BLESSED ARE THE PEACE MAKERS.
The moral sense of the age is opposed to war. The disposition to leave to arbitration questions disturbing the peace of nations is steadily gaining favor throughout christendom. Never before has diplomacy held so honorable a position as it does now.

This is right. It shows that the world is advancing under the beneficent influence of Christianity and civilization.

But, the blessed words of our Divine Redeemer are not limited to nations. They go with healing on their wings to every community where there are harassing dimensions, to every home embittered by cruel estrangements, and to every heart that is storm-tossed and anguish-riven.

What more honorable, what more noble, what more Christ-like than to be a peace maker? Such a man or woman is always welcomed as an angel of light; a ministering spirit sent as an ambassador from the court of heaven to the inhabitants of Earth.

But, if the divine benediction rests on the peace makers, the denunciations of heaven are no less positive against those who break the peace. They are described as "broilers," "bony bodies," "stirrers of strife," "back biters"—and from all, such Christians are required to separate themselves.

Without partiality, with "nothing to extenuate and naught set down in malice," we commend to all the cultivation of charity, so that we may realize that "blessed are the peace makers, for they shall be called the children of God."

THE TWO DOGS WERE HERESY.

BY REV. A. G. HAYGOOD, D. D.
In the woods, in a remote part of the Indian Territory, Bishop Pierce, twenty years ago, found a graduate of Yale College living in a rude hut with two dogs. He had run away from his kind; he did not love men; he sought to escape humanity and his obligations. When a man makes up his mind that he don't want to be "taxed"—in labor or money for others he should take to the woods—minus the dogs.

While people live in communities the stronger should help the weaker and in proportion to their strength. There is no other reason or worth in being stronger, except that the stronger bear more than PER CAPITA part of life's burdens. The PER CAPITA guage of duty is pure heathenism, nay, the good heathen knew better—it is pure beastism. Hungry wolves won't divide, they will fight fires.

Taxing A. to educate B's children—whether B. can't or won't don't matter—is not a peculiar sort of thing, but the commonest thing in the world. A is taxed to treat B's son in the lunatic asylum; primarily to care him, secondarily to protect people from hurt. A is taxed to put B's son in jail; also, upon occasion to hang him. A is taxed to have streets upon which B drives; to make sidewalks, upon which, it may be, only B treads.

If A is a good citizen he cannot spend one day, unless he be alone, not one hour, without being taxed in some way for B or C or some member of the human family from "A to Z." If Caesar don't tax him, God will. Humanity is made on this plan and Christianity carries it out. Out of self-sacrifice grows the church of Him who "emptied himself" for others, the least deserving and because they were "lost."

The agreement prevails on the lowest plane, self-interest. A can't afford for B's people to die of small pox. A's people might "catch it" and A taxes himself for quarantine. If he is too ignorant to consent, the rest of the alphabet "levy" on him. If A can prevent B's people taking small pox he is an idiot not to try to do it. According to the Gospel of "Poor Richard"—mightier with many than the Gospel of the Son of God, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Unless ignorance—as some seem to think, is "favorable to spiritually" A can no more afford for B's children—whether they be white or black, red or yellow—to grow up in ignorance than he can afford for them to catch and spread small pox. If "ignorance is favorable to vice," as history seems to "teach by example," it is cheaper for A to be taxed to educate B's children (whether B won't or can't don't change A's interest in the case) now than to be taxed to jail, or hang them by and by.

The United States government, after a hundred years of experiment has decided that "it is cheaper to educate an Indian than to kill him." It is, I think, more Christian.

Society should protect itself and in the most economical and Christian manner. The orthodoxy of barbarism is this: "God bless me and my wife, my son John and his wife—us four and no more." And it is "liberal orthodoxy"—barbaric orthodoxy at its best. The true barbaric orthodoxy is—have no wife—no son—no daughter in law, not a neighbor—not even a dog.

The Yale College hermit was not strictly orthodox—the two dogs were heresy.—Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Never Get Into Debt.

