NATIONAL EXPANSION.

The people of the United States are not only attached to the Contitution and the Union, but they are constantly looking forward to higher attainments, grander achievements and broader empire.

Four communities are now putting off their territorial garments and putting on the robes of indedent States. The conventions in the two Dakotas, Montana d Washington present anew to the nation and to the world the impressive process of State making in operation; the sublime spectacle of a soverign people, by its chosen degates, organizing for admison into the Union.

The acquisition of Canada is commanding the attention of statesmen to a degree unknown before. New England is rapidly approaching the period when she will demand it as essential to her prosperity and security. Even now an imaginary line separates them, and in social habits and commercial intercourse they are as one people.

Once it was said that this Republic could not bear greater ex-State places itself under the broad ensign of the Republic, Canada is in itself an empire. Rich in commercial wealth, and unsurused in the fertility of its soil, and the abundance of merchantstrengthen our already powerful

But we do not wish to be aggrespors upon the rights of a friendly power. If mutual interests impel to the union it will come without violence, and in accordance with the eternal fitness of things. England herself will then acquiesce in the wisdom that dictates, or the necessity that impels the separation.

Is the Sun Inhabited?

Sir David Brewster makes the following remarks relative to the sun: So strong has been the belief that the sun cannot be a habi table world, that a scientific gentleman was pronounced by his medical attendant insane because he had sent a paper to the Royal So-ciety in which he maintained that the light of the sun proceeded from a dense and universal aura, which may afford ample light to the inhabitants beneath, and yet be at such a distance aloft as not to be among them; that may be water and dry land there, hills and dales, white your attention to the same. rain and fair weather, and that as the light and the seasons must be eternal, the sun may easily be conceived to be by far the most bliss ive to burn the wart out.
