MRS. HARRISON displays a nervous dread of reporters.

THE British and French governments are greatly increasing their navies.

SWORDFISH sell in the Boston, Mass., fish market at 11 cents a pound.

A SEA lion has been captured in a Wisconsin lake. It had escaped from a circus.

JEFFERSON DAVIS is now eighty one years old. He bears his silver crown as becomes natures nobleman.

ALL this talk about Tanner having to go is idle gossip. Shakespeare says "a Tanner, now, will last you nine years."

THE act of swimming furnishes an exception to the rule that kicking operates against a man's getting along in this world.

THERE were 964 deaths in New York last week, the death rate being about 32 to a thousand in an estimated population of 1,573,935.

NEW YORK city has within its gates a small army of millionaires. Let these gentlemen vie with each other in promoting the great exposition of 1892.

THE Raleigh Chronicle mentioned the singular fact that prosecuting J. W. Thompson and the prosecuted Dr. Grissom are Masters of the two Masonic Lodges in that city. Very curious.

A CHICAGO paper says that "gentlemen do not sit down to their meals in their shirt." It is a queer freak of etiquette that compels a gentleman to remove his shirt before sitting down to his meals, and it is doubtful if the fashion obtains outside of Chicago.

A SEVERE party struggle is in prospect in the English House of Commons over the proposition to increase the allowance to the royal family, a demand having been made for a grant to Princess Louise on the occasion of her marriage to the Earl of Fitz-Wilkinson Star.

It is said that when Emperor William visits London shortly he will go incognito. He ought to. The young man's dislike of his English mother and his desire to be rid of the English blood in his veins ought to make him somewhat unpopular in England. When he goes to London he should wear a long ulster and ride in a growler. N. Y. World.

It is an Ohio man who now makes a curious discovery. He says if you go out to feed a flock of chickens and keep them waiting, they will not flock about you, and then begin a circuit around you from right to left, and that no amount of interruption or maneuvering will confuse or turn them in another direction. The hen is an inexhaustible source of studios contemplation.

WE are disposed to give the colored people, or any colored person, full credit for whatever they accomplish. In this spirit we note that "a negro named Taylor Benton at Camden S. C., has invented a cotton chopper that is said to be pronounced a success. He has sold a share in his patent for $20,000. He has also invented a self-pumping machine."

LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

The Good Samaritans are in session in this city. The Manteo brought over a good crowd of colored people from Washington to attend the session.

W. E. Clarke, Esq., took charge of the postoffice yesterday. Mr. Horace Baxter, the efficient money order clerk under Capt. Manly, will remain with him for awhile.

We were shown a sprig of a cotton stalk from Mr. Geo. Allen's farm near the city yesterday on which was a half grown boll of cotton, a smaller boll and a bloom. The sprig was about eight inches long.

The steamer Manteo has returned with her summer dress on. This "hotel afloat" is now prepared to give passengers a delightful trip through the sounds of North Carolina. New carpets, new sky lights, new furniture and Southgate in command, makes the Manteo the rival of any summer resort hotel. If you want a pleasant summer trip go with him to Norfolk and return.

A Genius. We were shown yesterday a map of the United States drawn by Master Jack Shinn, son of Major Shinn of the land office in Washington, D. C., and a grand son of the late S. R. Street, Master Shinn was but thirteen years old when he drew this map, yet it would do credit to the best civil engineers or surveyors. He is undoubtedly a genius in that line.

Special Train. The A. & N. C. R. will run a special train to Morehead City on Sunday next, leaving New Bern at 8:40 a.m., and return Sunday night. Fare only $1.00 for the round trip when tickets are purchased.

Parties from Morehead say the breeze is just delightful, and the enjoyment of guests is at the highest pitch. Senator Vance, Governor Jarvis and other distinguished guests are at the Atlantic Hotel, and others are arriving daily.

Warning to Boys. Mayor Williams had the names yesterday of a number of small boys who made a raid on Rev. Mr. Crawford's garden on Tuesday evening, badly damaging the pear trees therein. Owing to the tender years of the boys and knowing that their mothers would administer the proper corrective, the mayor refused to report their names as being before the courts. But boys must remember that there is a great deal of evil in an apple.

New Bern High School. Prof. G. T. Adams left for his home in Cumberland county yesterday morning and will return about the middle of August and begin preparations to open school in the new school building on the academy green on the first Monday in September.

The more we have seen of Mr. Adams the more we are convinced that the trustees made no mistake in selecting him as principal of the High School. He will select his own assistants and will use every effort to build up such a school as New Bern needs. The people of this city ought to rally to his support and make one united effort to put our city where it belongs in the line of education.

Mayor's Court. Ellis Haywood, colored, charged with violating chapter 5 section 3 of ordinances, was adjudged not guilty.

