On Monday a resolution was offered in the Senate for the relief of the existing agricultural depression.

THE Oyster Bay Pilot nominates Mr. Cleveland for President in 1892. Only a few more votes are required.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A LARGE number of Senators were examined Monday before the committee investigating the leaks of the executive sessions.

GEN. OLINGTON B. FISK insists that the Prohibition party is stronger than ever before, and that it will put a candidate in the field for the Presidential canvass of 1892.

It matters not what makeshift the Republicans adopt now to prolong their hold on power, they cannot long delay the dissolution of their party.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SENATOR BLAIR predicts disaster to the Republican party in case his educational bill fails to become a law. The Senator's predictions are not calculated to attract Democratic support to his measure.

A LEVEE, near Arkansas City, Ark., broke Saturday afternoon causing the overflow of a large extent of country: it is stated that four or five parishes of Louisiana will be completely submerged.—Wilmington Star.

THERE should be at least four cotton mills here. There should be fully fifty manufacturing attending to the smaller industries. Look at Richmond, Va., with its nearly 800 factories. Head and copy.—Wilmington Messenger.

JUST one short year ago today, Benjamin Harrison became President of the United States, but it would take ten years for him to crawl back the distance he has fallen in public estimation during the time he has been in office.—Milwaukee Journal.

THE people of some of the Iowa towns having cleaned out the Republicans at the late elections are now giving their attention to other amusements. In the town of Milton, the other day, they turned out and slaughtered four thousand rats.—Wilmington Star.

THE fact that a poor old woman, eighty years of age, should be found in the very heart of the National Capital, lying sick and helpless, and being gradually eaten up by rats, may have no bearing on the Siberian exile question, but it shows that there are some horrors nearer home that are at least worth thinking about.—Washington Post.

Of course, what chief who expects the Rada in the Senate to be more honorable or more just than the Rada in the House, and all know how every abandoned and unprincipled they are putting in the Radical Senators not elected from Montana is precisely on a par with Radical states and sense of right and justice. It is a set of robbers—robbing the people of their representation and robbing them of their money.—Exchange.

YET the majority of the people are not prosperous. The farmers do not thrive. Satisfactory wages in the cities are offset by the high cost of living. A more equitable system of taxation, the abolition of all unnecessary taxes, the utilization by the people for their own benefit of public rights and the denial to individuals of public grants—these reforms would relieve the pressure which has become intolerable on the shoulders of the many and would check the growth of great fortunes in the left hands of the few. The Astors, the Vanderbilts, the Goulds and Rockefellers have done very well under the present arrangement. Now it is quite time for the people to have their inning.—Chicago News.

Twenty-Eight Years Ago.

Today and tomorrow are memorable days in the history of New Berne. On the evening of the 12th of March, 1862, the signals announced the appearance of the long expected flotilla of the enemy in the river below. On the 13th Gen. Burnside was engaged in landing his troops at Slocum's creek and carefully feeling his way to the Atlantic and N. C. Railroad and thence up the line until he should encounter the Confederate defences. In the city all was bustle and hurry; troops were concentrating on the line of defences. Supplies were being shipped on transports to move up the river if need be; citizens were fleeing by various routes to supposed places of safety.

At an early hour on the 14th the attack was made and after a hot contest the line was turned or broken and the city in a few hours lay uncovered and was taken possession of by the combined army and naval forces.

The effect of that day has been various in the history of individuals; but a quarter of a century has not obliterated the deep marks made on the fortunes of some nor will still another like period have entirely done so.

Death of Ex-Congressman Taulbee.

