THE JOURNAL. IN MEMORIAM.

MRS, MAMUE HATCHER.

Be still, sad hearts, O hear the anthem.

So low and sweet. It's from afar In lyric strains, and angels whisper, It's floating through the gates ajar. Methinks I see a white robed figure, With soft blue eyes and silken hair; She tunes the harp with jewelled flugers, As up she climbs the golden stair.

I hear her join the angels' welcome-A glorious shout-a glad refrain, And then she whispers back the message, Weep not, dear ones, we'll meet again. I see her crowned with snowy petals, With star-lit gems and strands of gold, And on her placed brow 'tis written. I'm safe within the Shepherd's fold.

Full well, do I remember, Mamie, The time, the place, where first we met, 'Twas at the Normal on 'the campus,'' And thy sweet face I'll ne'er forget. I saw that fame was gently holding A jewelled wand for thee to bear; And Oh! to us, so hard it seemeth, That death should blight a flower so fair. While we are sad, some hearts are bleeding.

The silent room, the vacant chair, Must hold an anguish far exceeding The pain that distant friends would share Dear mother, father, sister, brother, Would I could help thee bear the rod, But O, the loss is not your darlings, Here is the joy-she's with her God.

And after all these nights of sorrow, We'll hail a morning bright and clear, When Mamie dear and all our loved ones, Now far away, will then be near. Twill not be long the years are fleeting-Only a few more griefs and fears, Only a few more tired heart-beatings, Only a few more parting tears.

So let us try with loving fondness, To bear our heaviest burdens here, For by and by they'll be forgotten Within that brighter world up there. There, no more hours of weary waiting For the coming of precious feet. There, no more hopes so sweet are blighted

By doubts and fears, and then defeat.

I long to hear my King say "Come"; And oft I see through mystic shadows A vision bright of home, sweet home. () glorious thought that sometime, haply, On some sweet day, that's free from pain, Our dearest hopes will grow to ripeness, And surely we shall meet again.

Forest Home, N. C., Aug. 15, 1889.

What Modern Light and Heat Says. Scarcely a day passes but some new development in science is heraled, some new invention to cheapen production, or some new application of existing forces is made. In the progress of gas, electricity, and steam the path is marked by new devices and appliances. No sooner is a new process devised than 'another one equal to it or even better comes out, until it seems as though the range of improvement in certain directions had been fully covered. In the field of gas production the changes in the last few years have been radical. Natural and fuel gas have come in- Newbern, N. Ruby's Letter.

A letter from Mr. J. W. Ruby, Union City, Ind., says: "I have used your Clarke's Extract of Flax (Papillon) Cough Cure and find it a complete cure for deep seated cold. It has done more than two of our most skillful physicians. My children had the Whooping Cough and with the aid of your Cough Cure they had it very light compared with neighbors' children who did not take it. I believe it to be the best cough cure in the market." So it is. A large bottle only $1.00.

Cancer of the Nose. In 1875 a sore appeared on my nose, and grew rapidly. As my father had cancer, and my husband died of it, I became alarmed, and on analted my physician. His treatment did no good, and the sore grew larger and worse in every way, until I had concluded that I was to die from its effects. I was persuaded to take S. S. S., and a few bottles cured me. This was after all the doctors and other medicines had failed. I have had no return of the cancer.
