"THE POLITICAL SPEAK EASY."

The Washington Post, of March 4, has a leader on what it terms "The Political Speak Easy." It says:

"Governor Boies' inaugural address is not pleasing to the Democratic press. The Governor's acknowledgment that he was not elected on strict party issues, and his announcement that he intends to be very liberal in his administration is not what was expected of him. In other words, the Democratic press would have Iowa's new Democratic Governor boldly assert Democratic principles, and not resort to the "speak easy" methods to curry favor with the opposition."

A great many of those who voted for Governor Boies were Republicans, and had been Republicans all their lives. It would have been very ungenerous, not to say ungentlemanly, for the Governor to have anathematized those to whom he was indebted for his election. He conducted his canvass upon the idea that a great many of those who had been Republicans would vote for him, otherwise his canvass would have been senseless, for from the beginning Iowa had been a Republican State. Now because the Governor is courteous to those who left the Republican colors and mustered under the Democratic flag, he is called a "Speak Easy," and we are told that he was not elected on "strict Democratic principles."

We fail to see anything in the inaugural address of Governor Boies that does not accord with strict Democratic principles. It is a straightforward, manly State paper, courteous in tone and devoted to the interests of the people of Iowa.

Many of us remember when the flag of the gallant old Whig party was withdrawn from the political field, the followers of Henry Clay in the South came trooping to the Democratic lines. They came, not as the conquered come, but as heroic patriots to join in holy alliance with their Democratic brethren in defense of their homes, their honor and their liberties. Forgetting past differences, they formed the body-guard that stood by the Constitution and the Union and defended them at all hazards and to the last extremity.

As the Jackson Democrats welcomed the Clay Whigs, so the Democrats of today are ready to welcome those Republicans who swear allegiance to a restored Union, dispensing its blessings to all citizens of the Republic.

It is in this way only that the Democracy can hope to win. Any other policy bars the gates against repentant Republicans, and the still larger number who without repugnance see in Democratic measures the surest promise of the future.

The Northwest is coming. We hear the tramp of her battalions, and see the gleam of the stars on her flag. Her sons have been Republicans, but we welcome them as brethren of a common ancestry moving on to a common destiny. No words of reproach, no assumption of superiority, shall hinder them, but we will "speak easy" to them, and say, "This is our father's house and we are brethren."

Whenever before in this country was it regarded a reproach to "speak easy?" Among barbaric tribes and in savage wilds rudeness may be becoming, but in Christian lands and among civilized people gentleness should be supreme.

Self-Defeat.
While in India, Captain Marryat, the novelist, was intensely interested in the devotion and self-denial of a huge elephant. The beast was defending himself from swarms of mosquitoes, using a large branch to keep them from the crannies and cracks of his thick hide.

His persecutors were still annoying him greatly, as was evident from his motions, when his keeper appeared with a little child. This he laid down before the animal, saying, "Watch it!" and walked away.

The elephant immediately broke off a small whisk from the large bough, and, instead of fanning himself, directed his attention to driving away every mosquito from the infant. He continued this until the keeper returned, two hours after, thus settling, though a brute, an example of devotion which few men would have imitated.

True practical philosophy makes the most of little pleasures, and the most of everything.

ITS EXCELLENT QUALITIES
Command to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. It is pleasing to the eye, and to the taste, and by gently acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

Courtesy doesn't cost much, but it pays a mighty big interest on the investment.

Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELZA A. GORR, of Terrace Street, Boston.
