TRUMAN telegraphed to Cleveland, "Foraker has surrendered these flags."

RETURNS from Virginia place the Democratic majority at over 30,000 and the Legislature fully two-thirds Democratic.

As far as heard from the people do not like Harrison's administration. They set down upon it, and the man who inherited his grandfather's hat is in the soup.—News and Observer.

THE people of Halifax county, Va., are terribly excited over the attempted assassination on election day, by negroes, of several white men; the negroes fired on the party from ambush and murdered two of them.

BILLY MAHONEY got so riled when the election returns began to come in that he went out and shot a man named Harrison. When the gentleman of that name up in Washington who had been boosting Mahoney read the returns he felt as if some shot had been poured into him, too.—Wilmington Star.

THE Republicans will introduce a bill in the Fifty first Congress in favor of Federal supervision of congressional election, but it will not become a law. The Democrats will vote solidly against it and the bill will be a sufficient number of Republicans voting with them to kill the bill.—Augusta Chronicle.

THE Democratic victory in this State is a sweeping one; a regular tidal wave extending from the mountains to the seashore. The magnitude of this victory, the overwhelming nature of Mahoney's defeat, can hardly be appreciated. It simply surpasses all expectations.—Lynchburg Virginian.

THE news from Virginia was received with deep gloom at the White House. General Harrison had staked in great part his hopes for the Republican party in the south on Virginia. The result has shown that his house was built upon the sands, not upon the solid rock of official honesty and public confidence.—New York Star.

IT is nonsense to talk about a national law for the regulation and control of State elections. There is no power under the constitution to contrive anything of the kind. The only election that can be regulated by national authority are those for members of Congress, and it will be unwise and unprofitable to interfere with those. The Republicans who are trying to revive Federal interference with elections will find out that the program of the last twenty years is in their way. There is no going back.—New York Times.

LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
C. E. SLOVER—Buckwheat, etc.
F. E. MORTON—Tuning and repairing.

About eighty negroes from along the line of the A. & N. C. Railroad left for Mississippi and other States yesterday.

C. T. Randolph, buggy manufacturer, will have some of his excellent buggies on exhibition at Hyde county court house next week.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. extend their sincere thanks to the large and appreciative audience that greeted their entertainment at the theatre last night; and they are under many obligations to those who so kindly aided in the programme.

Not Quite.
The Kinston Free Press of November 7th says:

"Cotton has been selling on the Kinston market since Monday at 9 1/2, which is the best price paid on any market on the A. & N. C. R. R."

There is a mistake in the second statement of our friend. Cotton has sold in New Berne during the week at prices ranging from 9.50 to 9.90, 9.50 being the lowest price paid. Kinston is a good market, but not the best on the A. & N. C. Railroad.

Our Winter Fair.
The officials of the East Carolina Fish, Oyster, Game and Industrial Association are interesting themselves in getting everything in readiness for a successful exhibition, which is to be held a week beginning February 24th.

An additional building, 86x20, is being erected on the grounds for fish, oysters and game, in the centre of which will be built an aquarium for the display of live fish and animals. This will be a big improvement over last year in giving more room for other displays in the main building.

Let every one commence now and be on the lookout for something to be exhibited. The date is some time off, but it is not any too early to make a beginning.

Personal.
Miss Mary Brown left yesterday morning for Spartanburg, S. C. She will teach in a school near Spartanburg.

Mr. George Allen and Miss Hannah Allen have returned from Salem, Va.

Mayor Williams and Capt. Dave Roberts went down to Morehead City last night to pull in the trout.

E. L. Gibbs, Esq., left last night to attend Hyde county court.

Judge Seymour has returned from Wilmington.

Enforce the Laws.
We publish on the second page of this paper the opinion of Attorney General Davidson on the question of who shall enforce the laws enacted for the protection of oysters and other fish.

There is considerable complaint, in Hyde county particularly, arising from the fact that non-residents are coming into Pamlico sound and carrying off oysters in large quantities, from the natural beds. If this work is allowed to continue, the oyster grounds of Pamlico sound will soon be bare—the beds will be destroyed. It has taken only a few years for oyster pirates to almost destroy about 100,000 acres of oyster grounds in Chesapeake bay. How long will it take to ruin less than one-tenth that number of acres in Pamlico sound? The oyster industry in, and should be, a source of great revenue to the people of Hyde county. It should be encouraged and carefully husbanded. The depredations of non-residents on the oyster beds should be stopped.

