WITH the admission of the two Dakotas, Montana and Washington, an area three times as great as that of the British Isles is brought into the family of States. Again are we constrained to remark that this is a great country.—Washington Post.

TELEGRAPH operators will remain on duty at the White House tonight, in order that General Harrison may hear the earliest news from his friend Mahone. There is an air of gloom about Administration circles in Washington these days.—Tuesday's N. Y. Star.

RETURNS from New Jersey come in slowly. Enough are in however, to make it certain that Abnett is elected by an overwhelming majority, and that the Democrats have retained control of the assembly. The Senate will stand 11 Republican to 10 Democratic, and the assembly 33 Democratic to 27 Republican.

THE vendetta business is making the country very weary, not to say disgusted. It is about time for the Hatfields and the McCoys of West Virginia, and the Howards and the Turners of Kentucky, to be put down. There is no reason why they should continue to remain a blot on our civilization. Down with the whole lot of them!—Boston Herald.

THE Wilmington Messenger of Wednesday appeared with a game cock at the head of every column on the first page. The first is happy over the Solid South, the second bids Virginia all hail the third rejoices because Mahone is routed, the fourth is delighted that Harrison has been rebuked, the fifth is in raptures over Ohio, and the sixth is too happy to indulge in particulars and hurrahs for Democracy.

THIS writer is just from Morehead City. The fever was on us for several days, and Tuesday evening it rose so high we boarded the train and got out for the fishing grounds. Much as we had heard of the pleasures of trout fishing at Morehead we had formed no adequate idea of the sport. If there is in the State a tired journalist, who needs recreation, let him put down his pen and go to Morehead.

THE campaign of the Republican party has been a combination of hypocrisy, bluster, and cant. Evading the real issues of the hour, that party has resorted to a personal vilification of the Democratic candidate that can only be paralleled by the campaign of 1855. It has gone back a quarter of a century to trade upon the feelings and prejudices of the Civil War. Cheap theatrical effects have been borrowed at mass meetings to impress the minds of the ignorant and invest a weak candidate with the glamour of a hero. The Republican canvass of 1889 has been one that every intelligent man of that party has reason to blush for. It has simply been the same old story.—Newark Journal.

LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOURNAL—Keys found.
N. WHITFORD—Pork sausage.
O. E. SLOVER—Split peas, etc.
Y. M. C. A.—Entertainment tonight.

What is the matter with the gas for the past few nights?

Do you want to hear something nice? Then go to the theatre to-night.

Dr. Mallett, of Morehead City, died yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The Young Men's Christian Association returns thanks to Mrs. E. B. Ellis for a half-ton of coal.

Next week is the week of prayer to be observed by the Young Men's Christian Associations of the world.

W. G. Brinson, Esq., has rearranged his office of South Front street and made an improvement in the appearance of things.

The directors of the A. & N. C. Railroad met yesterday. They adjourned about 11 o'clock and went down to Morehead City on a special train to try the fishing.

The sidewalk in front of Suter's and Blomgard's stores on Middle street is being put in respectable condition. The sidewalk from Cutler's to the corner of Middle and South Front, has long had the reputation of being the meanest on the street.

Foreign Shipment of Cotton.

Mr. J. E. Latham, a cotton buyer in this city, has shipped cotton from this city to Liverpool and Bremen. He receives direct bills of lading. So it is seen that foreign exports can be made from this port direct.

Shipping News.

The steamer Annie of the E. C. D. line sailed yesterday with full cargo of general exports. The Eaglet of this line will arrive today.

The steamer Manteo, of the O. D. line, will sail for Norfolk today at 13 o'clock.

Arrivals at Hotel Albert.

Lieut. Francis Winslow, U. S. N.; Collin Hughes, city; W. T. Caho, Bayboro; Dr. D. P. Fox, Manteo, N. C.; Swift Galloway, Goldsboro; Macon Bryan, A. M. Williams, Vanceboro; Jno. I. Sprague, W. J. Harper, W. F. Trower, Baltimore; F. D. Simerly, Robert R. Sizer, James T. Prince, New York.

At the Theatre Tonight.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. has met with such a popular move, that it has been deemed best to have it at the theatre instead of the Association Hall, as was previously intended. Also, owing to some necessary expense, it has been decided to issue no free tickets to members for this special occasion. Hereafter all concerts, societies, etc., will be held at the Hall and season tickets furnished every member. This is done to induce outsiders to join the Association, and members pay monthly assessments to meet running expenses, which entitles them to these privileges.

A Half Million Dollar Fire.

Petersburg, Va., has been swept by the devouring flames. The fire broke out during the night early Thursday morning and raged through the heart of the city until 10 o'clock yesterday before it could be gotten under control. All the business portion of the city is now in ashes and the loss computed at fully $500,000. Fire engines were telegraphed for from Richmond, but by the time they reached the scene the destroyer had done its work. At this writing there is no clue to the origin of the fire.

