GEN. BUTLER'S home in Lowell, Mass., is a palace. He is reputed to be worth $5,000,000, and his law practice is estimated at $100,000 a year.

The Committees of the Richmond City Council are unanimously in favor of devoting the Jeff. Davis Mansion to a museum for Confederate relics.

The Birmingham (Ala) Age-Herald favors such a qualification for suffrage in the South "as will disfranchise the illiterate and irresponsible."

EX-GOVERNOR SWINEFORD, of Alaska, will soon start a daily paper at West Superior. He predicts that in ten years that city will have 100,000 inhabitants.

SENATORS Vance and Ransom will be at Charlotte at the Mecklenburg Declaration. The flags will be sent says Senator Vance. The 20th May ought to be generally celebrated in North Carolina. It is a day of which to be very proud. Hurrah for the Mecklenburgers!

A WOMAN who escaped from an insane asylum at Newburg, Ohio, was found after a four months search by detectives quietly at work in a publishing house at Cleveland. She never once suspected that she was insane until informed of that fact.

The Memphis Appeal, just across the Mississippi river from Arkansas, says: "To elect next fall any other than a distinctly Democratic ticket would be to take a long step backward. One shudders when one recalls what were the consequences of Republican rule in Arkansas in the past."

The Chief of Police of Chicago has issued a general order to his men to stop the sale of cigarettes and whisky drops to boys under 16 years of age. The drops are made in the form of candy with several drops of whisky in the centre. Last week the police began arresting boys caught smoking cigarettes.

EVANGELIST FETTERHOFF called at the Reed City (Mich.) Democrat office a few nights ago, his purpose being to whip the editor. On this occasion again the editor was in, and when Evangelist Fetterhoff got through he was ready to affirm that he had played a leading part in a Louisville cyclone.

There never was a time when the South was attracting so much the attention of capitalists of the North and of England as now, and nearly all of the very large enterprises of which we read are backed by Northern or English money. Within the past few weeks $3,000,000 of New England capital have been invested in and around Chattanooga, and a million of dollars or more in the Greenberry iron property of this State. In Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Virginia also very large investments have been made within the past few months.—Wilmington Star.

In Raleigh, a few days ago, at a business meeting, a speaker said: "It is in our power—it is possible—to make Weldon or Fayetteville a Lowell, create a Pittsburg at Greensboro, an Evansville at Raleigh, a Grand Rapids at New Berne, a Ratland at Charlotte. Not only is it possible, it is inevitable." This is big talk, and yet it has a sound basis. Look at the Old North State, water power, tar, pitch, turpentine, cotton, tobacco, iron, coal, precious gums, gold, and everything that figures in a census report. North Carolina has lagged behind Georgia in the march of material progress, but she is coming to the front to stay. She has immense enterprises fairly started, and others are on the way. She is drawing millions of capital and a good class of immigrants. The Raleigh speaker is a prophet.—Atlanta Constitution.

Mayor's Court.

The following case was disposed of yesterday:
The City of New Berne vs. F. B. Lane.—Charge: riotous conduct and loud cursing in the city. The defendant was found not guilty, and discharged.

The M. E. Sunday-School Picnic.
The New street M. E. Church Sunday-school picniced at Wilkinson's Point, about twenty miles down Neuse river, yesterday. When the commodious steamer Manteo pulled out from her dock at 8:30 o'clock, there were on board, it is estimated, four hundred people. There were the merry, happy, frolicsome children, the mischievous small boys, the timid (?) youths and blushing maidens; the young men and young ladies whose "fancy lightly turned to thoughts of love"; the fathers and mothers who enjoyed the enjoyment of the young people; the "old folks," who sat and watched with complacency the scenes of happy childhood and youth. There was a flow of good humor, no accidents—nothing to make the picnic anything but a fine success.

The steamer Carolina was taken down for the purpose of transferring the passengers from the Manteo, which anchored some distance from the shore, to the landing place. The transferring was admirably done. With a strong wind and rough weather it was no easy thing to transfer such a large number of children without a single accident. Wilkinson Point was found to be a very pleasant place for a picnic. The high sand hills and beautiful shade trees make it picturesque. A delightful breeze kept up all day. The dinner was bounteous and prepared and served in an excellent manner. It was the largest picnic party that has left New Berne in many years. The day was very pleasantly spent by all who went, judging from the numerous expressions of satisfaction heard on all sides.

Major Graham Daves at Goldsboro. New Berne was honored this year with two calls from abroad for Memorial orators. Maj. Daves at Goldsboro and Mr. Jonathan Havens at Washington. From the Argus we copy the following in reference to the address of Maj. Daves:

Maj. Daves stepped forward with the grace of the old soldier that he is—and a braver never was—and with the ease and self-possession of an orator and scholar addressed himself at once to the meaning and purpose of the occasion.

His speech was an orate and beautiful tribute to the heroism of the immortal dead who wore the gray, and to the living heroes, as well, of the "Lost Cause," and to the nobility of the Southern wives and mothers—the inspiration of the Confederate soldiers. He also paid a glowing tribute to the no less noble Southern women of today who still keep green by these memorials the memory and the valor of those who stood shoulder to shoulder in that great conflict where brave men faced death and heroes fell for their dear Southland.

