long as the numbers among her sons such men as John S. Long, Esq., her name will be honored and distant cities pay homage to her genius.

Mr. Long was called to Baltimore to meet a popular demand, and nobly did he bear himself before one of the most cultured audiences that ever assembled in that refined and erudite city. We cannot reproduce the eponyms of the press, but content ourselves with giving our readers a single paragraph from the Morning Herald. The occasion was the celebration of the 22d anniversary of the Boys' Home at Ford's Opera House. A large audience was present and on the stage were Mayor Latrobe, ex-Mayor Hodges and other distinguished gentlemen. The Sun and American have splendid notices of the address, but we have only space for the following paragraphs from the Herald:

"The Hon. John S. Long, of New Berne, N. C., made the annual address. He said: 'The Boys' Home needs no orator to represent it; it speaks more eloquently in its own behalf. We commonly say that the ingenuity, energy and genius of the Americans have produced the results than we see about us; but there is a power behind the throne—charity is the foundation stone of all great achievements; charity is an important factor in modern progress. Ten years ago a citizen of New York established a college in Tennessee—I mean Vanderbilt University—and today it is one of the greatest educational institutions in the country. Cornell, Vassar and Johns Hopkins Universities were all founded by individual charity and benevolence. The good accomplished by such an institution as the Boys' Home cannot be estimated. How many are the boys snatched from crime and prison by that hand of charity?'"

"The speaker described in glowing terms the needs of some of the great philanthropists of the country. He thought no better evidence of patriotism could be given than by acts of charity. He declared that he had never seen another institution more meritorious than the Boys' Home. 'Its most striking feature is the labor-loving principle it inculcates.'"

New Berne's Boom.

A solid, substantial and genuine boom has set in for New Berne. Men of capital have turned their eyes in this direction. The latest acquisition reported is Mr. M. Makely of Hyde county who has secured rooms at the Gaston House and gone for his family. He is a man of capital and business enterprise, and we hope he will investigate the advantages of New Berne as a manufacturing center. That our people may see that their efforts are attracting attention we copy below notices from some of our leading State papers. The Wilmington Messenger says:

We notice with pleasure that the people of New Berne are enlisting in a genuine movement forward. The success of their Winter Fair has kindled a new energy in them, and aroused them to the importance of co-operative action for the upbuilding of their city, and the promotion of their material interest.

The two fairs at New Berne last year and this revealed many things that the New Bernians were not aware of. The presentation of the resources of the locality where they have so long existed only partially developed. The displays at the New Berne exhibition clearly illustrated the possibilities of that section, and in a manner to take hold of the local mind and energy, and provoke the people of the city to action. They are seized with the desire to make known to the country at large their great resources and advantages, and to invite from all quarters men of enterprise and industry.

We congratulate the people of New Berne upon the start they have made. If they will they can make their city one of the busiest and most prosperous in the State. And along with all the rest they want to better themselves as in the matter of a direct railway connection with Wilmington.

The Durham Tobacco Plant says: We call the attention of the citizens of Durham to an article, found in another column, on the course pursued by the people of New Berns in reference to the inducements of capital to their city. This conduct of the New Bernians will forcibly strike every one who reads it. It shows that they are in earnest in their desire to have foreign capital seek investment among them, and will favorably impress all North-erners who are looking localities in which to invest their money.

The Raleigh News and Observer says: New Berne is aroused. Its business men held a meeting Thursday evening and offered many sites and other inducements to capitalists to locate manufacturing enterprises in their delightful old town and it is clear that a genuine New Berne boom has set in. The offers of sites, etc., to which we have referred were made in five minutes, and New Berne's solid men are now engaged in raising a cash bonus to induce manufacturers. We ask with the JOURNAL who says New Berne is a slow town now?

Kinston Items.

A. Mitchell is off west for mules and horses.

A. Oettinger is north and the usual attractive spring stock of his firm is already arriving.

Rev. D. B. Clayton, Universalist, will preach at Woodington on the 5th Sunday in March at 11 o'clock a.m.

Constable Oates took a dray load of human flesh somewhat saturated with tangle-leg to the police station on Monday last.

A gay widower on King street is preparing to "take her home." He was vigorously shoveling dirt a few days ago as an initiatory step to ornamenting the premises. Good luck to him.

The turpentine business on the south side of Neuse, in Pink Hill and Trent townships, has received a fresh impetus. If the price keeps up to present figures the "first dipping" will bring flush times.

Capt. White is vigorously pushing improvements to his mill on Neuse river. He has begun work on a dry house and is already turning out hoops for a timber which grows abundantly in our swamps and river low grounds.

Kinston is nearer supported by agriculture alone than any town of its size in North Carolina. With the good farming lands surrounding it in every direction it would with a proportionate share of manufacturing industries, be one of the most prosperous towns in the State.

Our people are looking forward with great interest to the construction of the railroad through here to Jacksonville, Onslow county. But if the people of Kinston want their town to grow they must move along with the procession and establish a number of manufacturing enterprises.

John E. Perrott, the popular druggist on the corner of Queen and Caswell streets, has a patch of garden peas in bloom. Clay Perrott is trucking this spring and offers a wager that Kinston will ship a box of peas before New Berne. He will, not extend the wager to James City.

Mr. Jonas Stroud, of Pink Hill town, died on Friday, the 5th inst.

aged about 45 years. On Tuesday after his death his youngest sister, Mrs. S. M. Turner, was visiting the widow when she was taken ill and died in a few minutes. They leave a large number of relatives and friends who mourn their death.