There are prohibitory laws, enacted by the Legislature of North Carolina. It is the duty of the local authorities and courts to enforce these laws. It is the duty of the county commissioners to arrest the violators of the law and bring them to account. (See chapter 463, section 4, laws of 1889).

Why do not the commissioners of Hyde county enforce the laws enacted for the protection of one of the chief interests of the people of that county?

The Y. M. C. A. Entertainment Last Night.

That was a rich treat furnished by the Young Men's Christian Association. The exercises opened with a piano solo that was exquisitely rendered by Miss Katie Daniella. Then came General Battle with an old man's talk to the Young Men's Christian Association. It was a happy and appropriate selection. He spoke about fifteen minutes in eloquent terms, directing his remarks principally to young men. It was both profitable and entertaining. This was followed by a trio by Messrs. Baxter, Humphrey and Barrington in which the singing was fine. Interest increased as the entertainment progressed, and when Miss Maude Moore appeared upon the stage to recite "How he saved St. Michael's," every one's face was radiant with pleasure. Her rendition was admirable. Now expectation rose to the highest pitch as Miss Radcliff came forward to sing "Orpheus." This splendid composition grew in popular favor as Miss Radcliff revealed its beauties in limpid tones of rarest melody. The quartet by Miss Radcliff, Mrs. Williams and Messrs. Clark and Adams was one of the gems of the evening. In such an array of musical talent it would be difficult to decide what part was best executed, but taken as a whole the quartet was superb. The recitation of "The Burial of Moses," by Mr. J. S. Thomas, evinced unusual powers of elocution, and then Miss Radcliff's second solo in which "Wooping" was rendered as it only could be by the queen of song. This finished the published program. Miss Mamie Amyett accompanied Miss Radcliff's solo, Miss Hattie Dale the quartet and Miss Chattie Credle the trio. All of the entertainment was highly creditable to the Y. M. C. A. and pleasing to the large and cultured audience.

That Fishing Frolic.
It was a good one. On Tuesday afternoon, I. S. D. Sauls of Goldsboro, T. F. Hargis, of Baltimore, T. H. Mallison, of Craven county, and W. F. Rountree, James Thomas, Rudolph Ulrich, Dan Jones and C. A. Battle, of New Berne, left our depot for the pleasures of trout fishing in the vicinity of Morehead City. The day was summery, and the wind just right. Arrived at Morehead it was found difficult to procure boats for the night at a price which an up country gentleman would consider at all reasonable. After considerable "palaver" two boats were procured, and every thing made ready to "jackle" the fish. The sportsmen divided into two parties, Messrs. Ulrich, Jones, Sauls and Hargis, going out beyond the bar, and Messrs. Rountree, Mallison, Thomas and Battle contending themselves with trying their luck in the channel a few hundred yards from the railroad wharf. The bold sportsmen, who ventured out on the deep blue ocean, "hooked" during the night about three hundred as nice grey trout as were ever led into temptation by the cunning of man. The other party, whose timid souls kept them like little boats near the shore, illustrated the old adage "nothing ventured, nothing gained." The next morning the successful gentlemen left the city satisfied with the sport, and Messrs. Rountree and Mallison returned to their homes because of the pressing demands of business.

Wednesday morning, bright and early, Jones, Thomas and Battle boarded a sharpie, well manned by gentlemen of the African persuasion, and set sail for the fishing ground. Ten miles out the anchor was cast and the fun began. We can't describe it. Even now as we write we feel a nibble, instantly jerk and say "confound the luck." But, we caught 'em, all the same. In about three hours we had landed one swordfish, four sharks, five devil fish, six crabs, about fifty croakers, and one hundred and eighty-seven trout. That wasn't much for Morehead fishing—but it was some for us. There were about fifty fishing boats out, and it was estimated that about 10,000 trout were taken with hook and line that day. Many opinions are expressed as to why it is that so many trout are taken there this season. The most plausible is that they have been in these waters heretofore, but being far below the surface the nets did not reach them, and deep water hook and line fishing had not been resorted to. Another theory is, that porpoises have abounded in this region, until recently, and kept the trout thinned out; but of late years porpoise fisheries have been established, which have destroyed numbers of them, and trout and other small fish have wonderfully increased. Boat charges at Morehead are exorbitant, but the sport is fine and the fish are as good as any that swim.

