EUROPEAN.

The signs of the times indicate stirring events in Europe before many months shall have passed. War clouds have often appeared, in the eastern horizon, which have had no other effect than the augmentation of armaments and the strengthening of defenses, but present portents are indicative of convulsions that may shake thrones and effect the destinies of empires.

There have recently been exchanges of courtisies between Kings and Emperors, that indicated the continuance of peace, but at the same time, diplomacy was doing its secret work, and now it is announced that a tripple alliance has been formed between Germany, Austria and Italy, by which the territories of those States are brought under the protection of these allied powers.

Divested of the disguise of European diplomacy this alliance ED.] means defiance of Russia and France.
