CANADA.

The an bject of the annexation of Sea proclamation.

It is to be expected that the proclamation will produce agitation in England and Canada, but we trust that the conservatism, that has so often come to the rescue of Peace, will again exert its beneficent influence.

That there is a party in Canada and a corresponding party in the United States in favor of Canadian annexation, has long been evident. Intensely American-having the confidence ín fallest of this continent, fatare humbly desiring to contribute to the splendors that await the progressive development of this Western World, we are nevertheless opposed to Canadian annexation, and much more are we opposed to Canadian conquest.

Whatever may be the sentiment of others, we take no pleasure in the triumph of the strong over the weak; and the fact that the United Thomas Webb; Saperintendent States is able to throw a million of Rowing Race, D. G. Bond; Superen into Canada, and add an em- intendent Yacht Race, J. C. Bond. pire to the national domain, weighs no more with the JOURNAL than it does in the scales of Justice and Right. If the proclamation accords with treaty stipulations, or if it was issued in vindication of the inalienable rights of citizens of this country, it must be sustained, without measuring the responsibility or counting the cost. Annexation can have no place in present complications, but may come as a necessary sequence. the political bonds that unite her plants have been almost entirely to England, and to provide new safe-guards for her future security ; and, in the exercise of her inalienable rights, declare her indepenthat were, strong enough to grow dence and ask for admission into through the three inches of coal the Union, it would be the part of ashes. wisdom to consider her application in the spirit of enlightened statesmanship. Until that time comes, let us assure Canada of our friendship, and follow the assurance with a public policy that will make more slept on the field of Arbela, and cordial and intimate the commercial Napoleon upon that of Ansterlitz. and personal relations between the Even stripes and torture cannot give security and satisfied citizens of the respective countries.