Keep your blood pure and you will not have rheumatism. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and tones the whole system.

Wilmington Messenger: A brilliant social event occurred at St. James Episcopal church in this city last evening at 8 o'clock in the marriage of Mr. Theodore Marburg, of Baltimore, and Miss Fannie D. Grainger, of Wilmington.

Elizabeth City Carolinian: The Elizabeth City Fair opened auspiciously. Never before in the history of this fair have so many entries been made so early. The exhibition hall was quite full early this morning when this report closed and the exhibits were very fine and attractive.

Raleigh News and Observer: The Boyle case has not yet been carried up to the Supreme Court. The papers in the case have all been prepared by the defence, and have been served on the Solicitor. In capital cases the law provides that they may be taken up in the Supreme Court at any time. The case will probably be taken up in the near future.

Nashville Argonaut: A cotton factory is to be erected at the Oxford Orphan Asylum, to be operated by the orphans, and also a pants factory is contemplated.—Charlotte is going to erect a tabernacle for Sam Jones' meeting, to be held next spring, which will hold 4,000.—Quite a number of white people have left Johnson county for Arkansas, and others contemplate following if reports are favorable. Fools are not all dead.

Greenville Reflector: The other day we saw Mr. S. F. Erwin bringing a large load of peanuts in town to be shipped. In conversation he told us there was more money to be made raising peanuts than cotton. He said his peanut crop this year was only 15 acres, from which he has already shipped over a hundred bushels (about 125 we think he said) and has a few bushels left. When it comes down to making comparisons, we honestly believe the farmer can make more money on anything he will plant than cotton. And it is going to take a wholesome diversification of crops and a closer sticking to the farm to bring about better times in this country.

Wilmington Star: We have had frequent occasion to comment on the new discoveries of valuable minerals and stones in this State in localities where their presence was not suspected. Several days ago we made mention of the discovery of a copper vein in working a sewer in Raleigh, of slate and whetstone deposits in the neighborhood of Durham, of coal in Granville county, and since then of the discovery of coal in the same county at another place. The Hendersonville Times of last week notes the purchase of a tract of sixty acres in Henderson county upon which the purchaser has discovered several valuable minerals. Every day gives additional evidence of the extent and variety of the mineral resources of North Carolina.

Davis & Co.'s dry goods house on Sycamore street and spread with incredible rapidity, burning down in a short time the whole iron front block and adjoining properties. The flames leaped across the street and destroyed the Odd Fellows' Hall and five or six other buildings. Lieutenant Crichton, of the police force, was in one of the burning buildings when a wall fell in on him; he was burned to death. cates of members of the Legislature. After the State canvassers adjourned the Secretary of State issued certificates of election to the members of the Legislature, including the six Republicans of the Silver Bow delegation. The clerks of the different counties had already issued certificates and the Democrats-elect refused the secretary's certificate.

Dumplings with Royal Baking Powder

No dessert is more delicious, wholesome and appetizing than a well-made dumpling, filled with the fruit of the season. By the use of the Royal Baking Powder the crust is always rendered light, flaky, tender and digestible. Dumplings made with it, baked or boiled, will be dainty and wholesome, and may be eaten steaming hot with perfect impunity.

RECIPE.—One quart of flour; thoroughly mix with it three teaspoons of Royal Baking Powder and a small teaspoon of salt; rub in a piece of butter or lard the size of an egg, and then add one large spoonful of the flour; after the butter is well mixed, stir in milk and knead to the consistency of soft biscuit dough; break off pieces of dough large enough to close over four quarters of an apple (or other fruit as desired) without rolling, and lay in an earthen dish (or enamel) and steam until the fruit is tender. Bake if preferred.

In all receipts calling for cream of tartar and soda, substitute Royal Baking Powder. Less trouble, never fails, makes more appetizing and wholesome food and is more economical. Royal Baking Powder is specially made for use in the preparation of the finest and most delicate cookery.
