It is hard to say what amount of demonstrated unfitness will bring about the removal of Commissioner Tanner from office, for the reason that it was not at all on the score of fitness that he was put in; but there is a strong feeling, even in Republican quarters, that the public forbearance in his case is nearly exhausted.—Boston Herald.

race. Mr. Parnell is more emphatically than ever "the man on horse-back."
SUGAR and ice, the leading articles necessary to what is considered comfortable existence during the Summer months, are both pushed up in price by those who control the market, so as to increase the cost of living very greatly. The people go on using them, however. Just the same—those who can raise the money or get the credit. The way to break the price is to decrease the demand. Get along with less of both—it can be done with a little less indulgence and with a benefit to health.—Norfolk Landmark.
We congratulate the people of Raleigh, President Crowell, the trustees and the Methodists of North Carolina upon the vote to accept the offer of Raleigh to Trinity College, and the certain removal of that institution to the pretty capital town. It was well done. We can have no doubt of the wisdom and practical sagacity of the removal. It ought to be the signal of fresh efforts all along the line to endow it liberally, and to fill its rooms and halls with eager young men in quest of knowledge. If the Methodists do not endow it with a free and generous hand it will be to their shame and condemnation. If proper steps are taken to reach the 115,000 white Methodists in North Carolina the endowment will be perfected.—Wilmington Messenger.

Another Monument Needed.
The stockholders of the N. C. R. in their recent annual meeting passed a resolution to erect a monument to Calvin Graves. From the News and Observer we get the following as the full text of the resolution:
On motion of D. W. C. Benbow, it was resolved to erect a monument to Calvin Graves, who, as Speaker of the Senate, gave the casting vote in the North Carolina Senate in 1849 to build the railroad, there having been a tie in that body.
The resolution, it strikes us, is a very proper one, and the stockholders should at once bestir themselves and have the monument erected.
But another monument should be erected. Calvin Graves, Dr. Caldwell, Governor Dudley, Governor Morehead, and many other contemporaneous patriots, were true North Carolinians, full of State pride and anxious to put their native State on a plane of progress and development equal to that of any of her sister States. Their idea was that a continuous line of railway from the sea coast to the mountains with lateral lines as feeders would develop the State from one end to the other; the surplus products would find an outlet at our seaports and large cities would spring up in consequence thereof; the fish, oysters, clams, sweet potatoes and corn of the East could be sent throughout the State, and the fine fruit, tobacco, flour and other products of the West and centre could find a ready market on the sea coast. Such were the ideas of the old patriots whom we have mentioned.
But since the war between the States, new patriots have grown up and with them new ideas. And the resolution quoted above suggests to us that it would be right and proper for the business men of Richmond, Norfolk, West Point and Portsmouth to assemble and do something like the following:
Whereas, in years gone by there lived in the strip of land known as North Carolina certain old fogies, such as Calvin Graves, Caldwell, Dudley, Morehead, Graham and others, who entertained the foolish idea that they could build up great seaport towns and make a great State out of this strip of land;
And whereas, certain wise men came along afterwards and saw the silly notions of these old fogies, and they resolved to bury the idea of making a grand commercial State with large seaport cities out of this strip of land, and said patriots did go to work and out the main artery of this strip of land and turned it towards our cities and emptied the products of a large portion of this strip of land into our laps, and the fine ports of this strip of land have been left to continue their fishing and crabbing and oystering to their heart's content. Now, therefore,
Resolved, that, we the citizens of Richmond, Norfolk and other Virginia towns, will erect a monument to the memory of these wise men who so effectually buried the hopes of the old fogies that preceded them, and poured their wealth into our laps.
The presamble and resolution ought to pass unanimously.