Fire at Washington.

Evangelist Fife in company with his wife left on the morning train yesterday for their home in Fayetteville. He was on his return from Washington where he has just closed a very successful meeting. There were two hundred and fifty conversions and many recommitments. Also under the influence of Mr. Fife a Y. M. C. A. was organized and more than $300.00 raised for the Association by the business men of the town. This speaks well for our sister town, and while we do not know whether the proper appeal has been made by the New Berne Association, we are sure no such substantial aid has been given by our business men. If these institutions are worthless they should not be aided, but if they have merit it behooves the business men to see that they are sustained.

CHILDREN ENJOY

The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Bryar of Fife, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be constipated or bilious the most gratifying results follow its use, so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

The Elections.

The latest news received from the elections confirm the special telegraphic reports published in yesterday's JOURNAL.

There are Democratic gains in every State. Campbell is elected in Ohio by a plurality of about 9,000, and the Legislature is Democratic in both houses. Foraker has sent a congratulatory telegram to Campbell.

In Iowa, the Legislature is Democratic, and Boies, Democrat, is elected Governor by about 7,000 plurality.

In Massachusetts, the Democrats gained largely in the Legislature, but the Republicans are still in the majority. New York is Democratic by between 30,000 and 25,000, and ten members are gained in the Legislature.

Sample Copies of the Weekly Journal.

With this week's issue of the WEEKLY JOURNAL we mail a large number of sample copies to various places. We want one copy to reach every business man in the city that he may know that we publishing another paper besides the DAILY JOURNAL, and that its circulation is treble that of the DAILY and goes over an entirely different territory. It permeates all the adjacent counties and may be found at nearly every fireside of the farmers in these counties.

We would call the attention of the merchants of New Berne to the above statement, that they may see that the WEEKLY JOURNAL offers special inducements to those wishing to reach the country trade.

Attempted Suicide.

Washington Newby, a colored man, living near the Fair grounds, attempted to kill himself yesterday about 1 o'clock. His wife and family, except a little child, were away from home when the act was committed. When they returned Newby was found lying in the yard and was bleeding from the throat. He had stabbed himself in the neck with a long bladed knife.

Dr. Charles Duffy was called. He examined the wound and pronounced it probably not fatal. Newby is well known as a stevedore. He has worked at the business for many years, until two years ago, when, by an accident, while unloading a vessel, he was rendered unable to follow the business.

The only cause that can be assigned for the attempted suicide is that there was some family trouble, which, with other unfortunate circumstances, drove the man to desperation.

Protect the Oyster Beds.

EDS. JOURNAL.—Almost daily we hear some complaints about Virginians and other non-residents coming into Pamlico sound, principally within the limits of Hyde county, catching and taking away the oysters from the natural oyster beds. The oyster industry will yet be one of the chief industries of our eastern section of the State, if the laws in force are enforced. In God's name, why do not the county fathers of the good county of Hyde arouse from their sleepy lethargy, awaken to their country's interest, and enforce the laws made for their protection. It is sad for the county of Hyde if it has a set of commissioners who really feel as little interest in its welfare as their actions intimate. Shame upon them, if they allow such intrusion upon the rights of their people.

Woman's Work.

There is no end to the tasks which daily confront the good housewife. To be a successful housekeeper, the first requisite is good health. How can a woman contend against the trials and worries of housekeeping if she is suffering from those distressing irregularities, ailments and weaknesses peculiar to her sex? Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a specific for these disorders. The only remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers. Satisfaction guaranteed in every case or money refunded. See printed guarantee on bottle wrapper.

The Fruit of Violence.

In no case is the folly of violence in medication more conspicuously shown by its fruit than in the effect upon the intestines of excessive purgation. The stomach and bowels are first painfully gripped, then the latter is copiously, suddenly and repeatedly evacuated. This is far beyond the necessities of the case, most unnatural, excessively debilitating. The organs are incapacitated from resuming their function with normal moderation. An astringent is resorted to which reduces them to their former condition of inaction. To this monstrous and harmful absurdity, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the happy alternative. It relaxes gently, naturally, sufficiently, it diverts bile from the blood into its proper channel, it insures healthful digestion and complete assimilation. It is a complete defence against malaria, and conquers rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, kidney and bladder trouble.

Rheumatism.

It is undoubtedly caused by lactic acid in the blood. This acid attacks the fibrous tissue, and causes the pains and aches in the back, shoulders, knees, ankles, hips and wrists. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive cure for rheumatism. This medicine, by its purifying action, neutralizes the acidity of the blood, and also builds up and strengthens the whole body.

RAMBLES ABOUT TOWN.

Within a few days, accidentally meeting Gen. Robert Ransom on the street, "See here," said he, "marks of rain-drops on the dusty walk, and rain still seemingly falling from a cloudless sky—the sap oozing from the trees above us."

