"As a Senator, Mr. Harrison had somewhat of independence; as a President, he is thoroughly partisan."

HON. SAMUEL J. RANDALL is dead. He died at his home in Washington City last Sunday morning.

"WHEN the tariff tinkers got to fooling with the tariff they struck a puzzle that knocks the bottom out of the pigs in clover."

WHAT profiteth the Grand Old Party to be so assiduous in making new states, when the old States are so fast slipping through its hands?—Phil. Record.

If the Service Pension bill is passed President Harrison will be entitled to a pension of $8 a month. This shows what an outrageous thing the bill is.

A THOUSAND men and women will take hold of a rope a mile long and draw the statue of Robert E. Lee into Richmond—to show their devotion to his memory.

It begins to look as if the Republican Ways and Means Committee will have to place a prohibitive duty on Democratic election returns to prevent them from coming in.—Wash. Star.

Ex President Hayes owns poultry and devotes much time to raising eggs. His friend, Mr. McKinley, has put an import duty on eggs, in order to destroy all competition by the pauper hens of Europe with the home products of ex-Presidential hens.—Little Rock Gazette.

THE government report of the condition of winter wheat estimates the average over the entire area at 31 against 91 the same date last year, on which basis, considering the increased acreage, the crop would indicate a yield of about $37,000,000 bushels less than last year.—Wilmington Star.

DELEGATIONS from the New York Produce and Cotton Exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, and the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, were present yesterday before the House Committee on Agriculture, to protest against the passage of the bill to prevent dealing in options and futures.

THE news of last Tuesday's election, like good wine, improves with age, and grows more gloriously Democratic as the details become more fully known. For the first time in four years Kansas City has elected a Democratic Mayor, and in order that there may be no mistake about the significance of the result Mr. Holmes is given a majority of nearly 2,000 votes. Niagara Falls is to be added to the list of New York municipalities that have rebuked Quayism, and there is scarcely a local government in any State where Spring elections have been held in which Republican power has not been decreased.—No. York Virginian.

Jesse Brown was taken to Raleigh yesterday, to be confined in the penitentiary for life.

All persons taking part in the Song Tournament are requested to meet this evening (Tuesday) at eight o'clock at Mr. C. E. Slover's.

Mr. Seth Fisher, who has been at Nag's Head for sometime, returned to the city on Saturday and reported an immense catch of blue fish at that place one day last week. Over five thousand were caught in two hours. A New York gentleman offered thirty cents a piece for the lot. Mr. Fisher brought with him one of the largest we ever saw.

Shipping News.
Steamer Kinston arrived from upper Neuse yesterday and will return today. The steamer Newberne, of the O. D. line, will sail this morning at 9 o'clock for Norfolk.

Personal.
Mr. C. C. Clark, jr., who has been in the city for two or three weeks visiting relatives and friends, returned to Knoxville, Tenn., yesterday.

Mrs. I. L. Chestnut is visiting friends and relatives in Greene county. Miss Laverna Dixon, of Greene, who has been visiting Mrs. Chestnut, returned with her.

The Fire on Sunday Morning.
About 4 o'clock Sunday morning the fire bell sounded in answer to an alarm of fire from West End. The fire department responded promptly to the call and found the fire on Forbes Alley in the western suburbs of the city.

Three small dwelling houses were burned. They were occupied by colored people, one by Cape Anderson, one by Abram Pew, and the other by Richard Nelson. The residents lost about all of their household goods. The fire started in Nelson's house, and he lost all of his property and barely escaped with the lives of his wife and children. The origin of the fire is not known. Another house next to those burned caught fire, but was saved with little damage. The firemen found it difficult to get water, the cause of which should be prevented in the future.

Not Satisfied With Texas.
Occasionally we hear of families becoming restless and threatening to sell out and tear away from their native habitations for other lands where greater prosperity abounds and the means of a livelihood not so difficult to obtain. The following item, taken from the Kinston Free Press, bears out the fact that "all is not gold that glitters":

"We are sorry to learn that some of the white people who left here some time ago for Texas are doing no better, if so well, as they could have done here. They receive some more wages for work, but have to work harder and it costs more to live out there. North Carolina is the best State in the Union, everything considered. What is needed is for the people to go to work and develop her natural resources, in agriculture and manufacturing."