Those who have kept up with the Washington news have seen accounts of the shooting of W. P. Taulbee, a representative from the tenth Kentucky district in the 49 and 50th Congress, by Charles E. Kincaid, the Washington correspondent of the Louisville Times, in the House wing of the Capitol, on the afternoon of February 28. Since the shooting Taulbee has been in a critical condition, and on Tuesday morning died. A brief recital of the causes which led to the tragedy is as follows: About two years ago, while Taulbee was a member of Congress, Kincaid telegraphed to his paper reports which were damaging to the character of Taulbee. The reports, however, appeared in Washington papers before they were sent to the Louisville Times. Since the reports appeared in the Times, there has been serious antagonism between Taulbee and Kincaid. Kincaid had avoided Taulbee, but usually they met on the day of the shooting. The stories of the shooting differ in one important particular. Kincaid and Taulbee had had an encounter some time prior to the shooting in the corridor adjoining the hall of the House of Representatives on the east. It was said just after the shooting took place that Kincaid had armed himself after his first encounter with Taulbee, and seeing him go down the stairs that led to the basement, had run after him, called to him, and, as he turned, shot him in the face. Kincaid claims that he armed himself in fear of danger from a further encounter with Taulbee; that Taulbee had warned him to arm himself, and that Taulbee insulted and attacked him on their second encounter, rendering in his opinion resort to the pistol a necessity. The theory of self defence will be set up by Kincaid's lawyer. As soon as the news of Taulbee's death reached police headquarters, an officer was sent to Kincaid's room. He was awakened, and after he had dressed, was taken to the police station, where he now is.

CAROLINA

Wilmington outlook now is for a bright future here this spring. Our prospects are not only hopeful, but confident.

Mount Airy News: We believe the census will show 2,000 inhabitants at Mount Airy. Our town is growing. New families are coming in almost daily. By 1900 we expect to have 5,000 or 6,000.

In Lincoln county, Friday, an eight year old son of Pinckney Smith fell and his teeth out his tongue. Bleeding began and it was impossible to stop it. In a short while the child bled to death.

A negro died near Whitakers recently of a disease which the physicians pronounced leprosy. The disease appeared a short while after he slept in a blanket which had been used on a diseased horse.

A report on the Western Insane Asylum at Morganton was made Saturday. There are 484 patients in the institution. These are supported at a per capita expense of $187.60 per year. Improvements are being made and all necessary repairs are kept up without exceeding the annual appropriation.

Fayetteville Scottish Chief: Who invented the first telephone? If this question is asked in any audience on our land, the answer will be Edison! Yet this is not true, for the first telephone used in the United States was invented by Dr. James Davis, of Fayetteville. He also invented the first phonograph. This matter was fully ventilated some years ago in the Fayetteville Gazette. The original models are yet in the possession of Dr. Davis' daughter. Dr. Davis was a native of Philadelphia, but resided in North Carolina for a long period prior to his death.

Goldsboro Argus: There was exultant, thrilling happiness among the congregation of St. Paul's M. E. church in this city at the Sunday morning service. There has been a debt of $1,900 hanging over the church ever since its completion, and on Sunday the pastor, Rev. B. E. Hall, after preaching a most eloquent, earnest and stirring sermon, made an appeal to the members of his charge to pay off this debt and free the house of God from the encumbrances of the world. Although there was not a full attendance of the congregation yet the canvass that followed resulted in raising nearly $3,800—more than was necessary. So much for the Christian charity that pervades the congregation of St. Paul's and the earnest, effective ministry of its faithful and popular pastor.

Raleigh News and Observer: We learn that Chas. E. Cross is quite sick with the "grippe" at the old Government barracks near the eastern city limits, where the workhouse hands are quartered. His condition is quite serious. There was much talk on the streets yesterday about the old colored man who offered to serve out the term of Charles E. Cross at the workhouse. An old family servant of Cross has arrived here and went to see his young master Sunday at the workhouse. He said that if an arrangement could be made to that effect, he would serve out the seven years' sentence in his stead. Of course it is impossible that such an arrangement could be made, as there is no such law in existence in this State.

