THERE is another big exodus being got up from North Carolina. They are to go to Statna further South. This is a mistake. They should distribute themselves through the North and Northwest. Let as many go as will, even to hundreds of thousands, but if they are wise they will not pile into the Southern States. The talk is that over 75,000 will go.--Wilmington Messenger.

An intense feeling of indignation prevails in Liverpool over the result of the Maybrick trial, and it was a difficult matter to restrain the people from attacking the judge's carriage when he left the court room; steps are being taken to stay the execution and get a new trial.--Wilmington Star.

THE Washington Post publishes a New York special, of Aug. 7, which says: J. J. Richardson, proprietor of the Davenport Democrat-Gazette, and representative on the Democratic national committee, has been in this city for a few days. He returned recently from a trip through Montana, which he says was not of a political character. He expresses himself, however, as pretty certain of Montana for the Democratic party in the next Presidential election. Of the outlook in the other new States he spoke guardedly, but said he saw no reason to suppose the chances were not good for Democratic organization and victory.

That Outside Aid.

From the Kinston Free Press of this week we get the following paragraph: We have heard it hinted that Mr. Washington Bryan's only hope to induce Governor Fowie to reappoint him President of the A. & N. C. R., is by representing to him the true condition of the road--its bad condition ("he didn't see how it could run another season without outside aid")--and then to persuade the Governor that the only way to secure "outside aid" is to appoint a man to suit Maj. Tucker. Of Raleigh, viz: Mr. Washington Bryan. We don't know whether some good business man could run the road another season without "outside aid" or not, but it certainly is true that it would be bad policy to reappoint the man who has brought the road into such a deplorable condition as to require "outside aid" to run another season for it is almost if not quite certain that the source of that "outside aid" would under the same management eventually get possession of the entire property by foreclosing the mortgage on it.

The above reason, viz: that a single stockholder who has purchased a few shares of stock at about one fifth of its face value is trying to control the management of the road, has sounded the alarm to the tax payers of Craven, Pamlico and Lenoir who hold two thousand shares of stock for which they have paid $200,000, exclusive of interest which would run the amount up to $500,000. The people who have paid for this stock and are still paying for it have and feel an interest in the matter, and therefore we have no apology to offer for continually referring to it in these columns.

It is no excuse for the reappointment of Mr. Bryan if he is unfit as a large majority of the people along the line of the road say he is, because Maj. Tucker will not advance more money unless his man is appointed President. To grant this right to Mr. Tucker would be to virtually turn the road and its management over to him. If he refuses to assist the road in obtaining money unless his man is appointed can't the road, if a competent man is put at its head, borrow money elsewhere? It is well known that the road is worth far more than the mortgage debt and if the mortgagee is dissatisfied with his investment, with the right man at the head of the road, money could be obtained at five per cent. interest and the six per cent. debt paid off.

The people along the line of the road protested against Gov. Scales' action in yielding to the Raleigh influence in the appointment of Mr. Bryan, and they will protest louder if he is continued under another Democratic administration. The foundation upon which Mr. Bryan's friends urged his reappointment has been knocked out by his own admission. He has made mistakes which shortened the receipts of the road, and now he says (or is charged with saying) and he has not denied it) he must have "outside aid" to run another year.

The people of the East do not believe Gov. Fowie will allow Maj. Tucker to coerce him in this matter. Maj. Tucker was Mr. Bryan's choice for Governor, or at least we are informed that Mr. Bryan wrote a communication to the Goldsboro Argus, which was not published, before the assembling of the State convention, urging the nomination of Maj. Tucker. It is a well settled fact that Mr. Bryan looks to the Raleigh influence for his appointment, and it is equally well settled that the people of the counties directly interested in the road expect the Governor to consider their rights.

The Young Men's Christian Association.

THE JOURNAL desires to work up more interest in the Young Men's Christian Association of New Berne.

The Association is now in its fourth year, but we doubt if that interest is manifested which characterized the first two years of its existence.

Why interest has decreased instead of increasing, we are not certain that we are prepared to answer, but will suggest that perhaps it is confined too much to religious teaching, thereby usurping the functions of churches. We are not sure that we are right in this but merely throw it out as a question to be considered by the Association, and to further suggest that it should be made more a place of pleasure; more attention should be given to the reading-room and to physical exercises. A good library is a blessing to any community.

Now why not aid the Association in extending its library by purchasing good books and subscribing to the leading magazines of the country. We do not mean that devotional exercises should be dispensed with, but that an effort should be made to create more interest in the departments we have suggested.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

From the State Papers.

The Tarboro Southerner reports three burglaries in one week in that town.

Wilmington Star: Rice planters along the Cape Fear are discouraged at the prospect of another freshet.

La Grange Sentinel: Mr. L. L. Herring, who is just from his old home in Duplin, says crops are almost washed away, receiving the most damage from the very heavy rain there Monday evening.

