Wilmington Review: The corner stone of the monument erected at Moore's Creek to commemorate the battle of that name was held on Friday, February 25th, 1857. There were present a large crowd from this city and the Cape Fear section.

Asheville Journal: As a matter of 'conscience" the Democrats of Asheville, somehow or other, felt in honor bound to elect Democrats instead of Re publicans. - We are pleased to learn from parties from the various sections of the county today that there is still a good deal of fruit not injured by the recent frost.

Wilmington Messenger: Gov. Vance in his recent oration delivered on the battlefield of Guilford Court House, deploring our extreme indifference in the and Moore's Creek are yet without a stone," This statement, as to Moore's Creek at least, is incorrect. A modest monument, erected long ago, marks the site of that battlefield, and commemorates the death of John Grady and the deeds of the men who fought so brave ly on that February day, 1776.

Raleigh Call: The cotton factory meeting is set for Thursday night Some men outside the city who cannot read or write have taken as much as $1,000 of stock. Will Raleigh's intelligent and progressive capitalists be outdone? - Secretary Harrell reports that the Teacher's Assembly is on a bigger boom than ever before. Every mail brings numerous applications for mem-bership with notice of intention to go to Morehead. At least two thousand people will attend the session of the Assembly there this summer.