Virginia Fleming, colored, was found guilty of violating chapter 5 section 3 of ordinances and was discharged upon payment of cost.

O. Erdmann, John Dinkins and E. Whitman each submitted to the charge of violating the ordinance in regard to selling on Sunday. They were each fined $5.00, the full limit, and cost.

J. W. Harrell, colored, was charged with violating the Sunday law in regard to selling. Case continued for the defendant.

Shipping News.

The steamer Eaglet of the B. C. D. line sailed yesterday with truck and lumber. The Anne for this line will arrive this morning.

The Tahoma will sail this morning immediately after the arrival of the train from Morehead City.

The steamer De fiance of the Clyde line arrived Wednesday morning from Baltimore with a cargo of general merchandise and sailed on return trip last night with a cargo of shingles and naval stores.

The Manteo of the O. D. line arrived yesterday morning from Norfolk and will leave on return trip Friday at 12 m.

Personal. Mrs. A. J. Scarborough and Miss Etta Nunn left yesterday morning for Warsaw on a visit to relatives and friends. Mrs. D. T. Caraway and daughter, Miss Eleanor, left yesterday morning for Black mountain where they will spend the summer.

Rev. L. W. Crawford and family are at Morehead City for the summer.

Mr. T. A. Green and family are at Morehead City for the summer.

Mrs. Capt. Hand and children left on the steamer Newberne on Tuesday for a trip North.

Mrs. Hoyt and daughter Miss Bettie, who have been visiting Mr. Enoch Wadsworth's family, left for their homes in New York per steamer Newberne on Tuesday.

Ex-Sheriff Hahn returned on the steamer Manteo from a trip North yesterday morning.

Mrs. Shinn and children of Washington, D. C. arrived on the steamer Manteo yesterday morning on a visit to relatives and friends.

Mrs. Capt. Theo. Gates and Mrs. Joe K. Willis and children are visiting relatives at Fort Barnwell.

A Doctor's Experience in Three Countries.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—The above is the title of a book, loaned me by a lady of this city, written by Doctor Edward Warren, who was Surgeon General of the State in the late war, and is now a practicing physician in the city of Paris. It is an autobiography of a very eventful and successful life. It is, in his own words, "a history of the transformation of a country doctor into a professor, a Surgeon General and Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and the transformation of the scene of his labors from the swamps of Carolina to the shores of the Chesapeake, the borders of the Nile, and the quarters of the Seine."

The author is a man of high order of talents, great industry, and at an early age had won a distinction in his profession not confined to this country, but is now one of the distinguished medical men of Europe. He is a fine writer, his style is forcible, clear and exceedingly graceful. Every incident of his eventful life is well told; he carries the reader along with him, and so interesting is he that one can almost see with his eyes, and hear with his ears. As a fair specimen of his graceful style of writing I copy what he says in one place of Senator Vance. I think your readers will be pleased with it, as everybody likes Senator Vance and appreciates his great abilities.

JONATHAN HAYENS.

ZEBULON B. VANCE.

In my judgment no nobler man than Zebulon Baird Vance was ever created—with an inherent kindness of heart which tempers and softens his entire nature; a respect for justice and right which asserts itself under all possible circumstances; a sense of the ridiculous from which wells out a stream of humor at once copious, sparkling and exhaustless, and an intellect which like some great oak of the forest is at once "a tower of strength" and "a thing of beauty forever," now braving the hurricane's breath and the lightning's flash, and then adorning the landscape by its grandeur, its symmetry and its verdure.

I have analyzed his heart from core to covering, and I know that in its every cell and fiber it is of the purest gold without the trace of alloy or a taint of counterfeit. Among the most pleasant incidents of my service as a member of the Governor's staff, was a visit I made with him to the Army of Northern Virginia in the winter of 1863. He was then a candidate for re-election to the gubernatorial chair, having filled it for one term with great éclat, but being opposed by a certain faction at home, which proclaimed itself for "Peace and Reconstruction" on any terms. This appeal, it was feared, had produced some impression upon the minds of the soldiers in the field, and though the ostensible object of his visit was the advancement of his political interests, its real purpose was to rekindle the fires of patriotism in the hearts of the North Carolina troops, and to cheer and stimulate the entire army. I had supposed that I knew him thoroughly and appreciated him fully, but I had really no conception of his gifts as an orator and of the potency of his personal magnetism until this memorable occasion.

Inspired alike by his peculiar surroundings and the importance of his mission, he transcended himself and produced an impression upon the army from its great captains to the humblest private—which displayed itself in the wildest enthusiasm for the cause and the most intense idolatry for its eloquent advocate. That he should have been thus inspired is not surprising, for the circumstances which surrounded him would have stirred the heart of any man. General Lee ordered a "general review" in his special honor, an incident I believe without parallel in the history of the army.

