NO MORE SECOND TERMS.

Senator Washburn has said, "A very prominent gentleman in this city, who has himself been a candidate for President, said to me this morning, that he did not believe another President would be renominated and re-elected for the next hundred years. The incumbent of the office of President would be so handicapped with old promises which he had not been able to keep that it would be dangerous to think of renominating him. I am inclined to think he is right. The tendency of the times is against renominating Presidents. Mr. Harrison should make up his mind to retire at the end of his four years."

Perhaps there is truth in all this, but we confess we are not able to see it. It is not sustained by history, and public sentiment has not been sufficiently expressed to justify an opinion in regard to it.

Of Republican Presidents it may be said that it has not been practicable to renominate any one of them since the close of Gen. Grant's administration. Mr. Hayes was never the choice of the Republican party. His nomination was an accident. A pigmy was nominated while the giants were at war, and his administration represented no party and pleased nobody. Mr. Garfield died soon after entering upon the duties of the Presidential office, and Mr. Arthur became President. Mr. Arthur failed to secure a second term, but it must be remembered that he was never nominated for President, and only received the nomination for Vice-President on the ticket with Garfield because he was a popular citizen of the State of New York.

The Democrats have had but one President in more than a quarter of a century, and he was renominated for a second term. We do not believe that the renomination of Mr. Cleveland was a mistake on the part of the National Democracy. He was the ablest exponent of Democracy on this continent, and his candidacy was indorsed at the ballot box by a majority of the American people.

The position of Senator Washburn is discreditable to the people of these States, in as much as it represents them as incapable of rising to the level of great questions of national policy. The number of office-seekers in this country is immense, but it is impossible to believe that there is always to be enough disappointed office-seekers to control the politics of the country, manipulate political conventions and place their interdiction on the will of the people.

We believe that there is now, and ever will be, in the American people, a genuine appreciation of public services, which will have its manifestation whenever pending political issues are intimately associated with those services.

It will not surprise us at all if Gen. Harrison and Mr. Cleveland are the opposing candidates in 1892.

Election of Fish Commission of Onslow County.

According to our oyster laws it is the duty of our magistrates to elect on the first Monday in June a fish commission for Onslow county. Now while the infant industry sleeps, awaiting helplessly the laying of the iron rails of transportation, comes the season of danger. In consequence he should be guarded at this critical time with greater vigilance, lest in his helplessness selfish, designing men do him irreparable damage.

If he be kept safe just now, soon active, intelligent men will help him to his feet and he will walk and be safe.

The danger lies as always, in avaricious men wanting something which they better not have.

Should a change of the old commissioner be demanded by the magistrates, let them look well that good, zealous men be elected who will vigorously execute the laws, and whose definition of an oyster rock comports with the the judgment of the people.

The old fish commission has done much faithful work, for which on account of circumstances beyond their control they have received nothing. By electing new men at this time, the old ones may lose the pay due them for their faithful services already rendered, which seems to be unfair, and our people are not unfair if they know it.

A ZEALOUS FRIEND.

Monopoly and Christianity.

In the Forum for June, the Rev. Dr. William Barry constructs an argument to show the essentially unchristian methods of distributing and holding wealth, and predicts an economic revolution proceeding peacefully from the Christian standard of justice. The ordinary monopolist, he describes as one who is convinced that, on the side of those that have, among whom he has gained a footing, there stands not only legal justice, represented by parchment and red tape, but also the nature of things, or what the late Mr. Matthew Arnold would term "reason and the will of God." The Highest Powers, he thinks, are with him. The inheritance of mankind from past ages—the arts, literature, sciences, distinction of manners, individual freedom—all, all, he cries out, repose on the practically unlimited right of private property as their sure foundation. But, Mr. Barry adds, if that alone is civilization which brings out the ethical, the human aspects of life. "I do not hesitate to say that the manner in which wealth is now made, and the conditions under which it is divided, are among the least civilized that could well be dreamt of. The decencies of life, the glory of intellectual discovery, the progress of religion—what do these owe to the custom whereby a man goes on doubling his income every two or three years, while his wage-earning slaves become more and more dependent on him, more and more defenceless against him, the richer he grows."

IS CONSUMPTION INCURABLE?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made.

Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at H. H. Duffy's Wholesale and Retail Drug Store, New Berne, N. C. 50 per bottle.

Sill by a Catastrophe.

The owner of a plane on Second avenue stood in his barn door on the alley the other day when a man with a wooden leg and a crutch came along and passed the time o' day and finally said:

"Say, I want you to do me a favor. I want to leave my leg with you for a few minutes."

"Why?"

"I want to go around on Second avenue and work a house for half a dollar in money. I've got a pointer that the folks are very sympathetic. If I go with one leg I'm sure of it."

"Very well; just leave your leg here and I'll take care of it."

The wooden substitute was unstrapped and handed over, and the cripple used the crutch to help himself down the alley. Five minutes later he rang the door bell of a house around the avenue, to have it opened by the man he had seen at the barn.

"W—who—what?" he gasped in astonishment.

"Very sympathetic family lives here!" quietly replied the other. "You seem to have met with a sad loss, and I'm anxious to help you. Here is a wooden leg which may fit you."

The leg was handed over, the man sat down on the steps and strapped it on, and as he got up and stumped through the gate, he said to himself:

"I've heard of coincidences ever since I was knee-high to hop toad, but this is the first one that ever hit me with both feet to once!"

A True Tonic.

When you don't feel well and hardly know what ails you, give B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) a trial. It is a fine tonic.

T. O. Callahan, Charlotte, N. C., writes: "B. B. B. is a fine tonic, and has done me great good."

L. W. Thompson, Damascus, Ga., writes; "I believe B. B. B. is the best blood purifier made. It has greatly improved my general health."

An old gentleman writes: "B. B. B. gives me new life and new strength. If there is anything that will make an old man young, it is B. B. B."

P. A. Shepherd, Norfolk, Va., August 10th, 1888, writes: "I depend on B. B. B. for the preservation of my health. I have had it in my family now nearly two years, and in all that time have not had to have a doctor."

Thos. Panik, Alapaha, Ga., writes: "I suffered terribly from dyspepsia. The use of B. B. B. has made me feel like a new man. I would not take a thousand dollars for the good it has done me."

W. M. Cheshire, Atlanta, Ga. writes: "I had a long spell of typhoid fever, which at last seemed to settle in my right leg, which swelled up enormously. An ulcer also appeared which discharged a cup full of matter a day. I then gave B. B. B. a trial and it cured me."