In this day there is no land of milk and honey. Every locality has its drawbacks as well as its advantages. This is just as applicable to Texas as North Carolina or any other State in the Union for that matter. Eastern North Carolina has been unfortunate for the last seven years in having her agricultural products cut off from one cause or another, but it has not been without its reward. The people have been forced to abandon their ways of luxury and waste and live more economically.

It is now believed that the tide of adversity has reached its limit and that a rebound is imminent. There is more than a living promised every man in North Carolina who is willing to work for it and prove it by his actions. The Texas and Kansas fever is generally worked up by speculators and schemers who are interested more in their own pockets than those in whom they seem to be so solicitous about in getting away. The wise man will be cautious how he disposes of his goods to seek better lands. With pluck and energy and the disposition to live within one's means, there need be no fear of an independent support in our beloved and honored State.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.
Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children's teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle. July

STORMS IN PAMLICO SOUND.

Capt. J. W. Hill Drowned—Narrow Escape of Others.

News of the drowning of Capt. John W. Hill, of Washington, N. C., was received in the city on Sunday. The particulars of the drowning, as we learned, are as follows: Capt. Hill was master of the schooner P. Cora. On Thursday it was sailing in Pamlico sound, off the coast of Hyde county, when a squall came up. About sundown, when at Bluff shoals, Capt. Hill attempted to make anchor. He had no one on the vessel with him but a boy. He was lowering the anchor himself, when his feet became entangled in the "buoy" rope, which was attached to the anchor chain, and, being unable to extricate himself, the anchor dragged him overboard and under the water, and held him fast. There was no one to help him, and even if there had been men on the vessel it is very doubtful whether they could have saved him. He never arose to the top of the water. The boy hoisted a signal of distress, and on the next morning help came. The anchor was raised and the dead body of Capt. Hill was still in the rope. He was taken to Washington. He was a brother of the late Capt. William Hill, of this city. It is said that a terrific wind prevailed in the sound on that day.

We saw Capt. Caffey, of the steamer Tahoma, yesterday. He left Ocracoke on Saturday morning for New Berne. After sailing a few miles out he discovered a large barge, the "Vision," of Philadelphia, half sunk and deserted. She had no cargo, and the anchor, chains, hawsers, etc., were gone. Further on, just this side of Brant Island, the two-mast schooner "Damasus," of Georgetown, bound to New Berne, was found on the shoals. She showed a distress signal and the Tahoma went to her, pulled her off and towed her to the city. The Captain and crew were all aboard. The schooner was not damaged, but was in a dangerous place.

Mr. Thomas Coakley, superintendent of the oyster factory, went down to Portsmouth last Wednesday on business and returned on Sunday. On Thursday he had an awful experience in the storm. He and Mr. Archie Mason, of Portsmouth, had been to Harbor Island and were returning when the storm struck them. It was about 7 o'clock. They were in a small boat and were three miles from shore. The wind blew a terrific gale and upset the boat, turning it bottom side up. Mr. Coakley and Mr. Mason clung to the boat. The sea became very heavy and it was hard for them to keep their holds. The boat was dashed violently about, snatching them oftentimes under the water and almost tearing away from them. It seemed impossible for them to escape drowning. Yet they clung to the boat with all of their might and for life, for had they lost their holds it would have been death.

Mr. Mason grew weak and disheartened, but Mr. Coakley, while hope was almost fading, still determined to struggle till the last moment, and endeavored to cheer his companion. The boat was drifting toward the shoals, but it was a question whether they could undergo the struggle long enough to reach shallow water. For two hours and a half they lived in the water which was lashed to fury by the wind, and at last reached shallow water. Very nearly exhausted both were. Had Mr. Coakley not been a strong man with great power of endurance, he says he is confident that both would have been drowned. Mr. Mason was exhausted when they reached the shore, and Mr. Coakley had to assist him in the three miles they had to walk to reach Portsmouth. Mr. Coakley had on rubber boots and overcoat when the boat capsized. He managed to pull off his overcoat in the water and lost it.