Upon an immense plain in the neighborhood of Orange Court House there were assembled the troops which composed the then unconquered army of Northern Virginia. They were clad in rags but wreathed in victory; their flags were soiled and tattered, but upon them were inscribed the immortal names of Coal Harbor, Manassas and South Mountain.

Though many a gallant leader was absent because "off duty" forever, Jackson, Longstreet, Stuart, Early, Ewell, Hill, Rhodes, Gordon, Pettigrew, Hampton and Fitzhugh Lee, were there to do honor to Carolina's illustrious son. Arrayed in two confronting lines and with their bronzed faces beaming with pleasure and expectancy, the noble veterans awaited the coming of the old chieftain whom they had followed in triumph so long, and of the youthful Governor whose devotion to the cause and tender care of his own troops had already made him the idol of them all. Finally the cannons boomed and General Lee and Governor Vance appeared, and amid a storm of enthusiastic cheers, and an avalanche of friendly greetings, rode slowly along the excited lines. It was a stirring scene, and as I rode with this distinguished company and gazed into the battered but radiant faces around me and listened to the grand "Confederate yell" with which they hailed their great commander and his honored guest, I felt that it was indeed an occasion to be remembered and realized that I stood in the presence of heroes and conquerors—the men who have made history, and had earned even from their enemies the reputation of being "the bravest soldiers who ever marched to the music of battle."

That day was truly a proud one for North Carolina and for her gifted son. A more appropriate, effective and eloquent address was never uttered by human lips. Under the influence of his rich and varied imagery, his happy and graphic illustrations, his masterly grasp and inner meaning, his trenchant thrusts, and touching allusions, his stirring appeals and deep pathos, and in a word his magnificent and resistless eloquence, the audience was stirred, enraptured and carried away as if by the spell of a magician. Not a man who heard that impassioned outburst of patriotic inspiration would have hesitated to die for his country; and I am convinced that in many an hour of supreme peril afterwards, it rang like a trumpet's tone through the souls of those who heard it, inspiring them to a higher courage, a nobler effort, a purer patriotism and more heroic martyrdom for the cause which they loved so well.

I heard General Lee remark that Governor Vance's visit to the army had been equivalent to its reinforcement by 50,000 men and it sowed the seed of friendship between those two true-hearted patriots which justified even amid the dark days preceding the surrender and grew and strengthened long after the land which they served so well, had drained the cup of sorrow to the dregs. It was then that he made classic the term "tar heel" which others had hitherto applied in derision to the North Carolina soldiers, by addressing them as "fellow tar heels" and demonstrating that the Subripinet was but a synonym of that tenacious courage which made them stick to their posts in the hour of danger upon so many hard fought fields to their own imperishable honor and to the eternal glory of the mother State. And even afterward, during the war and up to the present moment, the most subtle compliment that can be paid to a North Carolinian who followed the banner of the Confederacy in all of its vicissitudes of fortune until it was furled at Appomattox, is to call him by that homely but blood-baptized appellation of "tar heel."

PROGRESS.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities Syrup of Figa is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

Fort Barnwell Items.

Crops in this section are looking somewhat better. The protracted meeting will begin here soon. I hear the pigs and chickens, I am sure that is a true sign.

Miss M. W. Smith who has been teaching school here, returned to her home in Pitt county last week.

Mr. Sam Biddle has returned from Charlotte to spend his vacation at home. Sam is a model young man. We anticipate a bright future for him.

Mr. R. Powell, formerly of Nebraska, is conducting a singing school at this place. They are getting on fine. He has about fifty pupils; hope he will have more soon.

There was an attempt made a few weeks ago to blow up our postoffice with powder. On Monday last Messrs. Carraway and Vickery, postoffice inspectors, were here to investigate the matter. There was some arrests made, but no evidence sufficient to convict parties accused.

What It Means.

To the man or woman who has never been ill the word "health" is meaningless. But to the one who has suffered and despaired, health appears as a priceless boon. To the thousands of unfortunate women who are suffering from some of the many forms of weakness or irregularities peculiar to their sex, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds forth the promise of a speedy restoration of this "priceless boon."

A POLICY OF INSURANCE IN THE

Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Comp'y of Hartford, Conn.

Is similar to a share of stock in some old-established Bank like the Chemical Bank of New York.

It pays annually dividends to its policy holders, which they can receive either in cash or in a reduction of their premiums.

Their policies are plain, simple and easily understood. No unjust restrictions or discriminations are made against any of its policy holders.

This Company has been in operation near fifty years, and has paid to its policy holders and their beneficiaries over $125,000,000.

Its record for fairness, justice, and liberality to its policy holders is unparalleled.
