Regular advertisements will be collected promptly at the end of each month. Communications containing news of a discussion of local matters are solicited. No communication must be expected to be published that contains objectionable personalities or allusions to the name of the author; or that will make more than one column of text per day. Any person feeling aggrieved at any anonymous communication can obtain the name of author by application at this office and having witness to the grievance exists.

THE JOURNAL.

H. MARKER, Business Manager.
NEW BERNE, N. C., MAY 6, 1900

LABOR.

The first of May was observed as Labor Day very generally in this country and abroad. In Europe grave fears were entertained of outbreaks and possible revolutions, but, so far as reports have reached us, the day passed without serious disturbance. It is remarkable that the Powers look upon labor organizations with distrust, and hold armies ready to put down any demonstrations that may be attempted in their interest. This is indicative of serious fault in the administration of Government.

Labor, considered in its essence and usual concomitants, is conservative, and habitually directs its forces to the attainment of individual well-being and the good of communities and nations. In the nature of things peace is better suited to the success of labor than is war, and consequently working men are the friends and promoters of peace. Whenever labor becomes restless and shows a tendency to revolution it is evidence of the existence of tyranny in the governing power. This is equally true whether the injustice is on the part of capital or it is inflicted by the Government. There is no oppression more intolerable than the bondage which capital enforces with its mailed hand and iron heel. The movement to fix the number of hours that constitute a labor day accords with the fitness of things. If wages are uniform the period of work should also be uniform. If custom prescribes a dollar for a day's work, it should also determine the length of time the workman is to be employed. Capitalists say that custom has established ten hours as a "labor day." Workingmen reply that ten hours "on the job" is too exacting in that it does not leave time for the proper discharge of the duties that every man owes to himself, his family and society. The capitalist rejoins and says, "very well, work but eight hours if you like, but in that event, you must be satisfied with eight hours pay. But the workingman insists that there should be no reduction in pay, because more work will be done by a vigorous and contented man in eight hours than can be done by a tired and dissatisfied man in ten hours.

Whatever may be the cause it is evident that labor is not reaping its legitimate reward. In no department of industry is the laboring man satisfied with his wages. This is to be deprecated. The sooner Government and capital recognize their obligations to the workmen of the country the better it will be for all parties.

The Best Feed for Cows.

We cannot too often repeat to inquirers after the best cow food, says an exchange, that no one food known will either keep or bring a cow up to the best work in butter-making. Short, fine, nutritious grass is as good or better than any other one thing, but the best of grass needs to be reinforced by grain. So the very best conceivable ration of grain needs to be reinforced by grass or some other excellent food, such as good corn ensilage.

Logic Will Not Do.

"Now if this world is ever brought to God it will not be by argument, but by testimony," said the Rev. Dr. Talmage in his sermon Sunday morning. His text was, "We are Witnesses." He said: "Cover the whole earth with apologies for Christianity and learned treatises on religion and they would not convert one soul. Put a real keen unbeliever in controversy with a genuine Christian man, and I should not wonder if, in the argument, the unbeliever was victorious. Our weapon in this contest is faith, not logic; faith, not metaphysics; faith, not profundity; faith, not scholastic exploration."

Dr. Talmage said that conversion was not an imaginary thing. They are witnesses and knew better. "There are hundreds of people here today," he continued, "who were no more what they once were than a dove is like a vulture. Now, if I should ask all in this assemblage who had felt the converting power of the grace of God to arise, they would not be ashamed, they would spring to their feet."

"I floundered around in the darkness, but after a while there came the dawn of peace in my soul, and though I have lived an unworthy life, I have felt the peace which passeth all understanding. I am a witness, and you are a witness. We are witnesses."—N. Y. Journal.

Train the Girls' Hands.

It is highly important, in educating a girl to be an efficient self-reliant woman, that her hand should be trained to be useful. Of course the details of her education should be arranged with regard to the social position which she will probably eventually occupy. In ordinary cases the hand should be as carefully trained as the brain; for, to fulfill the ordinary duties which fall to the lot of average women, a useful hand is absolutely necessary. Girls, who have the advantage of studying at our female colleges and high schools, do not, as a rule, belong to the wealthy and aristocratic circles where every domestic duty is performed by servants. The generality of such girls will not, when they are married, have a staff of servants and a housekeeper to look after them; they will have to be their own housekeepers for the most part, with probably only one or two servants under them. In such a household as this the wife must assist if all is to go well, and her head and hands must be the chart and helm of the domestic ship.

As an assistance in acquiring manual dexterity, such as is often required in house wifery, the teaching of some musical instrument is not to be overlooked. A trained hand can always perform its task, and, guided by an educated brain of average intelligence, will soon learn to perform any ordinary domestic necessity well.

The Cotton Factory.

The directors of the cotton factory have secured a lot containing seven acres of land, on the north side of the railroad, west of the depot, known as the Houston property, on which to build the factory. Work will begin on the building, we are informed, in about thirty days. The company has been incorporated, and will at once begin arrangements for the work. We are glad the matter is now in a shape to insure the factory, and we hope ere long to be able to announce that other factories will follow this one. We cannot afford to stand still. From every section of our State come up the most gratifying reports of progress in the line of industrial development. New enterprises are being inaugurated almost every day, and Monroe cannot afford to be behind.—Monroe Register.

Prairie Dogs' "Happy Family."

There is another old story now nearly entirely exploded. I refer to the happy family of the "prairie dog," the prairie owl and the rattlesnake all living in harmony in the same burrow. Of course they do nothing of the kind, but the marmots have to put up with these owls and snakes the best they can, precisely as we, in our large towns and communities, have to put up with our owls and snakes in human form—meeting and passing men every day of our lives who perhaps we know well to be sneaky thieves and cut-throats. It is said upon good authority that prairie marmots will even desert the burrow in which a big "rattler" enters, and even if small cobblestones be handy in the neighborhood of the entrance, deliberately seal it up with them, so that the snake cannot get out and must starve to death.—Forest and Stream.

More Manure and Less Land.

Cultivate less land if your manure heap is small. There is just as much lack of judgment in endeavoring to cover ten acres with the manure that should go on one acre as in using a lump of butter on ten slices of bread when it will only answer for one. Besides this, it takes more labor to spread the manure on ten acres than on one. Concentrate your labor, concentrate your crops without lessening the quantity.

The Potato Bug.

Either Paris green or London purple sprayed upon potato vines will kill the Colorado beetle as effectually as if dusted on them mixed with flour, lime or land plaster.

It is now pretty well settled that one half pound of Paris green or London purple to fifty gallons of water is sufficient. It needs to be kept stirred while being sprayed, otherwise the poison will sink to the bottom, as neither dissolves in water except to a slight degree.

Papa—It's no use talking, Emma; these Sunday evening meetings have got to be shortened. My latest gas bill was enormous. Emma—It's not my fault. It wouldn't be half so big if mamma didn't come in the parlor so often.

ALL medical authorities agree that catarrh is no more or less than an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nasal air passages. Nasal catarrh and all catarrhal affections of the head are not diseases of the blood, and it is a serious mistake to treat them as such. No conscientious physician ever attempts to do so. It is held by eminent medical men that sooner or later a specific will be found for every disease from which humanity suffers. The facts justify us in assuming that for catarrh at least a positive cure already exists in Ely's Cream Balm.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly. Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine.
