When drowsy Day draws round his downy bed
The Tyrian tapestries of gold and red,
And, weary of his flight,
Puts out the palace light
Tis night!

When languid Night, awakening with a Leaps down the moon-washed stairway of the dawn, In trailing disarray, Sweeping the dews away-'Tis day!

IN MEMORY OF Mrs. AMITTIE VENTERS

BY ONE WHO LOVED HER.

Lofty woo away her breath. Gentle Death: Let her leave us with no strife, Tender, patient, simple life; She has seen her happy day, And has gone from us away. Earth, into thy silent bosom We have placed our cherished Mother.

Thou hast done thy bidding here, Mother Dear, And thy perfect soul's above, With the God thou'st ever loved, Good thou wert and fair in youth, And thy heart was wed to truth. Take her, God, for evermore,— We will meet her on the other shore, Our Angel Mother.

The Hawks Held the Fort.

We saw a good many fish hawks through the woods we traversed, and examined with interest their nests of broken sticks. Many Jersey money will not tempt them to shoot given. a hawk. Near Cape May Court House, within a stone's throw of the waters of the bay, in a stunted pine treetop, is a fish hawk's nest built in 1892. Several times either he male or female bird has been killed by some adventurous gunner, but the fittest surviving bird soon got himself another "crest" and another mate, and began punctually in the spring restoring and rebuilding the old nest, multiplying promptly and replenishing the brood of young hawks.

At Fishing Creek one of these fish devourers built its nest years ago in the chimney of a fisherman's two story cabin. The smoke did not annoy the birds, young or old. But the bawks were a nuisance to the family of the jolly fisherman. Every device save a loaded shotgun was used to get rid of the nest and its owners. The fisherman was too superstitious to kill the birds, and the unequal contest betwen the fisherman and the fish hawk ended 10 42 10 45 by the family deserting their cabin 10 08 10 18 home, and the birds still rear and 8 35 8 50 feed their young in the old chimney top of the deserted cabin year by year .- Forest and Stream.

ldeas-Original and Extended.

Original ideas may be so enlarged upon and viewed through such different channels of thought that the result arrived at is often robbed of nearly all semblance of the original idea; and thus it is that we are 4 55 5 10 too apt to look upon men who are 4 24 4 80 mere extenders of ideas as though they were original thinkers-the very fountains from which spring the germs of original thoughtwhen, in truth, they are original only in the secondary views which they take of established ideas.

When a branch from a pear tree is grafted on the limb of an apple 7 15 ree, this branch will yield pears. Is it to be argued from this that the same sap which produces apples on the other branches of the tree does not produce pears on this branch? Just as the sap of the apple tree nourishes the pears through the medium of the branch of the pear tree, so the original idea feeds the mind of the inventor of secondary ideas, and the mental truit takes on the characteristics of his mind.

A Woman's Discovery. "Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she stood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. steep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. Eing's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she sept all night and with one bottle has been miraculansly cured. W. D. Suit, Druggist, Bippus, ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every tase." One man took six bottles and was cured of Rheumatiam of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohlo, affirms: "The best selling medicine I ever handled in my 30 years' experience is Electric Bitters."
