SAM JONES preaches the ten commandments and the sermon on the mount and hundreds of people are ready to say it is new doctrine and not to be tolerated and Sam must be squelched.—Wilmington Messenger.

EX-SPEAKER CARLISLE would be a great loss to the Democrats of the House and a great gain to the Democrats of the Senate. But it is probable that the gain on one side would more than compensate for the loss on the other.—Philadelphia Record.

A GREAT many people in the South do not sufficiently appreciate the fact that we are confronted by a serious situation. The recent speech of Speaker Reed at Pittsburg fully outlines the Republican programme, and that programme is revolutionary.—Mobile Register.

THE eternal fitness of things is exemplified in Chandler's howl about Southern elections. Chandler was a connoisseur in Southern elections in 1876. And it is a spectacle for the country to behold him now leading a movement to suppress alleged election frauds in the South.—Savannah News.

NOBODY doubts that census figures will be made to lie, deliberately and with malice aforethought, in whatever manner may be deemed best calculated to strengthen the Republican party. This is a grave offense against the sanctity of United States statistics; but the Republicans are desperate, unscrupulous and will hesitate at nothing that promises them advantage.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WE are waiting for this "consummation devoutly to be wished" before signifying our willingness to "depart in peace;" we are waiting for a realization of that position of independence which will enable the Democratic party to not only present a platform of principles broad enough for all classes but a national ticket of men whose rightful leadership is unquestioned, and who have no fear of the tomahawk and war paint of Tammany.—Fayetteville Observer.

GIVE us a man like Sam Jones, who, however gross and odd, is yet a man. When you hear Sam Jones you do not hear an echo of other men's thoughts, but ideas of his own manufacture. Every word is fresh from the furnace. He does not wear the conventional mask. He does not inhabit the social prison. He is worthy of imitation by all men. To a considerable extent, the pulpit, the press and the political platform of our country are bound with the iron shackles of public opinion and are in a state of putrefaction.—Mecklenburg Times.

THE debates in the House on the McKinley tariff bill for Monopoly will be very short by reason of the Radical attempt to stifle debate. They do not want their bill of abominations ventilated and exposed, but it will be on the hustings and in the newspapers if not in the Congress. Mr. Mills made an elaborate speech in exposure of the defects of the bill. We have thought that the best thing the Democrats could do would be to allow the bill to pass without debate. We think its adoption would guarantee the success of the Democrats in 1892. An exposure of its enormous defects may induce some Republicans in the House to take water and either refuse to vote or oppose its passage.—Wilmington Messenger.

The Retiring Board of City Council.

Of the board of city council who have just retired from office much has been said. Some have praised and some have censured the course of the administration, which is not strange, as all persons do not look at things from the same stand point, and all do not see alike when viewing from the same direction.

The JOURNAL is with those who see much to praise in the conduct of municipal affairs during the past year.

Mayor Williams has shown an energy and vim in the administration of his office that must meet the approval of all unprejudiced minds, while the financial affairs of the city have never been better managed by any treasurer in our opinion. We have heard of no shaving of vouchers at twenty-five per cent or any other per cent. Cash down has been the rule and we believe the invariable rule of payment the past year.

The board had considerable amounts to pay of debts contracted by former boards; had some unusual expenditures to meet in repairing one of the fire engines, and paying for some property purchased from one of the fire companies, and yet it has paid all current expenses, and an amount on the judgment debt of the city near on to one thousand dollars; paying, as we learn it has, the last voucher issued by the clerk before closing the account for the year.

Treasurer Ulrich has been prompt in publishing the payments and has thrown all the light on the transactions of his office that the most exacting critic could demand.

The financial condition of the cemetery committee has never been better than is shown by the reports of the committee, and the cemeteries never in better order than they are reported to be today. We speak particularly of these two departments because there is where the money goes and there is where the deepest interests of tax payers are centered.

The collector of taxes has been active, energetic and successful in a high degree in gathering in the shakels, and has received more from the source of license tax, the past year, than the year before by some eight hundred dollars. He has been prompt in collections; never offensively demanding, but courteously, obliging and indulgent where indulgence was possible.