Durant's Island, in Dare county, belonging to the State Public School Fund, has just been sold by the State Board of Education to Hon. John E. Reyburn, Congressman from the fourth district of Pennsylvania, who is the successor of Congressman Kelley, and one of the wealthiest men in Pennsylvania. The island was purchased at the rate of $1.00 per acre, as was proposed by the Board of Education at its meeting on Tuesday, the terms having been agreed to by Congressman Reyburn through his agent, Mr. R. M. Evans, who has been here several days negotiating for the purchase of the property, he having paid a recent visit to the island. The grounds abound in all kinds of wild game, English snipe, quail, bear, and various wild animals. The fishing grounds afforded are unsurpassed and are equal to any along Albemarle Sound. There also abound on the island myriads of wild geese, wild duck and swans. Congressman Reyburn's object in purchasing the island is to establish there handsome winter quarters for himself and friends which they will occupy while on hunting expeditions on the island. He will apply to the Legislature for a charter similar to those granted to the sporting clubs on Currituck Sound. Congressman Reyburn has already purchased a handsome steam yacht in anticipation of establishing his club house on Durant's island. It is built and equipped to accommodate eleven persons and draws only three feet of water. It will be used as a pleasure yacht for fishing and gunning.—A meeting of the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy will be held in this city on Tuesday, March 18th, for the examination of applicants for license to practice pharmacy. Particulars may be had of the secretary of the board, Mr. William Simpson, Raleigh, N. C.

Terrible Suffering—Rescue of Two Seamen.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 9.—The schooner Blanche, which has arrived from the Grand Banks, had on board Edward Fogarty and Wm. Wilson, members of the crew of the schooner Nellie G. Thurston, who were picked up in a dory. They went ashore February 27th, while attending to their duties during a thick fog. The weather continued thick for five days. Their feet, hands and tongue also became swollen, and they lay in the dory and prayed for death to relieve their sufferings. They had three raw fish in the dory which they tried to eat but were made sick. They became delirious and had about made up their minds to jump overboard and end their sufferings when the Blanche rescued them.

A Woman in White Walks for a Mile in Her Sleep.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Policeman John Stuart, of the Thirtieth street squad, saw an apparition this morning. An hour before daybreak he saw standing at the ladies' entrance to the Fifth Avenue Hotel the tall figure of a woman attired in a white night-gown, with ruffles, and a wrapper thrown loosely over it. The woman had on hat and shoes, and carried in one hand a riding whip, just as the officer swung his club.

The policeman spoke: "What are you doing here?" and touched her shoulder. At the voice and touch the woman gave a sudden start and woke up. Then with a shriek she dropped at the policeman's feet. Seeing herself suddenly revealed in the role of a sleep-walker had almost undone her.

When she recovered enough to walk the policeman took her down to Captain Kelly's station house, where she was fitted out with a dress and proper clothing to keep her warm. She was benumbed with cold.

To the sergeant she said that she was May Case, an opera singer, and lived at 21 Great Jones street. The last she remembered was going to bed and to sleep in her own room.

In the early morning hours she had arisen, put on her hat and shoes, and gone up Broadway, probably all the way to Madison Square, without knowing what she was doing and without meeting on her whole route a policeman to wake her up. Her route lay through two precincts, the Fifteenth and Nineteenth, and she went over the posts of at least a dozen or fifteen patrolmen, whom she failed to encounter, unless, indeed, she frightened them from her path. The sergeant sent her home!

COMMENDABLE.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure-all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

After an Absence of Nearly Thirty Years.

OSHKOSH, Wis., March 10.—Fritz Jabush walked into the house of his relatives in this city yesterday afternoon, after an absence of nearly thirty years. The story he told was a most romantic one, for he had long been mourned as dead. In 1862 Mr. Jabush enlisted in the army and went to the front. His relatives heard from him regularly until in the summer of 1863, when his letters ceased after a battle in which his regiment had been engaged. His parents, of course, supposed him dead.

He now states that he was left for dead on the battlefield, was found by rebel troops, placed in a hospital, and when he recovered was imprisoned at Libby prison. Here he remained over a year until exchanged, and he found himself on the Atlantic coast without money and hundreds of miles from home. He shipped on board a merchantman for the East Indies as a common seaman, and has followed the sea ever since. He has acquired a competency, and decided to settle down in his old home.

For bracing up the nerves, purifying the blood and curing sick headache and dyspepsia, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla.
