THE House special committee on World's Fair has reported in favor of holding an international exposition 1892.

THE beneficent system of Protection fails sometimes. It enables the Western farmers to burn their corn to keep from freezing, but it does not enable the coal miners to eat their coal to keep from starving. —Chicago Herald.

NEVER in all the heat of party contests in past years, and some of them have been pretty hot, has there been a Congress which was governed in the same lawless, arbitrary fashion that the present Congress has been governed. —Wilmington Star.

UNTIL the people of North Carolina make up their minds to select a representative as they do any other agent to represent them in an important business transaction, there can be little hope of this State's representation securing a front rank in Congress. —Charlotte Chronicle.

PARNELL wins. The London News says: "The report amounts to a practical acquittal. The commissioners have vindicated at once the character of the Irish leaders and the integrity of the English bench. Thus the basis 'Parnellism and Crime,' with the hideous super-structures raised upon it, disappears from view."

THE North Carolina penitentiary farm on the Roanoke river is assuming large proportions. The general supervisor reports that the new quarters for the convicts are nearly ready. There are 190 hands on the farm, 70 on the Halifax side and 120 on the Northampton side. They will work 75 horses, will plant 1,000 acres in cotton, 800 acres in corn, 400 acres in clover, 400 acres in oats, and have now 100 acres in wheat, besides some rye and clover already in. —Baltimore Sun.

THE planters in upper Halifax and lower Warren are getting stirred, in the matter of negro agents and their designs, and they are making it somewhat lively for these terrors to the farmers. The Messenger foresaw and forewarned that if these nuisances pertinaciously continued their work that they would seriously injure the farmers. It was therefore urged that after January the work of tolling off had been made and gathered, or that would be great embarrassments and loss visited upon the farmers of the State. But driven from the New Berne section they turn up in the Halifax-Warren section, and seem bent on working their scheme in spite of protest or injury. The people are long suffering up to a given point, and when that is gone beyond look out. —Wilmington Messenger.

The Board of Trustees of New Berne Academy have appointed a committee who will endeavor to negotiate the sale of the Academy property on the corner of Pollock and Craven streets to the Government, to be used as a site for the public building. The property belongs to the New Berne Academy and the funds derived from the sale could and would probably be invested in such a way as to increase the income of school money.

NEW BERNE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

An Educational Institution for Eastern North Carolina.

Not many days since we visited the New Berne Collegiate Institute (formerly High School). We spent the greater part of the day's session in the different rooms and departments, noting the character and progress of the work. Professor G. T. Adams, the efficient and energetic principal, accompanied us through the various rooms and enabled us to get an insight into the work which is being done in this school. From observation of the methods employed and from our acquaintance with the thoroughness of the work, we take pleasure in saying that we believe one of our fondest hopes is beginning to be realized—that New Berne may have a first class school, where the children of the city and of Eastern North Carolina may obtain a thorough academic education; an institution which our people may feel proud of and unhesitatingly support.

Each morning, a few minutes before the day's work is begun, the entire school assembles in the large front room (down stairs) on the left hand side of the building, where singing is engaged in and prayer is offered by the principal. There is no better way to begin the day than with vocal music, for if there is anything that will make the heart cheerful and give one a pleasant humor, it is singing; and when more than a hundred voices join in sweet song it is indeed good to hear. They were singing as we entered the building.

After music, prayer, calling of the roll, etc., is over, the students march to their respective rooms and recitations begin.

First, we visited Prof. Adams' room, where a class in Latin were reciting. Prof. Adams is teacher of ancient languages and natural sciences. He was graduated Bachelor of Arts from Trinity College. He is a young man full of energy, talented as a teacher, popular with patrons and students, and with a thorough Christian gentleman. His classes, of course, receive the instruction which is the natural outcome of the efforts of a teacher of his qualifications.

