industry, and working men in every locality feel oppression as a mounthis weight crushing out their energies and wasting their substance. Why is this ? Every Congress is governed by its own rules. It is usual, on the meeting of Congress, to pass a resolution declaring the rules of the List Congress in force until the adoption of rules by the sitting Congress, but no such affairs in the result. The Speaker tuons manhood.

is the supreme dictator and acknowledges no rule but his own despotic will. In the language of the Washington Post, "It is the duty, as it should be the pleasure, of all right minded members on both sides of the chamber to end this partisan and unprofitable contention at once, by insisting upon a committee on

It is just to Nicolay and Hay to say that their account has the semblance of impartiality, in asmuch as they give the version of Mr. Reagan, Confederate Postmaster General, and copious extracts from the writings of Mr. Davis and General Johnston; but, on the whole, their article is misleading, and places the Confederate chieftain in an attitude incompatible with his character and inconsistent with the known lacts of history. The Federal Generals give long details of the disposition of troops necessary to accomplish the grand aches and fevers and cures habitual event that is to place them among constipation. Syrup of Figs is the the conquering beroes of the world. The movements of divisions, the mustering of squadrons, the vigorous pursuit, the indomitable resolve, the impetuous charge and the glorious victory are all described.

It is not a matter of importance how Mr. Davis was dressed that dark night, when alone he met the flower of the Federal army, and in r. sponse to the order to"surreuder," shouted back his proud defiance. The country, the whol- country, will not be agreed on this question of dress, but so long as memory lives and honor has a home in the South, the statement of Mr. Davis will be accepted, as consistant action has been taken, and the with his character for truth, and present disgraceful condition of every quality of a noble and virjority will continue their revolutionary, measures cannot be conjectured, but it is probable that they will tale with an iron hand natil they have consummated their purpose of seating contesting Republicans in defiance of every prir. ciple of justice and right.

That the people will sanction such usurpation we do not believe, and we look to the future for the complete condemnation of the Reputlient party and its revolutionary methods.

DAVIS-THE END OF THE RE-BELLION.

The Century Magazine has decided merit, but punlished as it is ing moustache, and a stupendous in the city of New York, and rely- beard, which flows over his chest. ing for its support chiefly on the North, it is favorable to that section on all questions involved in the late war between the States. It is true that its columns have been open to the writers of all sections, and some of the highest tributes to the soldiery of the South have appeared in its pages.

The February number of this popular magazine contains two articles of special interest to the people of the South. One of these is on "The Capture of Jefferson Davis-The End of the Rebellion," by John G. Nicolay and John Hay, private secretaries of the President, and the other is on the "Pursuit and Capture of Jefferson Davis," by Gen. James Harrison Wilson and William P. Stedman.

The first is a chapter in the life of Abraham Lincoln, which has for many months been in preparation by his private secretaries, and is intended to magnify his name.

The other is from the Federal Generals, who with all the soldiery of the Federal Government at their command, stimulated by the offer of one hundred thousand dollars in Id. and whatever Confederate more might be found-amount- 1 100 Doses One Dollar cumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can CU It Be

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofnlous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a Figeon's egg, became arunning sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely dis appeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J. N. B.
