It is probable that General Joseph Wheeler will be a candidate to represent Alabama in the United States Senate. Success to him!

This is a great year for son of their father, both in this country and abroad. Young John Bright has joined the procession.—Boston Herald.

PLEASE remember that real religion today will not consist in wearing a new hundred dollar outfit to church, and dropping a five cent piece in the collection basket.

THE St. Louis Republic issued a great paper Sunday morning. It weighed two pounds and will be useful to housekeepers to spread on closet shelves.—Kansas City Times.

EDUCATION is the basis of true progress. The town which makes no effort to educate its children cannot go forward and it does nothing to deserve to.—Wilson Advance.

A BUFFALO woman fell forty feet down an elevator shaft, and lighting on her bustle bounced like an india-rubber ball, and went off dancing the highland fling. The bustle is here—or there—to stay.

THERE are two axioms that might be studied right now with profit. First, Georgia is the best place in the world to stay at. Second, Oklahoma is the worst place to go to.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE leader in the Wilmington Star of Friday, under the head "A Reply to an Old Charge," is worth ten times the subscription price of the paper. The Star always stands up to North Carolina against all comers.

CIVIL service reform in its severe and abstract simplicity is not palatable to the politicians, and united party politics ceases to be will not be practicable. All roads away from it leads to a common point—the old doctrine, that to the victors belong the spoils.—Washington Post.

SIX States of the Union have already passed the ballot reform laws. All these laws, without an exception, bar all ballots that are not furnished by the State. This fact is of large significance. It demonstrates that the exclusive official ballot is generally regarded by those who have given the matter their careful consideration as of the essence of genuine ballot reform.—New York Tribune.

THE Oklahoma boomers may sell themselves in a horse's nest. It seems to have just dawned upon the Indians that the settling of 200,000 people in the heart of the territory means to them a general breaking up of their tribal relations. Nearly all of them have a store of weapons with which to protect themselves and their homes against the invaders. A leader of the Pawnees said: "Our people are afraid that the white people will rob us of our homes, but should they pass by and move upon the lands sold to the Government by the Creeks and Seminoles there will be no trouble."

The angling season is here.

The Lord has risen, Hallelujah!

The residence of Capt. H. W. Wahab on South Front street has been much improved by the use of the paint brush recently. It is now one of the neatest looking residences on the street.

A placard was placed at the corner of South Front and Middle streets yesterday evening, headed in large letters, "Oklahoma Notice"; then followed a notice of the meeting of Rising Sun Lodge on Monday evening for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the convention at Raleigh on the 23d of April.

Col. F. L. Perry has leased the New Berne House at Morehead City and will have it in good order for summer travel. The Colonel informs us that he expects to make it a family hotel. There will be no bar in connection with the hotel and families will be able to board as cheap there as they can live at home.

"Now let me talk some," said a pugilist on Middle street yesterday as policeman Wilson walked up and took him by the arm. The trouble was he had already talked too much, and perhaps, imbibed too much, and had squared himself on the sidewalk for a fight, in fact had already made one or two Sullivan-Slade passes at his antagonist which were warded off by a mutual friend. Policeman Wilson took him to the station where he proved to be a gentleman of the old Virginia type and had really been imposed upon. His mistake was in not inviting his persecutors out of town or into an alley where he could have gratified his ambition without being seen by the officers of the law, or better, to have passed them unnoticed.

The Right of Petition—Too Much Criticism

We copy below an article from the Goldsboro Transcript-Messenger which we think presents the A. & N. C. R. question in the proper light.

No one ought to question the right of the people to petition the Governor and no one ought to question the right of the Governor to inquire into the character of the petitioners, genuineness of the signatures and the circumstances under which they have been obtained. It is not the number of names on a petition that commands the attention of the Governor, but the character of the petitioners and the object prayed for.

The management of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad and its friends were doubtless taken by surprise on Tuesday morning, when our clever neighbor, the Argus, opened its battery on the President of that road and his methods of procedure to establish and strengthen his popularity in the Executive mansion.

The Argus has been a staunch friend and supporter of President Bryan, and has rendered him and the road some very valuable service, unquestionably, and we have no doubt the rupture of relations is for good cause, and on proper grounds, still we regret it. Too much adverse criticism of this road and its belongings has wrought much mischief to the public and the private interests involved. The public mind never long reposes respecting the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad, and the action of the Governor is more or less embarrassed or unduly influenced by warring factions, in the exercise of his duties in the appointment of Directors.

The Atlantic Road is in a better physical condition than at any time since it was new. Mr. Bryan has managed well in some respects, at least. And while we would criticize him for serious failure and short-comings in some details, we think the general service of the road has been as successful and satisfactory as under previous management.