We regret our inability to give the speech in full, and we are unwilling to spoil its beautiful completeness by detaching a single fragment. It did not deal in flowery tropes, nor was there a single effort to soar into the realms of the unreal. It was, as we have said, an orate, beautiful, plain, instructive and inspiring oration, bristling with proud facts of history wherein Southern bravery won victories, and glistening with flashes of genius in thought and presentation that will long be remembered by his hearers, and will not fail to make their impress for good upon the young, especially, who listened to his words.

At the close of his address Maj. Daves recited the following beautiful poem of Paul Hayne, which, at the urgent request of a great many who heard it, we publish:

The sounds of the tumult have ceased to ring,
And the battle's sun has set,
And here in peace of the new born Spring,
We would fain forgive and forget;

Forget the rage of the hostile years,
And the scars of a wrong unshriven,
Forgive the torture that thrilled to tears
The Angels' calm in Heaven.

Forgive and forget? Yes, be it so,
From the hills to the broad sea waves;
But mournful and low are the winds that blow

By the slopes of a thousand graves;
We may scourge from the all thought of ill
In the midnight of grief held fast,
And yet, O, Brothers, be loyal still
To the sacred and stainless Past;

She is glancing now from the vapor and cloud,
From the waning mansion of Mars,
And the pride of her beauty is wanly bowed,
And her eyes are misted stars;

And she points with a tremulous hand below;
To the wasted and worn array
Of the heroes who strove in the morning glow
Of the grandeur that crowned "the Gray;"

O, God! they come not as once they came
In the magical years of yore;
For the trenchant sword and the soul of flame
Shall quiver and flash no more:—

Alas! for the broken and battered host;
Frail wrecks from a gory sea,
Tho' pale as a band in the realm of ghosts,
Salute them! they fought with Lee,

And gloried when dauntless Stonewall marched
Like a giant o'er field and flood,
When the bow of his splendid victories arched
The Tempest whose rain is—blood!

Salute them! those wistful and sunken eyes
Flashed lightnings of sacred ire,
When the laughing blue of the South-land skies,
Was blasted with cloud and fire:—

Salute them! their voices so faint today,
Were once the thunder of strife,
In the midst of the hottest and wildest fray,
That ever has mocked at life!

Not vanquished, but crushed by a mystic fate,
Blind nations against them hurled
By the selfish might and the causeless hate
Of the banded and ruthless World!

Enough: all Fates are the servants of God;
And follow His guiding hand;—
We shall rise some day from the Chastener's rod,
Shall waken, and—understand!

But hark, to the Past as the murmurs,
"Come
There's a duty still to be done,
Tho' mute is the drum and the bugle dumb,
And the Battle is lost and won!"

No palace is here for the heroes' needs,
With its shining portals apart;
Shall they find the peace of their "Invaides,"

O, South! in your grateful—Heart!
A Refuge of welcome with living halls,
And Love for its radiant dome,
Till the music of death's reveille calls
The souls of the Warriors—home!

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own intrinsic, undoubted merit.

OF IMPORTANCE TO OUR PORT.

Why is This Matter Not Attended To.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Section 3509, chapter 46, of the Code of North Carolina, prescribes that "Five persons who shall be residents of the town, respectively, and possessed of a freehold therein, shall be annually appointed commissioners of navigation, for each of the ports of New Berne, Washington and Edenton. Those for the ports of New Berne and Edenton shall be chosen by the free men of said towns respectively, who are entitled to vote for the commissioners of the towns, at the same time and in the like manner as are elected the commissioners of the respective towns; and those for the port of Washington shall be appointed by the county commissioners of Beaufort, at their first meeting of each year: and all vacancies in said boards, whether by refusal to act, resignation or otherwise, shall be filled by the remaining commissioners, until the same shall be done (which is hardly directed to be done) at the regular period of election."

Sec. 3523. "The several boards of commissioners of navigation may appoint a harbor-master for their respective ports. They shall appoint a clerk to keep books, in which a list be recorded all the proceedings."

The examination and appointment of pilots, the regulation of pilotage, the general care of the harbor, the safety of vessels and other property, the prevention of obstructions to navigation, and otherwise looking after the welfare and business of the port devolves upon the commissioners of navigation, and it is difficult to understand why a matter of so much importance, and a duty prescribed by law, should be so absolutely neglected by the people of New Berne.

IN RESPECT.

At a regular meeting of Neuse Council, No. 1, of N. C., Order of Chosen Friends, held in the city of New Berne, N. C., on the 13th day of April, 1890, the following preamble and resolutions were read and adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased God in His wise providence to remove Friend T. E. Mace from the companionship of the living and ceaseless round of daily duty, to the congregation of the dead, and the repose of the grave, therefore be it

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to the Divine will, devoutly believing that He doeth all things well, and that though often clouds and darkness are round about them, righteousness and judgment on the habitation of His throne.

Resolved, That in his death our Council loses an amiable and estimable friend, and a faithful and worthy member, one who loved our Order and took delight in its motto, "Fraternity, Aid and Protection."

Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved family our sympathy in this time of their sorrow, with the expression of our confident hope, though "the sun may go down while it is yet day," to the upright there ariseth light in the darkness.

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed upon the records of our Council, a copy of them be sent to the family of our deceased friend, in token of our appreciation of him, and kind regard for them, and a copy be sent to the DAILY JOURNAL with a request to publish.