This afternoon while alone, at home, musing, happening to cast my eyes out in the bright sunshine, I could not resist the temptation for rambling. Half dozen steps, and we were pausing under the "old sycamores" at the corner of Craven and Change streets. They, too, were giving up their sap in crystal drops, preparatory to going into winter quarters. These trees have withstood the storms of a hundred and fifty years, and one at least had defied the lightning's terrific bolt. It blazed through its lofty crown and striking then the stately trunk ran down it, leaving only a bolt unscathed. A sycamore not far away on New street received also a bolt uninjured. But another, only a few feet from the first, in the writer's yard, was struck and killed. This all occurred in the same squall. Thus we have conclusive evidence that the sycamore is as liable to be struck by lightning as any other tree, notwithstanding the belief of many intelligent persons to the contrary.

The weather at this season seems to throw an illusive charm over everything, and my mind, embracing the agreeable deception, lives over my boyish days once more, and finds in these shadows of departed joys a melancholy pleasure, the result rather of remembrance than anticipation. Oh, yes, give me autumn, give me the rustling of the leaves, the whirl of the partridge, the note of the redbreast, the barking of the squirrel. There is a music in them that reminds us of old time enjoyments when life was young and promised to be happy.

"The golden days of all the year, In mellowed ripeness now appear; The goddess of the russet fruit Makes music on her golden flute."

Being undecided whether we would walk to the fields or to the river, a cow came along, evidently in similar doubt. If out without leave she seemed to anticipate no trouble. Looking stealthily at the writer for a moment or two, she started down Change street towards the Nense. After a few steps she stopped, gave up suppressed wrath, and hearing no answer wheeled and started back; then turned again and kept slowly on. I concluded, after so much reflection, if there were indecision exhibited in the beginning, she must be right, so I decided to follow and immediately under two beautiful maples, now in gorgeous attire, and dropping beneath them a carpet of ruby and gold. The leaves of one of the trees are bright red and the other deep yellow. Thus, with the soft, green foliage of a large willow overhanging them, we have, even for the season, a very pretty scene. Following these on the street is a row of ash trees.

The willow is an offshoot of a tree at the grave of Napoleon, on the island of St. Helena. Capt. F. T. Bryan, a brother of our townsman, H. R. Bryan, Esq., then in the United States army, obtained a cutting, from which his mother, Mrs. John H. Bryan, grew a tree in Raleigh. From it the writer was kindly furnished a cutting. About sixteen years the tree has been growing. The willows in the Baptist church yard here came from it. The ashes were raised in the same time from the seed of a vigorous growing tree on Craven street near Change, though over a century old.

Daniel Webster, in a letter written at Marshfield, to Mr. Fillmore, when President, states he had caused to grow there many thousand trees of various kinds where before there were none. His success in this particular appeared to have gratified him beyond that of the praise bestowed for his unsurpassed speeches and orations.

Numberless trees could now be grown in this section of country on idle land, without work or attention, for fire wood, timber and fruit. Mr. J. Havens has demonstrated in this town that English walnuts, "nigger toes" and pecans can be grown simply by putting the nuts in the ground.

Passing along a puff of wind brought over from a lot on the square back of us, the perfume of a Japan plum tree now in bloom. We were told by a naval officer who had visited Japan, that the odor of the flowers of the tree in that distant country was sometimes carried on the wind for miles. This pretty evergreen, blooming in autumn here, deprives us of its delicious fruit. But Mrs. Susan J. Dudley did pluck a plum fully matured from a tree in her garden which was exposed to all the changes of the winter.

The penetration of the fragrance of our wild honeysuckle, however, is equal to that of the Japan plum blossoms. It was stated in the presence of the writer, by Mr. Ed. Smallwood, a wealthy and prominent citizen of New Berne, that he, on one occasion, smelt, when several miles at sea off the cape of Virginia, strongly the perfume of the honeysuckle borne on the westerly wind from the shore. Philip Amodeus and Arthur Barlow, the first visitors to the Carolina coast, wrote to Sir Walter Raleigh in 1584 as follows: "On the second of July we found whole water, when we smelt so sweet and stirring a smelle as if we had been in the midst of some delicate garden, abounding in all kinds of odoriferous flowers, and on the fourth we arrived on the coast. After thanks given to God for our safe arrival thither, we manned our boats, and went to take possession of the same. In the night of the Queen's most excellent majesty, Sir Walter Raleigh and I, with our men, were taken on Roanoke Island, and were the first Englishmen on the Western Continent. They come to steal what they could carry off from whoever they might find in the new world and to claim what they had to leave behind them.

We are now at the corner of East Front and Change streets, and will tell something about what happened there a century ago. W.

Rheumatism is caused by lactic acid in the blood, which Hood's Sarsaparilla neutralizes, and thus cures rheumatism.

For a disordered liver try Beecham's Pills.