We should go for allowing the patrons of the road, and the inhabitants of the country it traverses, determine, to a very great extent, if not entirely, the management of the line, and perhaps there is no better way of ascertainment of the public wish than by popular petition. We understand that petitions are in circulation along the line of the road opposing President Bryan. He certainly has the right to meet the fight against him by counter petitions, as the Argus shows he is doing.

In Our Own Interest.

EDITOR JOURNAL—It is certainly to be regretted that in the matter of choosing an administration of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad there should be an attempt to make the selection a personal one for the gratification of the prejudices of a few persons. Then comes the gall and audacity of those engaged in this that they suppose Governor Fowle would be moved by such consideration.

We take it that Gov. Fowle will make this appointment after an intelligent and careful investigation of facts, choosing as President of the road a man with the proper qualifications and whose interest is identified with the section of the State through which the road runs, and get broad enough in his feelings to hold this State property for the advantage of the people of North Carolina.

The people of Eastern North Carolina are not behind the people of the State in giving expressions to their views. The Scales administration was obnoxious to these people—it was hostile to our interests, and his selection of State proxy and some of his directors was taken by the people of the counties lying along the road as an insult to them. How ever able and patriotic Gov. Scales might have been he walked out of his official station without a pang of regret from the people of this section and it is with the same gratification that the people along the line of the A. & N. C. R. R. will see this summer Gov. Fowle ask the Scales administration to walk out and give place to others. The hostile feeling to the Scales administration caused by hurrying out Col. John D. Whitford and with more haste than judgment, putting in his place Mr. Washington Bryan, was sincere at the time it is sincere today, and remains today.

Mr. F. M. Simmons has every qualification for the Presidency of this road. Intelligent, patriotic, true to his every obligation, and above all, faithful to his trust, in its broadest and noblest sense. The people along the line of the road—in the counties of Wayne, Greene, Lenoir, Onslow, Jones and Pamlico—are practically a unit for him. Carer for his preference in her own son, Mr. Chadwick, but would a thousand times prefer Simmons to Bryan. Craven, if he were the people of the county spoke, would show largely for Simmons. There are some gentlemen opposing him for reasons best known to them, but some dark horse oppose him, they favor the weakest man Bryan, to give him some strength, but they are hid out in the shadows of New Berne waiting to come in themselves for the race on the home stretch. This is the only plausible object I can see to this opposition to Mr. Simmons.

Mr. Bryan opposes him and is doing what he can to show Gov. Fowle that he is a very popular man. Lord bless us! his directory running about in Lenoir for him, his superintendent in Wayne, two or three going about with petitions in Craven. This to let the Governor know that Mr. Washington Bryan has the people of Eastern North Carolina in his favor. I doubt not one will be circulated in Jones before any one knows of it; perhaps, too, in Carteret, and the names of some respectable gentlemen gotten, but this will be a boomerang when the parties write Gov. Fowle, "my name was put on that paper by impertunity, I want Simmons, no Bryan in mine."

Then there is a paper exhibited in a drug store in New Berne kept by Mr. Hammond, which has on it about thirty-four names. This paper, fellow Democrats is addressed to Gov. Fowle asking him to appoint Mr. Washington Bryan President of the road. Now fellow Democrats, who do you think signed this paper, asking Gov. Fowle to appoint Bryan as against Simmons. There were thirty-four names on it at 7 p. m. o'clock April 17th, 1889. Thirty of these were negroes and four white people. What say you to this? But this is not all—some of the negroes were women; but this is not all. Listen: Gov. Fowle I beg you in the interest of rights of these distinguished petitioners who pray you to heed them, in the name of Kees Cox, Kees spoke election day for Craven against Simmons, telling the colored people the Bible said any colored man who voted the Democratic ticket would die, and that was why the Lord took Israel Abbot. Kees is opposed to Mr. Simmons, and that he may be heard in this opposition, he sends his petition to Gov. Fowle. I wonder what that man will say when that petition is handed him. Fowle, the pure patriot; Fowle, who loves his people and his race—having a negro Republican as benighted as Kees Cox, telling him not to appoint F. M. Simmons President of the A. & N. C. R. R.

I do not think, Mr. Simmons, you need fear this. Gov. Fowle shall know the truth before September next.

DEMOCRAT.

There is not, perhaps, among the multitudes of all conditions that swarm upon the earth, a single man who does not believe that he has something extraordinary to relate of himself, and who does not sometime or other, summon the attention of his friends to the casualties of his adventures, and the vicissitudes of his fortune—casualties and vicissitudes that happen alike in lives uniform and in lives diversified—to the commander of armies and to the writer at a desk—to the sailor who resigns himself to the wind and water, and to the former whose longest journey is to the market.
