The President has appointed Mr. Joshua B. Hill marshal for the Eastern District of North Carolina.

"NEARLY four thousand small dwelling houses are in course of construction at Philadelphia this season. The boom is the largest on record."

If brother Wanamaker deserves a Cabinet appointment Col. Dudley deserves at least to "take dinner at the White House."—Statesville Landmark.

NEW YORK people talk their little inaugural thing and eclipse everything on record. It wasn't an eclipse; it was a fog.—Washington Post.

THE Providence Journal gets in some telling hits occasionally on the party in power. Its latest squib was the assertion that the man whose substitute was killed during the war need not despair of getting a pension under the ruling of Corporal Tanner?

THE Spool Cotton Trust, it is stated, is now losing six thousand dollars a day, because of the price of cotton fixed by it. The action of the manufacturers composing the trust was not caused by a desire to furnish cheap cotton to consumers, but to crush competition, in order that prices might be advanced and large profits realized. If they succeed present losses will be recovered by increased prices in the future.—Norfolk Ledger.

THE difference between the people of the North and the South is not worth quoting when it comes to vital matters. The American takes care of himself, and the American who comes South to live with other Americans can take care of himself by respecting the rights of his neighbors. There is this much to be said—the person who respects the rights of his neighbors is reasonably sure to have his own rights respected.—Atlanta Constitution.

It is very gratifying to Virginia to have their Governor receive so much attention wherever he goes. Washington and Lee were two of the very greatest men that this country has produced, and Fitzhugh Lee is a nephew of him who was not the least of the two. He has, moreover, worthily filled the office to which his people elevated him, and merits the applause of his countrymen. We rejoice to see him the object of admiration at home and abroad.—Norfolk Landmark.

From the Wilmington Messenger, but my attention has been called to an article in your paper complaining of inadequate mail facilities in North Carolina, respecting which I wish to say that at no early day it is my purpose to make a permanent improvement of the same, and to increase the power of the Railway Mail Service, it is our desire and intention to create every dispatch that train schedules will permit of, and relying upon the co-operation of the railway management in North Carolina, it is believed we shall be enabled to remedy whatever occasion for complaint now exists.

J. LOWRIE BELL, General Superintendent.

Capt. J. M. White of Kinston arrived last night. Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Koonce of Jones county are in the city.

The City Election.
The election of city councilmen in this city passed off very quietly yesterday. In the first, second and third wards there was no opposition to the regular nominees of the Democratic party, indeed there was no effort to bring out any that we are aware of, and on this account the vote was light.

In the first ward R. F. Williams received 77 votes; in the second Ferdinand Ulrick received 68 votes, and in the third B. B. Lane received 71 votes.

In the fourth ward V. A. Crawford and W. W. Lawrence, both colored, both claiming to be the regular Republican nominees, were the contestants. Crawford received 77 votes and Lawrence 49. Crawford has been a member of the board for many years, and still holds the fort.

In the fifth ward H. F. Kennedy, col., was the regular Republican nominee. H. H. Simmons, col., was placed against him. Kennedy received 153 votes, and Simmons 107. Simmons was a Democratic supporter in the fourth and fifth wards.

INCORRECT HISTORY.

The Goldsboro Argus publishes a paper, read by Miss Borden, a little girl of the Goldsboro graded school, which is very creditable, the Argus says, for one so young, but in it is a serious blunder, which the teachers of the school ought to have corrected. The subject of the paper was the "Marrimac and the Monitor," and under this caption an account of the fight between the Confederate ram "The Virginia," and the Federal iron-clad "The Monitor," which occurred in Hampton Roads in March, 1862 is given.

We know it is custom among those who were upon the stage of action at that time and knew the history of these two iron-clads to speak of "The Virginia" as "The Merrimac," but teachers of history should teach it correctly. Our children ought to know the right name of the first iron war ship ever brought into action.

Richard H. Hilton.

There has seldom occurred in this city a death so universally regretted as that of Richard H. Hilton at his home on Pollock street yesterday morning.

Mr. Hilton has lived in this city about twenty-five years, and a large part of the time has served as engineer to the steam fire engine of the company of which he was a member. How faithfully he has discharged the duties of that arduous position is known not only by his brother firemen, but by the whole community. In every relation of life he was punctual in the discharge of whatever duties devolved upon him.

Energetic, intelligent and quick in perception, his usefulness in various enterprises was always appreciated and acknowledged. He was twice married and leaves a widow and a little boy who today are the recipients of the universal sympathy of our citizens.

His first marriage was to a daughter of the late Sam. Radloff, who with one child preceded him to the other world. The second was to Miss Cairns of Baltimore, who, as we stated above, with her little boy survives him.

For a number of years the deceased was a communicant of the Protestant Episcopal church, and a most reverent and regular attendant upon its services. He was an active and valued member of the brotherhood of St. Andrew, and in all parochial works was ever ready willing and capable to do a full share. His place will be difficult to fill in this community. But the sorrowing friends may not weep as those who have no hope, for he departed from them in the possession of a reasonable, religious and holy hope of an eternal rest beyond the grave.