From this room we went into hear a class in reading recite to Prof. Bragaw. Prof. Bragaw is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina. He is teacher of English literature, reading, spelling and physical culture. The class was reading Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," which is Shakespeare simplified, so that it is a study very interesting and profitable to the class. The course of English classics also includes Kingsley's "Greek Heroes" Church's "Stories of the Old World," Scott's "Tales of a Grandfather," Scott's "Lady of the Lake," "Robinson Crusoe," and Irving's "Sketch Book." Professor Bragaw is thoroughly competent, has the gift of interesting his pupils in the subject, and is altogether modern in his methods. All of his classes seemed to be making good progress.

In Miss Mary L. Allen's room we found a class of beginners in Algebra, who, having taken up the study at the beginning of the term, were very far advanced for the time devoted to it, and were progressing finely. Having mastered the principles of Algebra, they were advancing steadily, with a comprehensive knowledge of that part of the subject which they had been over. Miss Allen also teaches the modern languages, history and geography. A young lady of recognized talent as a teacher, of most lovable disposition, we think the principal could not have easily secured the services of one better qualified to preside over this department. She was graduated with high honors from Peace Institute.

Next, we visited Mrs. A. B. Ferebee's room, the primary department. It was interesting to hear the recitations of the younger children, and to see with what rapidity of understanding the young minds grasped the subjects, under Mrs. Ferebee's instruction. Blackboards and slates are used a great deal in this department. The children begin to read and write at the same time, and the way some of them could answer questions in mental arithmetic was astonishing. "What is 4 plus 3, plus 9, minus 6, plus 2?" "Twelve!" the answer would come immediately. Mrs. Ferebee is well known in New Berne. She is beloved by all the children and she has wonderful control over them in the school room.

From this department we went to Professor George W. Neal's room. Mr. Neal is Professor of mathematics. We found an advanced class in arithmetic reciting. Prof. Neal has a reputation as a teacher of mathematics which no testimony we may add will magnify. Having graduated from the University of North Carolina in her palmiest days, having taught for more than thirty years, he is qualified for the position as few men are.

Mr. J. E. Patrick, tutor in intermediate department, had a class in United States history when we visited his room. He had a very interesting class in this important branch. Mr. Patrick is a teacher of merit and fills very satisfactorily his position in the school.

We then visited the art department, in charge of Miss Aurora Mace, a graduate from Cooper's Institute. This is a new department and an addition to New Berne schools. We were not more pleased with any feature of the school than this. We know that the value of the study of drawing and painting is not properly appreciated by many. But it is certainly a most excellent training for the hand and eye and it cultivates the power of concentrating thought. Painting and drawing is an accomplishment very desirable and useful, too. The progress made by some of the students was remarkable. It is a very interesting study. Miss Mace is an excellent teacher, and her paintings have received high praise.

The older and more advanced students of the school have a literary society, from which they of course derive much pleasure and great benefit. We are glad to know that the school is becoming more widely known and more popular day by day.

Not the least thing we can say about the New Berne Collegiate Institute is that it is progressive. We have said above that the faculty is efficient.

There is no reason why New Berne should not become the educational centre for all the surrounding counties.

Take Care! There is Danger

In allowing inactivity of the kidneys to grow through neglect. The deadly shoals of Bright's disease and diabetes will wreck the goodly bark of health if it is allowed to drift rudderless upon them. The bladder, too, if inactive, and judicious medication does not speedily direct the helm toward the port of safety, will be whelmed by the quicksand of disease. In selecting a diuretic, let your choice fall upon Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which stimulates the renal organs without irritating and exciting them, two effects to be apprehended from the unmoderated stimulant largely resorted to. These have a tendency to react prejudicially. The Bitters invigorates the kidneys and bladder, in common with the nerves and the digestive organs, and so affords lasting aid. It also affords dual assistance in preventing and curing intermittent and remittent fever. Biliousness, constipation and rheumatism it also subjugates.

A CENTURY of progress has not produced a remedy equal to Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh, cold in the head and hay fever. It is not a liquid or a snuff, but is perfectly safe and easily applied into the nostrils. It gives immediate relief and cures the worst cases.