Meers, L. Harvey B. W. (Canada) and several other gentlemen visited Tarboro last week to examine the knitting factory in that town. They came back well pleased and the prospects are that a similar industry will be started in Kinston soon. It is certainly needed and will give a great benefit to the town by giving lucrative employment to many worthy girls and women.

The "fascals" that have been out so long are now preparing to get in. The number of places that were likely to be available compared to the applicants shows that a large number had to be disappointed. The act of civil service reform has upset and some are whetting up to meet and vanquish the monster. One applicant for a railway postal clerkship failed on an old stager, who is qualified to fill any of the subordinate positions to be examined as to his fitness for the position and prepare himself for examination by the civil service commission. The old stager at once took his resignation and informed him that one of the necessary qualifications of a postal railway clerk was to know where all the post-offices in the country were located. He conducted his examination on the 19th inst. and said he "where's Stella?" His applicant, after a moment's reflection, replied, "at my farm—some 200 miles being informed that Stella was in the neighborhood of being a post-office and his efforts for that position were concluded to apply for a ninth one."

North Carolina News.

From the State Express.

Wilmington Star: Mayor Fowler has received a letter from a gentleman living in an interior town in this State asking him to recommend a man for a job to the writer, to turn the watch making and jewelry business. The applicant says he will give the city a good education, clothed and feed him as his own child.

Rockingham Record: The people of Great Falls village are seriously afflicted with the measles. We learn that there are 25 or 30 cases down there, and it takes nearly all the well ones to nurse the sick.—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Ketham, wife of O. B. McKetham, Esq., died in this town on the 20th inst., aged 24 years.

State Chronicle: A Farmer's Alliance warehouse will shortly be opened in Raleigh. That is the way we go forward.—The Raleigh public schools have been kept open several weeks by borrowing money from the Savings Bank to be paid out of next year's fund. An injunction has been threatened—the Bank declines to lend more money—and the Mayor announces that the school will close on Friday of this week.

Lenoir Topics: The saw mill of Robb & Winters, five or six miles west of Lenoir, was burnt Tuesday morning before daylight. We did not learn how the fire originated.—A correspondent from Watuga says that he saw fire and six feet thick over there. We suppose he meant five and a half inches.

The business of our railroad is increasing. The tickets sold for last month show an increase of nearly fifty per cent over the same month last year.

Wilmington Messenger: The second annual Trade Issue of the Messenger, to be issued on the 15th of June, will present many special features.—Mr. H. M. Bowden has made several shipments of fine apparatus to New York during the past week from his gardens at Summer Rest, and we are pleased to learn, has received good prices. Returns received by him yesterday are on a basis of $15 a dozen bunches.—John Nelson, a white man, who seems to have no other affliction than morbid curiosity, has been locked up in the guard house for peering through the blinds of private residences.—The Black Rock Academy building in Columbus county was destroyed by fire one day last week. It was a two-story building and belonged to the Masonic fraternity.

Charlotte Chronicle: The westbound freight train on the Atlanta and Charlotte Railroad, running in two sections just ahead of passenger train No. 50, was completely wrecked at Clifton depot yesterday morning at six minutes after four o'clock. A colored train hand and a passenger in the cab were killed. Four others were seriously wounded. In a second accident with the engine that went back to Spartanburg for assistance a colored man's leg was so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.—Yesterday morning, 8 O. Hunter, who lives four miles from Charlotte, discovered that thieves had stolen from his smoke house, the night before, between one and two hundred pounds of meat. After getting all the meat they could carry, they took two of Mr. Hunter's horses, then went to the house of Mr. Hunter's son, J. P. Hunter, and stole about a dozen chickens and proceeded to Charlotte.—Rev. J. Y. Fair, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of this city, has received a telegram informing him that he had been unanimously elected to the pastorate of the Grace street Presbyterian church of Richmond, Va.

Raleigh News and Observer: Mr. W. S. Primrose informs us that the statement which has been made that the number of students which would be in attendance at the Agricultural and Mechanical College at its opening would be seventy-five is somewhat misleading. The dormitory accommodations of the college will at first be about seventy-five or eighty but the institution will have a capacity of at least 250 students.—President Harrison has been invited by the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly to be present at the session this summer at Morehead City on "State Day," June 25th. The sixth session of the Assembly will be opened on June 18th, and it is expected that Senator Z. B. Vance will deliver an address to the body on June 19th. On that day all the boatmen will give complimentary sails and excursions to all members of the Assembly, and all the boating privileges suits, houses, etc., will be free to all. Special preparations are being made to have a "State Day" on June 25th which will be an honor to North Carolina. On that occasion there will be present Governor Fowle, his council and his military staff, our Supreme Court Judges and the mayors of the principal towns and cities of the State. The State and city officers will be escorted by the Governor's Guard of the city.

Death of Dr. James L. Manney.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Dr. James L. Manney died this evening at 5:30 p. m. There is scarcely a home in all this town but bows down in grief at the loss they have sustained. Take him all through he was one of the best men I ever knew. On Sunday he requested the choir of the Episcopal and Methodist churches to come and sing for him as he talked as one who believed in heaven could talk. Death had no terror—he was ready. He was a brave Confederate soldier during the late war. I am personally grieved at his death. N. M. HOWARD.