Elizabeth City Carolinian: A Chowan man came to town the other day with a cart load of saddles, and sold them at 40 cents each. He said he made them at odd spells and on rainy days. We'll warrant that he pays his debts and has some spare cash. Utilize the "old spells and rainy days."

Salisbury Herald: During the storm that visited this section Sunday evening, lightning struck the barn of Mr. Wm. Rainey, of Lentz, setting fire to the building, which was destroyed, together with his wagons and farming implements, and his entire crop of wheat. Two horses belonging to Mr. Rainey were also killed.

Eastern Reflector: Prof. Geo. T. Farnell of Wilmington has accepted a situation in Greenville Institute. He is highly recommended as a fine scholar, a gentleman of excellent Christian character, and a successful teacher of several years experience. He spent two years at Trinity College, and afterwards graduated at the University of Nashville, Tenn. He was Principal of Bayboro Academy last year.

Wilson Advance: Talking with several farmers in Selma Tuesday we were glad to hear them speak so cheerfully about the condition of crops in that section of Johnston county. The corn crop is all right, and so is cotton if it does not fair off too suddenly. They were of the opinion that the rains for the past two weeks had done more good than harm. The pea crop is fine, and the outlook is promising.

Greensboro North State: The knitting factory building is now ready for the machinery which has been purchased and is daily expected. This is an important enterprise and we shall be glad to see it in operation. The number of snows that fall during the winter are said to be determined by the fogs in August. Persons who have studied the matter over say they never knew it to fall. So count the fogs and then watch the snow falls and let us hear the result next spring.

Roanoke News: Two colored men were drowned on Mr. Capehart's plantation in Northampton county last week while floating logs to a mill. They with several others were standing on logs in a swamp when that upon which the two men were standing turned, throwing them into the water. They attempted to climb upon the logs but they were slippery and would turn. They then became panic stricken and sank, refusing to take hold of poles which were extended to them. Their bodies were recovered.

News and Observer: Yesterday at the executive office general reception was suspended by the Governor in respect to the memory of Executive Clerk Satterthwaite. The desk and chair of Mr. Satterthwaite were draped in mourning, as was also the door of the Governor's secretary. The death of Mr. Bryan Satterthwaite is the fourth sad fatality which has occurred among the Milburnie picnic party. Many others who drank the tainted water have narrowly escaped the grave, and it is not yet known where its terrible consequences will end.

Chatham Record: We are pleased to learn that the western corn that was planted in this county is growing much better than was reported, a few weeks ago, and that it will make a better crop than was then expected. A protracted meeting was held last week at Mr. Pleasant church, in Baldwin township, at which quite a large number of conversions were made, though the frequent rains made the congregation smaller than they would otherwise have been. On last Friday our esteemed countryman, John M. McIVER, Esq., of Gulf, narrowly escaped being killed by a flash of lightning. The lightning struck the end of the stove-pipe projecting from his store, and ran along the pipe into the store, bursting the pipe and shocking for a few moments Mr. McIVER who was near. It was a close call, and we heartily congratulate Mr. McIVER upon his fortunate escape. There seem to be more fatal flashes of lightning this summer than we ever before heard of.

Johnstown, Pa.

JOHNSTOWN, August 8.--A board of inquiry has been in every ward in the devastated district, and yet over 500 orders have not been called for. There are over a thousand cases that have not been rated, and the night sessions will be held until they can be classified. In the meantime clerks are preparing tabulated statements from which the State Commission will draw deductions to make a basis for final distribution. Treasurer Thompson's clerks paid 218 orders today, aggregating $35,995.

Business is good, and those merchants who have an established trade are hard at work. A meeting of business men was held this evening to take steps towards determining the liabilities of the South Fork Fishing Club for the disaster. Committees were appointed and funds will be raised to help make the suit of John Thomas & Sons against the club a test case.

The body of a 15-year old girl was found near the business part of Main street this evening. It was covered with earth and remarkably well preserved.

Beecham's Pills cure bilious and nervous ill.

The State Fair.

Secretary Wilson has kindly furnished us with some advance sheets of the State fair premium list. It will be fuller and more carefully prepared this year than ever before. By way of introduction Secretary Wilson says:

The twenty-ninth Annual State Fair will be a State fair not in name alone, but in absolute fact. There will be an exhibition that has never been surpassed in the South in merit, variety and the arrangement of its several departments. It is intended to make it illustrative of the occupations of the people, and to afford profitable instruction and social entertainment. To foster and advance the efforts of the laborer in every branch of life is its prime purpose, and it embraces the work of the farmer, stock-raiser, manufacturer, artisan and inventor as the common brotherhood of workers.

The generous support and kindly criticism of the press which it has enjoyed, it hopes to deserve in future by a stricter adherence to its duty in prompting the objects of the society. Special acknowledgment is due to the Board of Agriculture for its appropriation. It is but proper also to acknowledge the sense of indebtedness due to his Excellency the Governor, and the other officers of the Executive Department, for their cordial co-operation.
