Light Division may not have lost as heavily as some other division of the army...

Gen. D. H. Hill was a true soldier and a true Christian, and he was no respecter of persons.

At Malvern Hill Gen. Hill gave an order to Gen. Toombs which that officer refused to obey...

He received his orders from Longstreet. Thereupon Gen. Hill denounced him as a coward.

The next day Gen. Toombs sent a challenge to Gen. Hill, which was promptly declined.

Not long after the war the writer was in company with Gen. Toombs when allusion was made to this incident.

It was at the dinner table of a Chattahoochee steamboat. Gen. Toombs was the center of attraction.

and was talking as few men can talk, and severely animadverting upon the conduct of the war.

Soon he denounced Gen. D. H. Hill as a coward, and turning to the writer said, "I can prove by Gen. Battle that Hill was a coward."

Instantly he received the reply, "No sir," and the following colloquy ensued: "I proved he was a coward!"

"I know you challenged him, but at that time you know he was your superior officer, and the acceptance of your challenge would be utterly subversive of military discipline."

Besides he is a Presbyterian Elder, and is opposed to duelling on principle. "If he had put it on any such high ground as that I would have respected, but he put it on the ground that the country could not spare his services."

Gen. Hill regretted the manner in which he addressed Gen. Toombs after learning Longstreet's orders, but he was so constituted that he had no respect for any man who did not fight for the South when an opportunity was presented.

TALMAGE'S WORD PAINTING.

His Gorgeous Rhetoric in Describing the Beauties of the Yellowstone.

New York Herald.

Before an audience that filled every part of the big Brooklyn Tabernacle and from the text, "He shall have dominion from sea to sea," the Reverend T. De Witt Talmage delivered a characteristic sermon Sunday based upon what he saw during his recent trans-continental journey, from which he comes back impressed with the knowledge that the United States is the greatest and grandest and richest and most wonderful country on the face of the globe, and that the vastness of the continent can never be appreciated by anybody who has not traveled over it.

A good part of the preacher's address was devoted to an enthusiastic description of the Yosemite and the Yellowstone Park, whose wonders he described as follows:

THE YOSEMITE.

That Valley of the Yosemite is eight miles long and a half mile wide and three thousand feet deep. It seems as if it had been the meaning of omnipotence to crowd into as small a place as possible some of the most stupendous scenery of the world.

Some of the cliffs you do not stop to measure by feet, for they are a mile high. If Jehovah has a throne on earth, these are its white pillars.

No pause for the eye, no stopping place for the mind. Mountains hurled on mountains. Mountains flanked by mountains. Mountains split. Mountains ground. Mountains fallen. Mountains triumphant. As though Mount Blanc and the Adirondacks and Mount Washington were here uttering themselves in one magnificent chorus of rock and precipice and waterfall.

Yonder is Yosemite Falls, dropping 2,634 feet, sixteen times greater descent than that of Niagara. These waters dashed to death on the rocks, so that the white spirit of the slain waters ascending in a robe of mist seeks the heavens. Yonder is Nevada Falls, plunging 700 feet, the water in arrows, the water in rockets, the water in pearls, the water in amethysts, the water in diamonds. That cascade flings down the rocks enough jewels to array all the earth in beauty, and rushes on until it drops into a very hell of waters, the smoke of their torment ascending forever and ever.

BUT THE YELLOWSTONE!

But the most wonderful part of this American continent is the Yellowstone Park. After all poetry has exhausted itself and all the Morans and Bierstadts and the other enchanting artists have completed their canvas, there will be other revelations to make and other stories of its beauty and wraith, splendor and agony to be recited. Yellowstone Park is a geologist's paradise.

In some portions of it there seems to be the anarchy of the elements. Fire and water, and the vapor born of that marriage terrific. Geyser cones or hills of crystal that have been over five thousand years growing. In places the earth throbbing, sobbing, groaning, quaking with aqueous paroxysm.

At the expiration of every sixty-five minutes one of the geysers tossing its boiling water 185 feet in the air and then descending into swirling rainbows. Caverns of pictured walls large enough for the sepulchre of the human race. Formations of stone in shape and color of calligraphy, of heliotrope, of rose, of corvally, of sunflower and of gladioli Sulphur and arsenic and oxide of iron, with their delicate pencils, turning the hills into a Luxemburg or a Vatican picture gallery.

The so-called Evangeline Geyser, lovely as the Longfellow heroine it commemorates. The so-called Pulpit Terrace, from its white elevation, preaching mighty sermons of God than human lips ever uttered. The so-called Bethesda Geyser, by the warmth of which invalids have already been cured, the Angel of Health continually stirring the waters Enraged crater, with heat at 500 degrees, only a little below the surface.

In some places waters as innocent and smiling as a child making a first attempt to walk from its mother's lap, and not far off as foaming and frenzied and ungovernable as a maniac in murderous struggle with its keepers.

THE GRAND CANYON.

But after you have wandered along the geyserite enchantment for days and begin to feel that there can be nothing more of interest to see, you suddenly come upon the petaration of all majesty and grandeur, the Grand Canyon. It is here that it seems to me—and I speak it with reverence—Jehovah seems to have surpassed Himself. It seems a great gulch let down into the eternities.

Here, hung up and let down and spread around, are all the colors of the land and sea and sky. Upholstering of the Lord God Almighty. Best work of the Architect of Worlds. Sculpturing by the Infinite. Masonry by an omnipotent trowel. Yellow! You never saw yellow unless you saw it there. Red! You never saw red unless you say it there. Triumphant banners of color. In a cathedral of basalt, sunrise and sunset, married by the setting of a rainbow ring.

Gothic arches, Corinthian capitals and Egyptian basilicas built before human architecture was born. Huge fortifications of granite, constructed before war forged its first cannon Gibraltars and Sebastopols that never can be taken. Alambas where kings of strength and queens of beauty reigned long before the first earthly crown was imperialed. Thrones on which no one but the King of Heaven and Earth ever sat. Fount of waters at which the lesser hills are baptized, while the giant cliffs stand round as sponsors.

A CARNAGE OF COLOR.

Hanging over one of the cliffs I looked off until I could not get my breath, then retreating to a less exposed place I looked down again. Down there is a pillar of rock that in certain conditions of the atmosphere looks like a pillar of blood. Yonder are fifty feet of emerald on a base of five hundred feet of opal. Walls of chalk resting on pedestals of beryl. Towers of light fluming on floors of darkness. The brown brightening into golden. Snow of crystal melting into fire of carbund. Flaming red cooling into russet. Cold blue warming into saffron. Dull gray kindling into sapphire. Morning twilight flashing midnight shadows. Auroras arching among rocks.

See all this carnage of color up and down the cliff, it must have been the battlefield of the war of the elements. Here are all the colors of the wall of heaven, neither the sapphire nor the chrysolite, nor the topaz nor the jacinth, nor the amethyst, nor the jasper, nor the twelve gates of twelve pearls wanting.

IS CONSUMPTION INCURABLE?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable Consumption. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and now on my third bottle, and am to covance the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

James Middewater, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, I would have died of Lung Trouble. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health. Try it. Sample bottles free at R. N. Duffy's Wholesale and Retail Drug Store, New Bern, N. C. $3 per dozen, wholesale."

Peculiar. Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses are One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits. Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures little credited, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Sold by all druggists. $1.00 per bottle. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