Shipping News.

The steamer Annie of the E. C. D. line sailed yesterday with full cargo of truck, lumber, etc. The Eagle of this line will sail this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The steamer Tahoma will arrive this afternoon.

The steamer Mantoo of the O. D. line sailed yesterday, taking out a good quantity of truck and a number of passengers.

Stonewall Items.

Lee Thompson, of Aurora, was in Bayboro yesterday paying the gallant to one of Bayboro's belles—not a blue bell either.

The weather is cool for the season; a slight frost on loose land yesterday morning but not enough to kill vegetables. Cotton seed has hard time germinating, and that is up is looking quite feeble. Corn seems to stand the cold and wet much better and looks quite promising.

Died on the 5th inst., at his residence on Lower Broad creek, of heart disease, Geo. H. Paul, a good citizen and a good soldier. He belonged to Co. D, 4th N. C. troops and he was as good a soldier as the best of his kind. He leaves a wife and several children with a host of friends to mourn his loss.

It is hard to decide between the happiness of Sam. Campen, John Hooker and James O. Ormond, but the writer thinks Johnny Hooker takes the cake as it is his first, a fine little girl baby on the 4th inst.; a boy at Jas. O. Ormond's on the same date, and a boy at Sam. Campen's a short while before, so Sam's continues to enjoy.

Man Wants a Tonic.
When there is a lack of elastic energy in the system, shown by a sensation of languor and unrest in the morning, frequent yawning during the day and disturbed sleep at night, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters induces unwelcome energy into the careworn and nervous, enabling them with muscular energy, an ability to repose healthfully, and digest without inconvenience. Nervousness, headache, biliousness, indigestion, and a feeble, tremulous stomach, are all and speedily are right by this marvelous regulator and invigorant. The mineral springs among them are tonic, even in individual cases. The Bitters corrects the purpose of each individually, and can be relied upon to keep you safe by the most perfect means.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

From the State Papers.

Wilmington Messenger: Messrs. J. S. Carr and Harry Walters have each agreed to give $300 to the Soldiers' Home.—Major C. M. Stodman, while in New York, was honored in being one of the two or three North Carolinians present at the grand centennial banquet.

Raleigh News and Observer: An announced, the argument of the motion to enjoin the holding of a local option election by the board of commissioners of Wake county on the second Monday in June was heard yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at chambers before his Honor Judge Graves. Judge Graves ruled that the county commissioners had acted with care and prudence, and that he would therefore dissolve the restraining order.

Charlotte Daily News: A handsome and shapely flag staff, 40 feet high and surmounted by a gilded eagle with outspread wings, was erected over the mint building today, to take the place of the staff blown down in a recent storm.—There was a destructive fire in Shelby last night, as we learn from passengers who came in on the Carolina Central train this morning. The fire destroyed the buildings occupied by the Southern Express Company; J. B. Babington, stationer and printer; and Boston Bros. & Wright, general merchants. The origin of the fire is believed to have been incendiary.

Wilmington Star: The congregation of Fifth Street M. E. Church has completed arrangements looking to the erection of a new and more commodious house of worship. Through the generosity of Mr. Jno. C. Davis, an earnest and indefatigable member of this congregation, Fifth Street Church has been made the owner of valuable real estate to the amount of $8,000, which will bring an annual income to the church of about $1,400.—Isaac Morgan, a colored boy about fourteen years old, was knocked overboard and drowned yesterday morning, from the small schooner Argyle, Capt. John Morgan, about a mile below the city.

In Memoriam.

With the passing away of Richard H. Hilton, so well and fondly known by all classes and conditions as "genial Dick," I feel it due, as one who knew and loved him well, to pay a slight tribute to his memory.

In his modest and unassuming way there has been no man in New Berne for the past quarter of a century as useful or public spirited, or who so thoroughly filled his station in life or the duties assigned.

"The merriest of them all," with quip and jest and gracious bonhomie, he was the life of the social circle or festive gathering, and yet without in time of sickness or misfortune, he was as a ministering angel, filled with grave earnestness and gentle solicitude; a rare combination of the "grave and gay" with each characteristic timely and suitably displayed.

To the casual acquaintance he was ever a welcome and appreciated companion, but to those that knew and loved him, he was the dearest of all they knew. My acquaintance and knowledge of the man was of the most intimate character, and my affections stronger than a brother, typified only by that of David and Jonathan, for it was mutual.

Among a wide and appreciated circle of friends I do them no injustice when I say that, take him all in all, Dick Hilton was the best man I ever knew, and his sudden taking off produces in me the most profound sorrow and keenest regret.

It is needless to say that his sorrowing widow has the warmest sympathy of the community, as her husband's death is in a measure a public as well as a private loss and misfortune. May the gods rest lightly above genial Dick.

JAMES W. MOORE.