The police department has been a decided improvement as all, we think, will admit, and in fact every department of the city has been well administered and no one can justly deny it. But the crowning acts of the board are the introduction of the electric lights which, together with the completion of the macadamized street, has done more to put the city on the line of progress and abreast of the advancing age than anything that has been done within the period of the last decade and will long be living monuments to the efficient and worthy deeds of the board of councilmen of 1889 to 1890.

The incoming board is pretty much an entire change and is composed of gentlemen who will not be satisfied with anything less than a creditable administration.

Mr. D. W. Stallings, the sexton of Cedar Grove Cemetery, has given entire satisfaction to the committee, and has proved acceptable to the citizens generally, who have commended him as honest and efficient, thoroughly acquainted with the duties of his occupation, and faithful in the performance of them. He has kept the grounds, shrubbery and trees in excellent condition from his appointment to the present time, the right man in the right place. Greenwood Cemetery is also in excellent condition. Robert W. Williams has faithfully performed the duties of sexton of that cemetery, and has given universal satisfaction; he thoroughly understands his business.
The maps of both cemeteries are very much dilapidated; new maps are badly needed.
The finances are in good condition.

It is to be hoped that the cemetery fund will continue to increase as it has done the past year, and that at no distant time the rock wall be extended entirely around our beautiful cemetery.

Expenses have been exceedingly light for the immense amount of work done in our cemeteries, which was owing to the fact that Sextons Stallings and Williams performed the greater part of the labor themselves.

Respectfully submitted,
B. B. LANE,
E. K. BISHOP,
V. A. CRAWFORD,
Committee.

We have carefully examined the books, accounts and receipts of the committee on cemeteries, have found them correct and approve the same.
W. P. BURRES,
H. P. KENNEDY,
Finance Committee.

The Memorial Exercises.

There was a large number of visitors in the city yesterday, the weather was pleasant, and the program of memorial exercises was pleasantly and impressively carried out. The large attendance and the interest manifested in the occasion are evidences that the beautiful custom of commemorating the noble deeds of our Confederate dead and decorating their graves with flowers, a custom inspired by true patriotism, is still justly popular among our people.

At 5 o'clock the theatre was filled with an audience composed of ex-Confederate soldiers, old men and young men, and women and children of all ages.

The printed program was carried out. Rev. Mr. George offered a beautiful prayer, which was followed by music by the choir, "God Save the South."

Gen. C. A. Battle, chief marshal, then introduced the orator, W. T. Cahoon, Esq., of Pamlico. Mr. Cahoon announced as the subject of his oration, "The second regiment of North Carolina State troops." It was a subject familiar to some of our citizens and interesting to a great many. Mr. Cahoon gave the history of this regiment during its valiant service of four years. The audience was attentive and appreciative.

The choir then sang "Cover them over with beautiful flowers."
"The Broken Battalion," a beautiful poem by Paul Hayne, was recited by Miss Rosa Ricard, and her rendition of the piece was complimented on all sides.

Music by the choir followed, a beautiful anthem, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

The procession was then formed by the marshal and assistant marshals, and headed by the N. B. S. F. E. band, proceeded to the cemetery.

The floral decorations were the most beautiful we have ever seen. The display was profuse and artistic. A large number of children with flowers were in the procession. The most attractive arrangement of flowers were two flags, a battle flag and a United States flag, which were much admired. The Confederate monument was beautifully wreathed in flowers.

The ceremonies concluded with the singing of "Guard Around the Tomb," with cornet accompaniment and the benediction.

To the Public.

The affairs of the Gas Company are in a most critical condition. If the consumers of gas appreciate their rights, it behooves each and every one of them to pay their bills promptly; not wait to have them presented two or three times. The consumption of gas has been very greatly diminished, while the expenses of conducting the business could not be decreased in the same proportion. The result of this has been an inability on the part of the Company to pay its claims as they matured. The present officers of the Company are unwilling to assume any individual liability for the sake of keeping these works open, and with no evidence of any late management on the part of the Company, we appeal to the generous public in the matter, looking alone to their support for success.

Issued by order of Directors,
S. W. SMALLWOOD, Sec'y & Treas.
Newbern Gas Light Company.