Not many years ago a young man came in town to finish his studies at the office of one of our best lawyers. He was well educated, intelligent, agreeable and kind; but he was poor, and in order to support himself, tried to get a class in French. A few scholars came, and the thing did not pay. After a while he paid his landlady, left his boarding house, and took to the woods. On the side of a hill, in a thick pine grove, he pitched his tent, where he cooked his food, ate, slept and studied. Of course, his strange conduct made a great deal of talk. One morning after a terrible thunder storm during the night, his friends hunted him up.

"You'll be sick of your bargain after this," they said, "and be glad enough to have a water proof roof over your head."

"I did not take to the woods from choice," answered the young man. "I could not see my way clear to pay for lodgings, and I am resolved never to be in debt. I know too well the danger of being in debt; my scanty income will carry me through the summer, when I hope better times are coming."

Gentlemen offered to aid him, but he sturdily refused their offers, got through his studies, and has now a large business, which handsomely supports him.

Was not that pluck? And did he not well think that the danger of being in debt is a serious danger? I wish more people thought so. Getting loose in money matters is often the beginning of ruin. When a boy or a young man falls into the habit of borrowing money, spending freely, having things charged, neglecting to pay, and not keeping his promise, he is in a bad way. He forgets, lies, loses his self-respect, and is slowly but surely letting himself down, down, down. The history of many a man shows how far down it may be, even to robbery and murder. Two of the worst murders ever committed in Boston were done by respectable men to hide their debts. One killed his intimate friend because he could not pay a debt which he was owing him. The other a young man shot in cold blood, in broad day, a young associate, that he might rob the bank he was in of a few thousand to pay his debts with. Both did their work coolly, and apparently without any twinges of conscience.

Both were above all conspicuous. They had borne a character fair to the world; but there was a weak spot, a screw loose, a canker at the core. They were loose in their money matters. Debts were dogging at their heels. They had lost their uprightness; and, having lost that, the devil can tempt a soul to do anything.—Child's Paper.

I was troubled with chronic catarrh and gathering in my head, was very deaf at times, had discharges from my ears, and was unable to breathe through my nose. Before the second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm was exhausted I was cured, and today enjoy sound health.—G. J. Corbin, Field Manager, Philadelphia Publishing House, Pa.

I am on my second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, being a sufferer from catarrh since I was a child, but with this medicine I am being cured.—Wm. L. Dayton, Brooklyn.

Boys.
Boys—when they are boys—are queer enough. How many ridiculous notions they have, and what singular desires, which in after life change and shape themselves into characteristics! Who remembers when he would have sold his birthright for a rooking horse, and his new suit of clothes for a number! Who forgets the sweet faced girl, older than himself, against whose golden hair he leaned and wept his griefs away! Who recollects the thought of being a circus rider appeared greater than to be a President; and how jealously he watched the little fellows that were spangled jackets and turned somersaults, and desired to become like them? If memory preserve not these caprices, or something similar, the boy is lost in the man. Happy visions! they come but once and go quickly, leaving us ever to sigh for a return of what can never again be.

Severe Cases of Blood Poison.
Thousands suffer from blood poison, who would be cured if they gave B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) a trial. Send to the Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for book of wonderful cures, that convince the most skeptical. It is sent free.

J. O. Gibson, Meridian, Miss., writes: "For a number of years I suffered untold agonies from blood poison. Several prominent physicians did me little if any good. I began to use B. B. B. with very little faith, but, to my utter surprise it has made me a well and hearty person."

Z. T. Halberton, Macon, Ga., writes: "I contracted blood poison. I first tried physicians, and then went to Hot Springs. I returned home a ruined man physically. Nothing seemed to do me any good. My mother persuaded me to try B. B. B. To my utter astonishment every ulcer quickly healed."

Benj. Morris, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I suffered years from syphilitic blood poison which refused to be cured by all treatment. Physicians pronounced it a hopeless case. I had no appetite, I had pains in hips and joints and my kidneys were diseased. My throat was ulcerated and my breast a mass of running sores. In this condition I commenced a use of B. B. B. It healed every ulcer and sore and cured me completely within two months."