The storm did considerable damage to small boats in the sound, but no other loss of life has been reported.

Dangers of Fire From Different Systems of Lighting.
A report from London on the statistics of fires in that city, shows the number of fires traced to the various methods of lighting. The figures for three years are as follows:

	1887.	1888	1889.	Totals.
Candles.....	143	118	186	891
Gas.....	188	197	209	594
Lamps.....	245	205	267	707
Electricity ..	0	1	3	3

The figures are remarkable, and although, of course, electricity is not in as extensive use as the other lighting agents, the fact that it has caused only three fires in three years shows that it is not an exceedingly dangerous method of domestic lighting. The destructive lamp does its work as thoroughly, it would seem, in England as it does in this country, and it would be hard indeed to find a report from any American city showing the same number of fires caused by candles.

Easter at St. John's Church, Jacksonville, Fla.

We clip the following from the Florida Times Union, as we know it will be of interest to the many friends of the Rev. gentleman mentioned:

At St. John's Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. V. W. Shields preached a powerful sermon at the morning service, on the resurrection of Christ, from 1 Corinthians, xv-13. "But if there be no resurrection of the dead then is Christ not risen." Clusters of lilies and spirea were artistically arranged back of the pulpit and a beautiful bank of white flowers in front of the lectern, while ivy and palms hung gracefully from the rail and rear wall.

In the afternoon, the annual choral celebration of Sunday school children took place, and, as usual, the church was filled to the doors with parents and friends to witness the beautiful ceremony. At 4:30 o'clock, the surpliced choir entered the front door and marched up the aisle, their boyish voices sweetly harmonizing in the grand old professional "Onward Christian Soldier." Then came the happy children, three hundred strong, the Sunday schools of the mother church and the two chapels, St. Mary's and St. John's. Each class was headed by its teacher and held aloft a silk banner inscribed with the name of the class. An Easter anthem was sung, the lesson read and an address given by the pastor. Several hymns were sung and an offering taken. The ceremony closed with a procession by the choir. In the evening Bishop Weed preached with his usual fire and eloquence from the text, "For as he thinketh in his heart so is he."—Proverbs xxiii, 7.

The impressive rite of confirmation was administered by the bishop to twenty-eight persons, mostly young people. Chief of Police Phillips was received into the church among the number. Mrs. W. W. Smith sang Holden's "Resurrection," with exquisite expression and purity and her clear and cultivated voice was never heard to better advantage than in this difficult selection.

Only one size, large bottle. Price $1.00. If you want the best toilet Soap get Clarke's Flax Soap, 25 cents. Ask F. S. Duffy, druggist, for these preparations.

NORTH CAROLINA.
North Carolina—lovely mother—Fair land of historic fame, We are stirred as by no other—At the mention of thy name!

Long thy stretch of proud Atlantic—Great thy stretch of mountain range, Sunny lands between, romantic, Happy homes and fruitful grange.

Thy sons, dear State, are patriotic, Thy daughters fair—from healthful clime, Thou first broke the chains despotic—At Mecklenburg—in olden time!

And throughout the Revolution Thy sons showed their deathless pluck For their freedom—Constitution—And loved land—in blows they struck!

Moore's Creek, Alamance and Guilford, Are names 'Tisants e'er will rue! In Mexico and 'gainst the late horde Thy sons proved their valor true.

Here, then, let us live contented—Cultivate the Arts of Peace, In Carolina—fair as Scotland—Framed like ancient Rome and Greece!

CAPT. D. McNEILL.

The Standard.
"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary medicines," said a well known physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be considered a standard medicine, and has won the position by its undoubted merit and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an alternative and tonic it has never been equalled."