Street Beggars.
The number of street beggars in the city of New Berne is a serious reflection upon our county authorities whose duty it is to provide for the poor. A stranger coming here and coming in contact with these will be bound to come to the conclusion that the authorities are doing nothing for the poor and that they are left entirely to shift for themselves.
We believe the county commissioners are doing all they can with the funds at their command, and in addition to this the churches have their benevolent societies and look closely after the worthy poor. That one should have to go about the streets begging a subsistence is a reflection upon the generosity of our people, our churches and the fidelity of the civil authorities.
No one is more anxious about the poor than the JOURNAL. One is never turned from its doors, if known to be worthy, without something, but we do not believe giving to individuals who make their business to tramp the streets and beg is the proper way to care for the poor. If the civil authorities and the churches do their duty there is no necessity for such begging and steps ought to be taken to stop it.
Writ Granted.
Judge Brown passed through the city yesterday and upon application of L. J. Moore Esq., counsel for Calvin Simmons, who is now in jail in Jones county for engaging in a riot at Trontun some time since, granted a writ of habeas corpus directed to the sheriff of Jones county requiring him to produce the body of said Simmons before him, at Morehead City on the 18th of July. Solicitor Allen was notified to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Whitty are spending a few days at Morehead City.
Lieut Winslow of the Pamlico Oyster Company, arrived on the steamer Gertrude May yesterday.
Mr. J. M. Spencer, of Ocracoke hotel is in the city.
The Agricultural College.
We glean the following item from the News and Observer of Saturday last:
Gov. Jarvis declined the presidency of the college, but up till the latest reports last night a president had not been elected.
The following were the officers elected yesterday:
Chair of Agriculture, J. R. Chamberlain.
Chair of Arboriculture and Horticulture, W. F. Massey.
Chair of Pure and Agricultural Chemistry, W. A. Withers.
Chair of English, D. H. Hill, Jr.
Superintendent of the Farm, B. S. Skinner.
There was much interest on the streets last night concerning the election.
Mayor's Court.
Quite a number of cases were before the court yesterday morning.
John Peterson col., was the first called and was charged with throwing missiles. After hearing the testimony the case was dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.
Willie Kelly, Fanny Daniels and Mary Henderson, all colored, were up for disorderly conduct. Cases dismissed after hearing testimony.
Hetty Wallace col., failing to comply with ordinance in regard to back yards was discharged upon payment of cost.
D. Congdon, failing to comply with ordinance in regard to back yards was dismissed upon payment of cost.
Martha Saunders col., was adjudged guilty of disorderly conduct and required to put in thirty days on the streets and pay the cost.
A Fearful Whirlwind.
Mr. Silas Fulcher returned yesterday morning from a visit to Little Swift creek and reports that a terrible whirlwind passed through that section last Saturday evening.
It struck the plantation of Allen Dickson col., unroofed one or two out houses, stables, sheds &c and blew one of his children thirty feet injuring it severely. Dickson himself ran out and was tossed about considerably. He says the whole element seemed to be full of flying rails and limbs from trees and that his fences were blown down, even the bottom rails being moved. There were slight damages to other plantations but the whirlwind seems to have struck Dickson's place with its greatest force.

Ocracoke.
Mr. Jas. M. Spencer, one of the proprietors of the hotel at Ocracoke, came up yesterday. The hotel is now fully open for the summer and about forty regular boarders are already there. A tram-way has been built from the hotel to the beach and the car which takes boarders to the surf is drawn by horses. The proprietors have taken the precaution to prepare life lines as a safeguard to surf bathers, a precaution which ought to be taken at every watering place.
The building of a good hotel and putting it in good hands has made Ocracoke a delightful summer resort. The mullets caught there are the finest on the Atlantic coast. For real rest and enjoyment no place excels Ocracoke. Mr. Spencer informs us that a large crowd is expected the latter part of the week, among them Governor Jarvis and Hon. L. C. Latham are expected.
The steamer Tahoms leaves New Berne every Thursday morning for Ocracoke and the trip is a delightful one.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.
From the State Papers.
Oxford Ledger: Farmers report the crops not so badly damaged as was at first supposed.
Hookerton Clipper: The wheat and oat crop is almost a complete failure. The wet weather caused it to sprout in the shock.
News and Observer: The damage done by the late hail storm in one township of Rowan county is computed by an Alliance committee who made a personal inspection, at $6,283.
Staley Observer: Mr. Claud Shankle showed us on Wednesday 11 small nuggets of gold, about $80 in value, taken from his mine near town. The precious ore looks quite tempting.
Twin City Daily: Sixty-one gentlemen in Winston-Salem have signed a list, agreeing to assume jointly the necessary expense for holding the Fair here in August. Others have expressed a willingness to help bear the expenses, and will do so when called upon.
Murphy Bulletin: The project that is now being inaugurated to construct a railroad from this place up Hiwassee river is of great importance to the citizens of Murphy and Cherokee county, as well as of incalculable advantage to the citizens along the entire line of road.
Concord Times: One of our popular citizens has a habit of sometimes waking in his sleep. One night last week he somnambulated habit seized upon him and although his averdupsia is above 300 pounds, he deliberately went out at a six light 12x14 raised window without a scratch. His not having a night key gave this little feat away.
Goldboro Argus: Already some of the soldier boys are coming back from the encampment. A number passed through here yesterday homeward bound. The general impression is that it is not comfortable at Wrightsville. The encampment should be changed to Morehead.—Sad indeed are the reports of the farmers from along the river flats who have had their lands overflowed by the recent freshet and cotton and corn flooded and drowned. The general report, however, from the country at large is to the effect that, after all the rain, crops are prospering and will yield well with favorable seasons henceforth till harvest time.
Newton Enterprise: The first sound heard when rising in the morning and the last thing about dark is the buzz of some threshing machine. They are putting wheat through in a hurry.—All the wheat that stood in the fields during the rain has been hauled in, and the damage is not anything like as heavy as many thought it would be. Only the caps to the shocks were found to be materially hurt.—Three of the Homing pigeons which Mr. Terrell turned loose last week were too well pleased with Newton to go back to Brooklyn. They flew around town awhile and then went into the depot and were put back in the cage. One of them has laid two eggs and is now setting.
